HOW TO WRITE

A GOOD

CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room, etc. for rent, or property for sale, start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public every day.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—WANT ADS THAT FAIL TO bring the desired results do so usually, not through a lack of readership, but because they are poorly worded or contain inadequate information.

8—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-9121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient ad-visor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open daily, Monday through Saturday 8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. for you call.

$2.60 INCREASE IN DRAFT BEER

The B.C. Liquor Control Board today raised the wholesale price of draft beer by $2.60 a barrel, bringing the cost to beer parlors to $41.30.

The move was confirmed by Ron Inman, manager of the Colony Motor Inn, who said the LCB told him of the price increase this morning.

In September the price of a glass of beer went from 20 cents a glass to 25 cents, but Inman said he did not expect hotel managers to ask the LCB for permission for a further increase.

A spokesman for the government liquor store on Government Street said he is not aware either officially or unofficially of any LCB plans to raise the retail price of beer sold over the counter.

Inman said the new price increase was small and probably was the result of increases in the brewery price of draft beer to the LCB.

India Hits Back

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Indian troops struck back and silenced Pakistani guns that had been shelling the town of Kamalpur on India's border with East Pakistan for 11 days, an Indian defence ministry official said today. He called the frontier incident "serious."

The official, joint defence secretary P. Krishnamurthi, also said that Indian anti-aircraft batteries fired on Pakistani aircraft that crossed the western frontier today and flew over the airport at Srinagar, capital of Kashmir.

The official radio Pakistan said that Indian troops had made two attacks in company strength during the day across the border into East Pakistan in an area north of the Kamalpur sector.

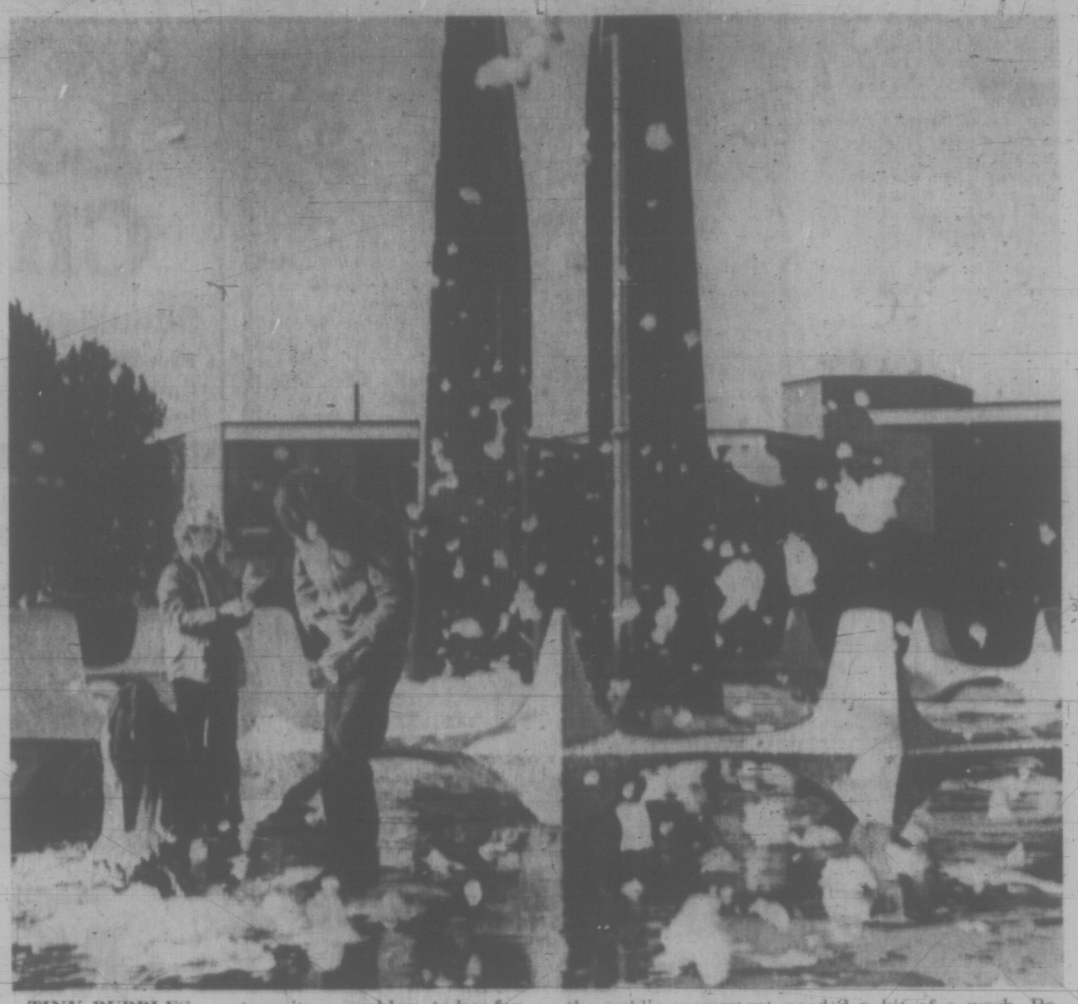
The Press Trust of India quoted official sources in Calcutta as saying today the government is placing all areas bordering East Pakistan off limits to foreigners without special permission. The news agency said no reason was given for the action but that there had been allegations of "espionage" by foreigners in the areas.

Krishnamurthi said in reply to a question that it was the first time retaliatory measures of the type had been taken. He said he did not know how many troops were involved.

He described as "a serious incident" the latest clash reported between Indian and Pakistani forces in the build-up of troops along their borders as a result of tensions arising from the East Pakistan civil war.

Radio Pakistan said the two Indian attacks were beaten off with a total of 32 Indians killed and 21 wounded. It said the attacks were launched after an artillery barrage.

The radio also said that Indian forces made another attack on a Pakistani post along the border with India's West Bengal state today. Three Indians were killed in the fighting, it said.



TINY BUBBLES create quite a problem today for city workmen after Halloween pranksters Sunday pulled the old bubble-bath-in-the-fountain trick at Centennial Square. Someone apparently thought the public monument needed a bit of a wash. Police didn't laugh too hard, however. They apprehended three youths Sunday shortly after the stunt.

Job Picture All Gloomy

Times News Services

OTTAWA — Gloomy forecasts for the winter's employment outlook prevailed as finance ministers and officials from the 10 provinces met Finance Minister E. J. Benson today.

Mr. Benson told the conference all signs point up for strong economic growth, but unemployment remains the primary problem.

Premier Allan Blakeney of Saskatchewan and Finance Minister Saul Cherniack of Manitoba criticized the federal government for acting too slowly and timidly in fighting unemployment.

Provincial Treasurer Darcy McKeough of Ontario caught the attention of conference delegates by releasing his main policy paper to reporters Sunday night. It called for credits on personal income tax to offset part of the burden of sales and property taxes on lower-income families.

WANT MORE DIALOGUE

Ontario also called for a revitalization of the process of federal-provincial tax and fiscal policy consultations.

Manitoba's analysis of unemployment prospects, tabled by Mr. Cherniack, showed unemployment declining only slightly next summer and then growing ominously again in the winter of 1972-73 almost to its current levels.

"These figures paint a bleak picture," the Manitoba brief said. "The unemployment rate falls only slightly as the effects of the recent federal measures work their way through the economy.

"The effect of the measures diminishes rapidly at the end of next year and unemployment for the following winter rises to exceed the levels predicted for this winter."

NOTES FORWARD THRUST

Ottawa has not made public its own forecasts for unemployment for the coming year.

Mr. Benson said there is a forward thrust in demand, production and employment, sparked by healthy consumer spending and government outlays. But he added that unemployment still looms large.

He said also that the cost of living rise appears to have

Quebec Again Says No

OTTAWA (CP) — The Quebec government says it won't participate in some federal measures to combat winter unemployment unless they are placed under greater provincial control.

In a statement today to a meeting of federal and provincial finance ministers, Quebec Finance Minister Raymond Garneau rejected a $50-million federal program of grants to community organizations undertaking winter works projects.

"Our goverament shall not participate in the administration of such a program and we wish to make it very clear that we will not undertake any share of the financing of such new projects unless they can be approved and assisted by virtue of already-existing provincial programs or budgets."

Britain on Full Alert After London Blasts

LONDON (CP-AP) — British authorities went on a full alert in Britain today following two bomb blasts in London while in Belfast terrorists killed two policemen in a machine-gun ambush.

Earlier in Belfast, another bomb was detonated in a downtown department store blowing debris and shattered glass into the street.

There were no deaths in either the London or Belfast bombings.

One bomb in London at 1:45 a.m. blasted the headquarters of the Royal Tank Regiment a quarter of a mile from Parliament. Earlier, the other ripped a gaping hole in the 31st floor of the Post Office Tower, the highest building in Britain.

First reports indicated the tower was blasted by the outlawed Irish Republican Army. But the IRA in Dublin, usually quick to claim the credit for anti-British bomb attacks, denied planting the tower bomb.

A Belfast police spokesman said the two detectives were gunned down in a suburban avenue when they went to investigate a reported burglary at a newspaper shop.

The killings took the two-year death toll in the fighting between Protestants and Roman Catholics in troubled Northern Ireland to 146, 12 of them police officers.

In the Belfast bombings, attributed to the IRA guerrillas, the blast injured six shoppers and pedestrians in the morning rush-hour crowd outside.

LIGHT BOMB FUSE

The bomb, wrapped in a duffel bag, blew out the ground floor of the Automobile Association, and a radio centre on Great Victoria Street. Ambulances rushed the injured, most of them cut by flying glass, to hospital.

The bomb was planted in broad daylight as shops and offices opened. An office clerk said two men armed with pistols walked into the building, lit the bomb fuse and yelled "you've got four minutes to get out."

Terrified office workers fled before the blast blew debris and shattered glass into the street.

Gunmen wearing masks invaded three more border customs posts Sunday night and today, forced the occupants to leave and planted bombs which destroyed the structures, an army spokesman said.

There were no injuries.

The attacks on the posts at Kilpawley, Stubane and Belleek came 24 hours after similar bombing raids destroyed eight other customs posts along the Northern Ireland-Irish republic border. The weekend attacks left only six posts still operative.

The death toll from violence increased by four over the weekend, bringing to at least 109 the number killed since August, 1969, when the army was called in to put down rioting.

In London, a mystery telephone call claimed both explosions there were set off by The Angry Brigade, a secret anarchist movement dedicated to wrecking British society by violence.

GROUP BLAMED BEFORE

An anonymous telephone call to the British Press Association claimed the Post Office Tower bombing was to protest Britain's entry into the Common Market and the blast at the army barracks was to demonstrate against the British government's handling of the crisis in Northern Ireland.

The Angry Brigade has been blamed for half a dozen previous explosions in London, including blasts at the home of a government minister and the head of the Scotland Yard police force.

NEWS BRIEFS

Littering Costly

REGINA (CP) — Beginning today police start issuing $3 tickets to anyone caught throwing refuse on streets. The action is aimed at anyone who discards or deposits any "type of refuse or like material in any public place which includes streets, lanes, boulevards, bridges, watercourses, parks or school yards."

Prank Death

BLACKFALDS, Alta. (CP) — Alfred Ralph Appema, 17, of Blackfalds was killed Sunday when his car struck a barricade of straw bales which police said were placed by Halloween pranksters. Police said charges would be laid if the pranksters are found.

Tito Expected

OTTAWA (CP) — President Josip Broz Tito of Yugoslavia arrives here Tuesday night to begin a five-day Canadian visit for talks with Prime Minister Trudeau, a news conference and an honorary degree.

Airport Tussle

LONDON (CP) — Thousands of demonstrators struggled with police today in an angry protest by Heathrow Airport workers against operations of the Canadian-owned company General Aviation Services. Workers fear the use of the company will cost jobs at Heathrow.

Bishops Defiant

ROME (UPI) — Ukrainian Catholic bishops announced daily today they are holding a synod in defiance of a Vatican ban on such a self-governing assembly.

Last Protest Before Blast

Plans are being made in Victoria today for a last-ditch protest Wednesday of the proposed nuclear test blast on Amchitka Island.

A meeting is scheduled for tonight at St. John's Anglican Church at 7:30 p.m. to organize the local protest, which will include high school and university students and supporters of the Amchitka Two protest group.

There is still some confusion of the time the protest Wednesday will take place, but organizers are trying to arrange an afternoon of speeches at Centennial Square, starting at 1:15 p.m.

SHUTDOWN CALL

Latest report indicates the test blast is scheduled for Thursday. In Washington, a federal judge turned down requests by American environmentalists to halt the explosion. U.S. District Judge George Hart's ruling frees lawyers for groups protesting the blast to file an immediate appeal to a higher court.

Meanwhile, the B.C. Federation of Labor has called for a half-hour "shutdown for survival" between 11 and 11:30 a.m. Wednesday to protest the explosion.

The 150,000 members of affiliated unions in the labor group were asked to cease work Wednesday to "emphasize our horror" at the test, said federation secretary Ray Haynes.

F. G. Peskett, president of the Employers Council of B.C., said his organization does not plan to take any position in face of the move by the labor federation.

WALK OUT

However, he hoped employees who stop work Wednesday will not expect to be paid for it.

Some students have indicated they plan to walk out of Victoria schools at 11 a.m. Wednesday but nothing definite will be scheduled until tonight's meeting.

Greater Victoria school board chairman Allan McKinnon said today he would have preferred the protest to take place on a Saturday or Sun-

CONSULATE BOMB TARGET

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg police have placed the United States consulate building as well as the home of consul-general William B. Kelly under 24-hour observation following an attempted fire-bombing of the consulate early today.

Police said a young man, believed between 20 and 25 years of age, attempted to throw a Molotov cocktail fire-bomb into the furnace room of the building about 1:15 a.m.

Police said the can of gasoline was thrown through a window, but hit the furnace which rests against the window and bounced back out. The burning fuse extinguished itself in the snow.

No arrests have been made.

Kelly said the consulate and his home will be under constant watch by police until Friday, the deadline for the U.S. nuclear test on Amchitka Island.

Kelly said he feels sure the attempted bombing was to protest the five-megaton test in the Aleutian Islands.

Oil Kills Birds

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Between 100 and 150 birds have been injured or killed in a navy fuel oil spill in San Diego Bay, state wildlife officials say. Commander C. C. Edwards of the naval station confirmed Sunday that a ship lost 1,000 to 1,500 gallons of distillate fuel oil.

Toll 15,000 In Tidal Wave

NEW DELHI (AP) — A 16-foot tidal wave swept through villages along the Bay of Bengal last Friday and local political leaders estimated, after a tour of the area, that 15,000 persons, perhaps as many as 20,000, had died.

The Indian government radio reported that at least a million homes had been destroyed or damaged so severely as to leave four million persons homeless in the newest disaster to afflict the Indian subcontinent.

The Cuttack and Balasore districts of eastern Orissa State, 250 miles southeast of Calcutta, appeared to be the areas hardest-hit by the tidal wave and accompanying cyclonic winds of up to 100 miles an hour.

The Times of India, in a dispatch from Cuttack, said air drops of food were urgently required in some areas where all roads, rail lines and air strips had been flooded or destroyed.

300,000 DIED IN 1970

A similar tidal wave last November killed at least 300,000 persons in the Gange River basin in East Pakistan, 300 miles northeast of this weekend's disaster area.

The latest storm passed Sunday from Orissa to neighboring West Bengal state, destroying homes and rice crops in coastal villages that only two months ago were ravaged by the annual monsoon floods.

The area in West Bengal is filled with East Pakistani refugee camps, although initial reports said most of the camps had escaped the brunt of the storm.

Quebec Evacuation

SHIPSHAW, Que. (CP) — An earth movement a mile from the scene of an earlier slide that killed 31 persons brought the evacuation Sunday of 285 residents of this town 115 miles north of Quebec City.

Forty-nine families in the east end of Shipshaw were evacuated on orders of government geologists.

The earth movement covered an area 125 feet wide.

It was about a mile from the slide at St. Jean Vianney May 4 which swept more than 40 homes into a huge crater and forced abandonment of the town.

Those evacuated spent the night in a junior college in nearby Jonquiere. However, it was not known how long the 49 families would remain there.

Desperate Mother Smashes Window in Food Depot

MONTREAL (CP) — A desperate mother of three smashed the windows of an emergency food depot in the southwest district of Point St. Charles Sunday night when she was told there was no food for her children.

"I did it because my babies were starving and no one would listen, said the unidentified woman. "What else could I do?"

The depot was expecting supplies gathered at an emergency food drive held this weekend in this proverty-ridden area. The drive was organized to help welfare recipients last through October, an especially difficult month this year.

Recipients are mailed welfare cheques once a month, but the cheques are geared to cover a normal four-week month. This October welfare recipients have to hold out a fifth week before receiving November's allotment.

The owners of the food depot refused to press charges, and the woman, who suffered a cut right foot from the flying glass, was released by police.

The woman's children, aged three months to five years, were temporarily abandoned during the incident. They were later fed milk and potato chips.

Stopgap Aid Bill Likely As Nixon Draws New Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate foreign relations committee confers today amid the ruins of the U.S. foreign aid program to start deciding whether, when and how to put it together.

Senator J. W. Fulbright, the committee chairman, predicted Senate approval of a stopgap aid program, although he said the committe may do no more than discuss the alternatives today.

President Nixon let it be known he wants temporary extension of a co-ordinated aid bill while he drafts a new assistance program.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, also urged passage of an interim program and called on Congress to develop a new bill "to keep the peace." He said he supports temporary extension of aid at existing levels.

METHOD IN DOUBT

The prospect was that major portions of the program would indeed be salvaged despite the Senate vote that killed a bill authorizing $2.9 billion to keep overseas assistance flowing.

Exactly how was another question. The resolution under which the aid program and the agency that runs it are financed will expire in 15 days.

The White House said Sunday Nixon rejects the idea of piecemeal appropriations for one or another of the aid programs included in the defeated bill.

If the temporary extension is approved, officials said, Nixon then plans to prepare and push for enactment of an entirely new aid program.

Fulbright said Sunday he foresees continuation of the more popular aid programs, although attempts to include military assistance could endanger any revival efforts.

Interviewed on the CBS news program Face the Nation, Fulbright did not rule out continuation of military aid to South Vietnam although he said such programs are "sticking points" threatening passage.

One program likely to be continued, he said, is money for Pakistani refugees.

PEKING FLAG FLIES AT UN

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The red flag of Communist China was hoisted for the first time today outside the United Nations, and diplomatic sources said Peking would move rapidly to assume its position as the fifth world power at the UN.

The red flag, bearing five gold stars, was listed as that of "China, the People's Republic of." A number of police cars were dispatched to the area but no protesters showed up as expected to denounce the Communists.

Although Peking is expected to move quickly to establish itself in the United Nations, UN sources said Peking still had not said exactly what day its representatives would arrive, or supplied a name list.

U.S. Ambassador George Bush, who lost his fight to retain Nationalist China's seat in the body, predicted Sunday that admission of Peking would bring about a triangulation of power in the U.N.

No B.C. Decision Yet On Moran Dam—Williston

Resources Minister Ray Williston was critical today of what he said appeared to be an attempt by the federal government to give the impression the province plans to go ahead with the Moran Dam on the Fraser River.

Williston was replying to a statement here Saturday by federal Environment Minister Jack Davis that whether to build the Moran Dam is a decision which must be made by B.C. residents.

Davis said he was opposed to the project and urged B.C. residents to rally to the opposition camp.

Williston said no decision has been made to build the dam. He said that although the decision is a provincial responsibility, "we would have to come to an accommodation with the federal department of fisheries" if the dam were to be built.

The minister admitted Ottawa could use its authoirty over the Fraser as a navigable river to stop the project, but he thought this would be unlikely.

Exercising that federal jurisdiction on the Fraser, he said, would commit Ottawa to more river projects that it now appears willing to undertake.

Williston noted that Ottawa has given B.C. no sign yet that it will meet its share of increasing costs for flood control in the Fraser Valley.

Original estimates for flood control projects, he said, came to $30 million, but these costs have risen to an estimated $66 million.

Studies of B.C.'s power needs through 1985 now underway by the B.C. Energy Board, said Williston, have no authoirty to force the government to accept any course of action.

He said the Moran Dam has no greater role in the board's studies than projects contemplated for the Stikine, Nass and Liard Rivers.

He emphasized that the province has not decided to build dams in any of these places. The energy board report is to be released in the spring of 1972.

day, instead of on a school day.

He said the school board can't condone students walking out to a protest even if the board wanted to.

McKinnon said the Canadian public has had ample time to show its feelings on the subject of Amchitka and that President Nixon is fully aware of Canadian opposition to the test.

Students who bring notes from parents will be excused from classes for the protest but those without notes will be marked absent. No disciplinary measures are planned, he said.

TAKE READINGS

A National Research Council aircraft left Ottawa this afternoon bound for Amchitka in the Aleutians to take radioactivity readings following this week's planned U.S. nuclear test.

Environment Minister Jack Davis's office said the aircraft, a North Star, would make several refuelling stops before arriving at the site. The five-megaton blast is scheduled for Friday.

At noon Davis met Prime Minister Trudeau to decide whether he (Davis) would be aboard the plane when it circles the three-mile U.S. territorial limits around the site after the test.

The plane's devices will supplement readings from 24 ground stations across the country.

If Davis is to be aboard, he will travel by commercial airline to catch up with the North Star later this week.

Meanwhile, the protest vessel Greenpeace Too plowed through heavy seas overnight northwest of Vancouver Island en route to its planned vigil at the edge of the territorial limits.

TOOK OVER

The vessel, a converted Canadian minesweeper, took over from the halibut boat Phyllis Cormack which carried the original 12-man Greenpeace mission to the Aleutians.

The smaller fishboat sailed from Vancouver Sept. 15, then returned back with fuel and food shortages when it became apparent the blast would not be set off in October as originally planned.

The minesweeper carries a crew of 30, including four from the origional Greenpeace.

In Vancouver, a planned exodus to Manning Park, 140 miles east of Vancouver, to protest the upcoming Amchitka nuclear test blast, was being re-evaluated today after heavy snow halted an advance party.

The two-man advance party of the Amchitka Exodus Council, which planned to prepare the way for passengers in 25 vehicles travelling to the park in a symbolic gesture of protest, returned to Vancouver Sunday after heavy snow and icy roads slowed their journey.

stabilized, except for rising food prices.

And he emphasized that the economic future is too clouded by the effects on Canada of President Nixon's Aug. 15 introduction of an extra 10-per-cent U.S. import duty and other measures to jack up the U.S. economy.

All provinces were represented by premiers or treasurers except British Columbia, which sent senior civil servants. Newfoundland was represented by Frederick W.S. Rowe, finance minister defeated in last week's election.

Premier Blakeney, who is Saskatchewan's provincial treasurer, said the new federal winter employment measures announced Oct. 14 may have come too late to do much good this winter. Moreover, he said, the program including a seven-per-cent cut in corporation profits taxes seems to benefit central Canada at the expense of the Prairies.

The "forward thrust" of demand, production and employment in the Canadian economy is continuing despite disturbing United States economic measures, Finance Minister Benson said.

At the beginning of the present economic advance, which started in the fall of 1970, "the pace was set by a strong foreign trade sector and growth of government expenditures," he said in a brief review of the Canadian economy.

"In most of this year the sources of strength have been consumer spending and housing as well as the government sector.

Business investment data, however, "have been showing a mixed picture."

Statistics for the second quarter of 1971 showed a good gain in investment expenditures but the value of contracts awarded and building permits issued were well below normal. Investment in manufacturing industries was down.

Mr. Benson suggested that low levels of inventories held by Canadian manufacturers may be causing sales to be lost to foreign suppliers as Canadian demand increases.

ENGINEERS SEEK DATA CONTROL

The B.C. association of Professional Engineers approved a motion Saturday urging the provincial superintendent of brokers to require that geological or engineering information in prospectuses come only from B.C.-registered professional engineers or geologists.

The motion, at the association's annual meeting at the Empress, followed earlier criticism of Kaiser Resources Ltd. which issued a prospectus in the summer of 1970 to raise capital funds for a coal development in the Fernie area.

Victoria engineer John D. Austin said the prospectus was based on data from a firm of U.S. consultants registered in Pennsylvania but not in B.C.

Austin said many of the difficulties encountered at the Kaiser site might have been avoided if the firm had had the advice of an engineer familiar with B.C. geology.

Kaiser started mining coal early in 1970 and almost at once encountered financial and production problems. The company, which last October estimated it would have to spend an additional $30 million to correct the difficulties, later renegotiated its contract with Japanese interests to get a higher price.

STEPS FOR HEALTH — 88-YEAR-OLD RETIRED DENTIST DR. JEROME G. HESS gave up his dentistry practice after 42 years because of his declining health in 1957.

Nine years later he started taking dancing lessons to get some regular exercise and ward off the aging process. It evidently worked. Last year Hess won a national foxtrot and tango title in Miami, Fla., and now — at the age of 88 — is training hard to defend his title in April. "I'll be ready," promised the retired dentist, who has been going to Fred Astaire Studios twice a week for lessons since 1965.

Judge 'Bombed'

Times News Services

STRAWBERRY PLAINS, Tenn. — A navy fighter-bomber accidentally dropped an air-to-surface missile on the home of a judge during a training flight Sunday morning, causing serious damage but no injuries, military spokesmen said.

A spokesman for the defence department said the plane, an AP4 Skyhawk, apparently returned without further trouble to the naval air station in Atlanta, Ga., after the mishap.

The spokesman said it was not known immediately what may have caused the accident.

The 900-pound missile fell through the roof of the home of Judge James Parrott of the Tennessee Court of Criminal Appeals.

The Pentagon said the missile was inert during what was described as "a routine reserve flight."

The 900-pound dummy bomb fell with a whistling roar.

Al Parrott, 16, said "I've never heard anything that loud before.

"I jumped up and tried to run out of the house, but I couldn't because there was a big hole in the floor of the hall," he said.

"The missile went right through the middle of the house and crashed through two floors and finally stopped when it hit a car in the driveway near the swimming pool," said the judge.

KOSYGIN ENDS CUBAN TOUR

By DUSKO DODER

HAVANA (CP) — Premier Alexei Kosygin flew back to Moscow Saturday, ending a four-day visit here designed to show ever-closer ties between the Soviet Union and Cuba.

Both Soviet and Cuban officials stressed privately that the visit was "very successful." A joint communique on talks between Kosygin and Premier Fidel Castro was to be made public later today. During Kosygin's visit here in 1967, Soviet-Cuban relations were at a low point and no communique was issued.

Kosygin's presence capped a two-year period of growing contacts between Havana and Moscow that resulted in increased Soviet aid to Cuba amounting to roughly 1.5 million daily as well as Castro's growing acceptance of the Soviet foreign policy line.

Emphasizing the friendly and relaxed atmosphere of the visit, Castro Saturday took an unusual step by flying Kosygin to the foothills of Sierra Maestra in Oriente Province, where the Cuban revolutionary movement was born in 1953.

"We were not Communist at that time," Castro told Kosygin as they visited a farmhouse in which Castro and some 120 rebels plotted an attack on government military barracks in Santiago de Cuba, some eight miles to the south.

Castro, 46, dressed in fatigue uniform and Kosygin, 67, wearing a short-sleeved shirt and a Cuban army cap, spent about one hour inside the farmhouse where Castro described in detail the tortuous path that led him from Sierra Maestra to power in Havana and eventually converted him to Communism.

Saturday, the Cubans gave the Soviet premier a warm sendoff, with the entire Cuban leadership present at the airport. Kosygin responded by embracing and kissing Castro and his brother, Defence Minister Raoul Castro.

Throughout his stay here, Kosygin appeared to be in high spirits and more relaxed than during his immediately preceding Canadian tour.

Speedy Brezhnev

PARIS (WP) — French President Georges pompidou gave last week's state visitor to France a metallic green "SM Citroen-Maserati," a fast and expensive French sports car. When Leonid Brezhnev of the Soviet Union saw his gift, he was so excited that he played with it for more than 20 minutes, disrupting his official schedule.

During his six days in France Brezhnev did most of the talking. He told a great many jokes, one French official relates, "some of them funny." Much of his humor was directed at his own foreign secretary, Andrei Gromyko.

In Marseilles, visiting a French firm that specializes in undersea exploration, Brezhnev announced that he would not get into one of the capsules which the firm sends to the bottom of the ocean. But Gromyko, Brezhnev said, could live in one of those capsules on the floor of the Mediterranean for three months — he had the boss's permission.

'Pollution . . . Not Cyanide'

"Industrial pollution" — not cyanide — likely killed hundreds of birds in Prince Rupert on Sept. 28, Rory Finegan, B.C. Fish and Wildlife Department biologist, said today.

He was commenting on a federal government agricultural department press release which said the deaths may have been caused by a high content of cyanide in berries.

Three out of seven birds teasted by Ottawa scientists had 15 to 200 parts per million of cyanide in them. A minute natural content of cyanide draws birds to berries, but this content increases from herbicide spray or from wilting due to frost.

Finegan said, however, if cyandie was the cause it would have caused a "catastrophic mortality" throughout the province.

Some of the seven or eight species of birds which were affected that day were strictly local, and therefore the cause must have been local, Finegan said.

On that day, according to residents, there was a bad smog hanging over Prince Rupert.

A smong that could make people choke and their eyes smart could be enough to kill birds, he said.

Earlier tests revealed that emission of sulphur dioxide from Columbia Cellulose pulp mill could have caused the deaths.

'Subversive' Anglican Dean Gets 5 Years in Prison

PRETORIA (AP) — The Anglican dean of Johannesburg, South Africa, was convicted Monday of subversion and sentenced to five years in prison.

Very Rev. Gonville A. ffrench-Beytagh was permitted to remain free on bail pending an appeal.

As Justice Petrus M. Cillie read the judgment, a spectator leaped to his feet and shouted: "This is a show trial." A policeman covered the man's mouth and hustled him out of the court.

Cillie said Dean ffrench-Beytagh was guilty of inciting or encouraging members of the Black Sash, a civil rights organization of women, to contravene the law. The clergyman had pleaded not guilty to charges in an indictment under the Terrorism Act.

Cillie told him: "I believe you acted out of conviction. In view of the position you have in the country and in the church, I think this is a case where I can impose a minimum sentence. I therefore sentence you to five years..."

If convicted on the most serious charge, Dean ffrench-Beytagh could have faced the death penalty.

Women wept in the crowded court as judgment was passed.

The authorities will continue to hold the dean's British passport during the appeal process and he must report in person once a week to police.

After Cillie finished reading the judgment, but before sentence was passed, defence counsel Sidney Kentridge told the court that his client "did what he did out of a sense of duty to God and man."

"He takes full responsibility for what he has done and for what has been done in his name."

A Public Stake in Hospitals

Members of the new Saanich Peninsula Hospital Society turned out 600 strong last week to elect officers and organize the administration of the extended-care institution proposed for Mount Newton Crossroad in Central Saanich. It is a measure of the public concern for the existing shortage of hospital beds that so widespread an interest is being taken in the new project. The 75 extended-care beds expected to go into construction next spring are part of a regional undertaking which will also provide 300 extended-care beds at Gorge Road Hospital and 150 at St. Joseph's Hospital.

The board of the new Saanich Peninsula institution will include only one member associated with Resthaven Hospital near Sidney, and he is a member appointed under the constitution. The meeting last week failed to elect a single Resthaven representative among the six seats filled. Resthaven for the past 50 years has been operated by the Seventh Day Adventist Church. The inference is that the public does not want church bodies in control of hospitals, particularly institutions which are supported by public funds.

The latter circumstance requires that operations or practices of a kind accepted by society even though contrary to certain religious teachings shall be carried on in the hospital, and a conflict of interest, and certainly an embarrassment, could arise. This complication may have been a factor in the decision of the Sisters of St. Ann to turn over management of St. Joseph's to a public body.

Apart from religious considerations, there has been considerable political controversy over the location of the Saanich Peninsula Hospital, with more than one municipality striving for the privilege of having the institution within its borders. But while there is something to be said for the location of an extended-care hospital primarily to serve residents north of Saanich, there is much less to be argued in favor of the northern site for the 75-bed acute-care hospital which — subject to a public referendum some time in the future — is the next phase planned for the Mount Newton Crossroad complex.

Some medical authorities point out that 75 beds is an uneconomic size for a hospital, resulting in higher costs per patient than would obtain in a larger unit. They note, too, the time required for doctors to drive out of the city to make their rounds of persons under care. But perhaps the most compelling argument against small, local hospitals compared with large ones in urban centres lies in the matter of equipment.

Quality hospitals today must have a great deal of costly equipment — monitoring devices, kidney machines; burns, heart and brain specialties; advanced X-ray equipment, and other sophisticated technical instrumentation. They must also have the trained personnel to operate the equipment.

A small hospital will not have sufficiently frequent call for these advanced inventions and skills, it is argued, and the result is that patients requiring them will have to be brought to the city hospitals where such special services are available. To stock and staff a small hospital for such care would be expensive and wasteful. But hospitals without these devices will not attract medical experts who depend on advanced equipment for their work.

The argument is thus that Victoria's two hospitals — St. Joseph's and Royal Jubilee — should be expanded to their largest economic size, which would be around 650 beds each, before money is poured into other acute-care institutions. This is something the new Saanich Peninsula Hospital board will have to study closely before the public is asked for funds to build an acute-care unit on Mount Newton Crossroads.

The only criterion for hospital location should be what gives the patient the greatest availability to the best care at the least expense. That may not be an easy selection, but it should be made free of all other considerations. With hospital costs now a major item in municipal, regional and provincial budgeting, some close decisions will have to be made for the future.

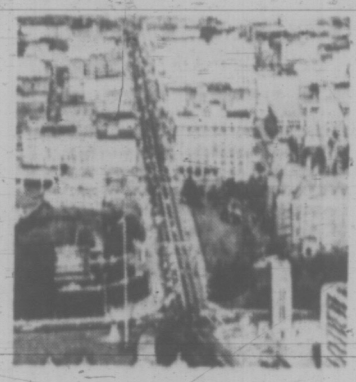
City Planning by Precincts

In your columns recently you drew attention to the importance of city planning as a major issue in the impending municipal election, and about a month ago you commented upon the study of the central area which the City of Victoria has commissioned me to undertake.

Your observations on the study dealt with the way in which the central area was being examined in respect of its precincts or clearly delineated areas. You suggested that this approach may well lead to an acceptable statement of what the "community should be and look like a generation from now."

The study has advanced rapidly. Projections on potential urban development for all the precincts into which the centre of the city is deviasable have now been made, and they are being examined and discussed by those whose interests have shaped each precinct. To do so I am being helped by a number of young and responsible citizens to obtain public opinion upon the issues which relate to the growth and development of the precincts. Each week they bring together people whose activities and concerns lie in a particular precinct to examine and discuss projections and related issues.

A number of such encounters have already taken place. They are to be continued until all the precincts have been examined and opinions have been obtained. Usually issues raised relate to the state of existing urban condition, the nature and the amount of urban development which can be expected to occur within the precinct, and the way in which such growth could be organized so as to bring about desirable environmental conditions.



Study has advanced . . .

By the end of the year the study will be completed and council will then have before it orderly, reasoned and partially tested propositions on the development of the heart of the city. An assessment of priorities will be made. Financial involvements bearing upon the private and the public sectors will be reviewed. Administrative measures for the realization of objectives will be put forward. In essence a scheme for an attainable pattern of urban environment within the central area in keeping with the City of Victoria will be proposed.

This way of dealing with the planning of the city can hardly be described as a "very costly — $10,000 exercise in pedantry," as Mr. Peter Pollen observed in his gambit for the mayoralty. Your plea for the best wisdom and judgment possible in facing the vital problem of city planning in Victoria in the coming year may yet be achieved if thoughtful and experienced skills in urban affairs are enjoined to assist political leadership. War Hazard in a Friendship Treaty

In the last few days there has been noticeable activity in line with Article 9 of the friendship treaty which provides for mutual consultation between India and the Soviet Union in the case of an attack or threat of an attack on either country. Soviet deputy foreign minister Firyubin was dispatched to India and, as a result of discussions, high-level Soviet military experts are being sent to New Delhi to study its defence requirements.

The response of one high Indian official indicates the fluidity of the situation: "We have been assured of essential supplies in case Pakistan should be stupid enough to attack us. We won't need foreign troops — we have enough of our own — and we won't permit foreign bases on our soil."

Should hostilities break out, the friendship treaty may prove to be more provocative than restraining. For the moment, though, India, alarmed by the flood of East Pakistani refugees and angered by recent shooting incidents on the Pakistan border, may merely be seeking reassurance, and the Russians may be urging patience on their aroused Indian clients.

East Berliners Do Not Choke

In a democracy a very important right — that of free speech — should be treated with great responsibility, that means before people voice opinions they should be thoroughly informed.

The article by Donald Stainsby (Oct. 25) mirrors the opinion of some people who have run away from socialist countries. For a balance of opinion maybe Canadians should get their information from the millions of people who have stayed in those countries in spite of difficulities, or from people who have lived and worked there for several years.

I do not put much weight on articles by "tourist" reporters who in many cases cannot even converse in the language of the people they are writing about. "The drab emptiness of East Berlin" is an interesting example to investigate. It leaves the faulty impression that people there lead a dreary life, clinging desperately to some excitement coming to them from the West.

The fact that East Berliners do not choke as yet in exhaust fumes doesn't mean that they don't get anywhere. East Berlin has an efficient (uninterrupted by strikes) railroad, bus and train system; its subway compares most favorably with the incredibly filthy New York subway, for example. There is no unemployment, and welfare or charity would be regarded as intolerable insults.

Out of the approximately 50 girls whom I have known through school and university not a single one is heaving bulldozers or cranes about or sweeps the streets, as we are so often made to believe here. One of my two girl friends is a designing engineer for the shipbuilding industry. The other runs her privately-owned printing shop; she has studied (for free) to become a master artist-printer. There is a variety of colorful and mentally demanding jobs for women whose children are expertly taken car of in factory-owned kindergartens. The Victoria Times "Help Wanted" section would look like a sad joke to most of them.

East Berlin activities . . .

Merchandise is of good quality and variety, even if it has not reached the glittering and sophisticated stage of West Berlin shops, but then East Germany did not have any Marshall Plan aid, and the average wage earner in West Berlin can hardly afford what is displayed on "Kudamm."

I lived and worked in East Berlin for several years and was single then which gave me plenty of opportunity to explore places to go for relaxation after work. A "few half-empty restaurants" is not what I remember. There are the opera, the state theatre, the symphony, the Brecht Ensemble, theatre workshops, poetry readings, jazz sessions, variety shows, the circus, the beautiful Tiergarten, and cosy inns and dance halls virtually at every corner.

When I compare East Berlin with major North American cities in which I have spent an equal amount of time, I do not think its people are deprived of anything. Victoria has plenty of cultural life also, but it an exception to the rule. When after my nightshift in Calgary I waited for the bus, I often wondered what is there to do for young people at night except for aimlessly racing through the main streets.

Maybe my impressions were superficial, too, but then I did not — although I speak English — pretend to write an "expert" article on Canadian life.

"The "bad" of socialist countries has been trodden out enough, and I do not imply it does not exist. But why not be honest and give credit where credit is due? Isn't that what makes international peaceful relationships, on a personal and national level, flourish? Mrs. Anneliese Hlavac, 1460 Oliver St.

JAMES RESTON

Will They Use It or Help It?

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The vote to bring Peking into the United Nations and to expel Taiwan changes the procedures but not the realities of world politics.

The realities remain the same. China's power rests on her vast population and territory, and not on any seat in the UN. The vote does not diminish the power of the United States, the Soviet Union or the other major powers, but it does give Peking a new platform, new influence and new procedures for engaging in the work of the world.

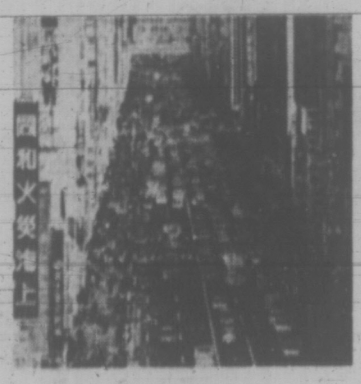
Accordingly, much will depend now on how Chou En-lai and his associates in Peking react to China's new responsibilities as one of the five permanent members of the UN Security Council — whether they accept the vote as an invitation to help in the peaceful settlement of world disputes — the main purpose of the UN — or whether they attempt to use the UN as an instrument of their own national ambitions and of world revolution.

Delayed Answer

It will take time to get an answer to this question, but meanwhile the vote is clearly only the first of a number of obvious changes. There will be a faster movement now among the nations to establish diplomatic relations with Peking. Belgium did so a few hours after the vote — though this was obviously in train before — and the leaders of many of the major nations observing President Nixon's coming visit to Peking, will be lining up to follow him.

The effect of the vote will be more important and immediate in Japan, now coming to the end of the Sato regime, and already in the middle of what promises to be a critical election. Tokyo is not likely to move too fast until the U.S. Senate has approved the "reversion" treaty which hands back Okinawa to Japanese control, but thereafter, there will undoubtedly be considerable pressure on Premier Sato or his successor to establish diplomatic relations with Peking, even if this means weakening Tokyo's ties with Chiang Kai-shek.

The U.S. has an immediate problem too with Generalissimo Chiang. Despite all the efforts of the Nixon administration to keep the UN from voting to expel Taiwan, Chiang Kai-shek is known to feel that President Nixon's decision to visit Peking was the critical decision in this whole question of who should represent China. It is understood that he discussed this in the bitterest anti-Nixon terms with former Premier Kishi of Japan before the vote. So the Nixon administration has a problem of how to reconcile its relations with Taiwan and its forthcoming negotiations with Peking.



Tokyo under pressure . . .

Other nations have similar problems as a result of the vote. Not only Japan, but the Philippines, Australia, and New Zealand, which went along with the strategy of keeping Taiwan in the UN, are now in the embarrassing position of working out new relations with an increasingly influential Chinese Communist regime.

The Sato government in Tokyo, keeping in mind the importance of getting that Okinawa reversion treaty through the U.S. Senate, agreed to co-sponsor the Washington resolution in favor of Taiwan, despite savage political opposition at home, but other governments now have similar problems of coming to terms with Peking.

On the other hand, the vote eases problems for Washington more than it does for Tokyo and other capitals. Henry Kissinger has just come back to Washington from Peking, presumably with an agenda for the forthcoming talks between President Nixon and Chou En-lai. The chances are that it will now be easier for the Chinese Communists to talk about the future of Asia with Nixon after their victory than it would have been if the president's policy and tactics had prevailed in the debate and Taiwan had been kept here as a potential government of China. Also, the Nixon-Chou En-lai visit is now likely to take place sooner, probably this year.

Ironically, Nixon, because of his defeat, now finds himself in a better position to go to both Peking and to Moscow and talk objectively about the basic problems of security, arms reduction, other hangovers from past wars.

Open Talks

Alone among the leaders of the Big Three, he is able to talk openly to the other two. Moscow is not in a position to talk to Peking on similar terms, or vice versa, but Nixon can now negotiate, not because he planned it that way, or because he won in the UN, but precisely because he lost.

No doubt he agrees, at least in public, with Secretary of State Rogers that the vote in the UN is "regrettable" — for he does not like to lose spectacular battles in the UN, the Supreme Court or anywhere else — but as a result of losing at the UN he now has more flexibility on the world scene than he had before.

He has been talking a great deal about arranging a "generation of peace" and meanwhile getting out of Vietnam, and it is hard to see how he can do either unless he can come to some kind of accommodation with the Communists in Peking.

This was always the argument, in terms of power policy, at least, for his initiative in bringing Peking into the UN. He went about it in ways that were morally defensible and even admirable, but also in ways that were unacceptable to Chou En-lai. What the UN has done, by rejecting his advice, is to give him and the UN a chance for a new beginning.

Why Use Outside Labor?

In spite of thousands of words written by editors, commentators, columnists and news reporters, there seem to be some aspects of life about which information is not available to the reading public. Hence the following questions are posed.

In view of the alleged shortage of job opportunities for youth in B.C., why was it necessary to bring men from Portugal to build the extension of the PGE Railway? Why were not the jobs made available in the usual way through government employment services?

Again with reference to alleged shortage of job opportunities why has it been necessary for the mining industry of B.C. to attempt to recruit workers in Europe, Great Britain and Japan?

Why is the federal government supporting in Bordeaux, France, a college to train personnel for the Canadian public service?

Why did not Victoria papers report the recent meeting in Ottawa of delegates from French-speaking countries, at a conference held to further the use of the French language and promote French "culture?" Why should the Canadian taxpayer be supporting a league, to the extent of millions annually, to assist French interests in other countries?

These are just a few of the many questions that are left unanswered, why?

NELSON — The veteran prospectors, Dick Roberts and Alec Robb, who are working with A. S. Johnson, storekeeper and postmaster at Poplar, claim to have discovered the famous lost mine of the Bayonne country, and show some old hand-made, tar-covered fuse and a box of caps, which they assert had been left from the previous workings over 23 years ago. There is rich ore in the 200-foot tunnel as well as in the surrounding rock, and the samples brought in are of high value.

In Rhodesia They Tend Not to Notice

By PETER NIESEWAND
Manchester Guardian

SALISBURY, Rhodesia — Mrs. Joanne Hart, manageress of a coffee bar in the centre of the industrial city of Bulawayo, was surprised and upset when three customers came in and tried to order. They were black.

Explaining later why she had put up the city's first "Europeans Only" sign in the entrance, Mrs. Hart said: "Three Africans actually walked in here and sat down. It is very difficult and one doesn't want to hurt anyone's feelings, but if this is not checked, I am eventually going to have a complete African community here."

Mrs. Hart's husband made her remove the sign after a newspaper started asking questions, but there was considerable white sympathy for her stand.

In Salisbury, there are perhaps half a dozen "Whites Only" signs — mainly on public lavatories. But Rhodesian-style apartheid extends much further than this. The lack of signs may well be for the benefit of tourists. They certainly are not for the assistance of Rhodesian Africans.

■

Just as the African men were turned away when they tried to buy cups of coffee from Mrs. Hart, so restaurants, bars and cafés usually refuse to serve black Rhodesians. Unlike South Africa, where at least apartheid is open and, I suppose, honest, Rhodesia hides it away, as if ashamed.

Not everything here is segregated — not yet — although there are plans to extend the system. At the moment, Africans can go to cinemas and theatres, swim in some public pools, and travel on buses with whites. But as they walk into a restaurant or a bar, they never know if they will be refused service and told, usually politely, to leave. However polite the refusal, it stings.

In the current talks with Britain on a settlement of the six-year-old independence dispute, one of the subjects under discussion is the removal of racial discrimination. Most Rhodesians do not believe there is racial discrimination here, so they have not given the matter of its removal much thought.

Whites overlook the hidden apartheid in bars and cafés. They have a facility for thoughtlessness. They tend not to notice Africans (unless the black man is in a position of social equality, in which case whites can hardly keep their eyes off him) and so occasionally tell anti-African stories while a waiter, or a houseboy, staves into space a few feet away and pretends not to hear.

A white Rhodesian wrote angrily to the "Rhodesia Herald" a few months ago, and the letter is so typical of attitudes here that it is worth quoting in full:

"Sir — The other day I entered a Salisbury hotel and asked for a drink. I was refused on the grounds that I was accompanied by an African nurse. I explained that she would wait outside while I was being served, but it made no difference. Owing to arthritis, I am compelled to have a nurse. Surely such a refusal to a sick person is barbaric in these days? — Wheel-chair Patient."

It is pointless drawing attention to other barbaric attitudes, because most whites do not seem to understand, and in any case, will immediately label you a "liberal troublemaker," or "commie sympathiser," or as one lady put it to me at a dinner party: "Why don't you pull yourself out of the slime in which you're wallowing?"

Certainly, it is easy for a white man to ignore racial realities. To this day, there is little evidence of tension in Salisbury. The black townships a few miles away are as remote as Vietnam, and the houseboys' kias (usually one small room) at the bottom of the garden are unseen and unsightly behind hedges of hibiscus or granadilla or potato creeper.

The only contact between most whites and most blacks is on a master-servant basis. Dawn's first African brings the tea, removes the cigarette stubs, washes the glasses of the night before, and cooks breakfast.

If he has a kia, his wife and children are forbidden to live with him (he is in a white area, remember), and often have to stay miles away in a remote black reserve. The splitting up of families, on the few occasions it forms part of a white man's thinking, is considered unavoidable, and forgotten.

One of the things that draws whites to Rhodesia is the cheap labor: a houseboy will start work at 5:30 a.m., and finish at 9 p.m., six days a week, for about 25 new pence a day. Food, uniforms, and accommodation are usually provided. The average white salary in Rhodesia is $350 a month. The average urban African gets about 10 per cent of that — between $20 and $39.

But even highly qualified Africans are often at a considerable disadvantage. The latest example of this is the introduction by Mr. Smith's administration of discriminatory pay scales for teachers.

A certificated four-year trained graduate, leaving the university at the end of this year, would start on a salary scale of $3,540-$6,660 if he was white. However, if he was black, he would go on to the scale $2,820-$4,824 — a disadvantage of $720 on the lowest rung, and $1,836 on the highest.

■

Not many white Rhodesians have been exercised by this: nor, on the surface, have many black teachers. In the African social structure, they are still doing very well indeed, and if they do cause trouble (demonstrating, or going on strike) they will simply be fired. There are few vacancies for houseboys with BA degrees.

But hundreds of pupils protested spontaneously on behalf of the black teachers. They didn't smash a single pane of glass, but they were outside the laws of Rhodesia and the wishes of the authorities. The cost of making their voices heard in peaceful demonstrations was heavy.

At lease 25 university students had their government grants withdrawn because of their "irresponsible" behaviour. Dozens of school-children were flogged, and at least 25 were expelled. Instructions were given to headmasters that they should not be allowed to return to school next term. Some student teachers — perhaps as many as 20 — were also expelled.

White Rhodesians are genuinely amazed to see a "local" African who isn't serving tea, or gin, and who could be their intellectual superior. A white woman — Crimplene dress, ear-rings, gold sandals — was making her way through the crowded balcony of Salisbury airport. As she pushed past an African woman, she said kindly: "Excuse me, nannie." "I'm not a nannie," said the African woman. "I'm a BA Honours English."

Future of the UN at Stake

THE NATION
An Editorial

This fall the ostensibly obligatory UN sanctions (against Rhodesia) mark their fifth anniversary as a monument to hyprocisy.

A Nixon administration source claims that only Britain and Sweden besides the United States have unswervingly respected this paper wall. Another source even questions Britain's sincerity. Sanctions have bought time for Smith.

In return for some economic inconvenience, the British fiction that Rhodesia is still a colony has protected Smith's regime from directly confronting its critics.

The time that Smith has bought now seems to have worked in his favor. The Conservative government in London is even more accommodating than its Labour predecessor.

In Washington the Senate voted 44 to 38 on October 6 to resume imports of Rhodesian chrome, principally from mines owned by Union Carbide and Foote Mineral, both of which lobbied strongly for the measure. A key factor in the vote was the unpaired absences of Presidential hopefuls Harris, Jackson, McGovern and Muskie. Unless the amendment is removed in conference, or the President vetoes the entire military procurement bill to which it was appended, the United States on January 1 will join South Africa and Portugal as the only nations publicly and voluntarily breaking sanctions.

Any White House expressions of regret about the Senate vote would have a particularly hollow ring, since the Administration kept its lobbying against the measure on a pro forma basis and refused to issue any public statement before the Senate's final tally, despite a telegram from the black caucus.

Meanwhile, an Administration spokesman said sanctions are a "short-term measure to create pressures (on Rhodesia) for a settlement with the United Kingdom." Completely missing was the suggestion, once routine, that the settlement must be "satisfactory" or "acceptable" in terms of inducing social and political change in Rhodesia.

If Smith refuses to give Britain even a fig leaf of a settlement, London can blame Washington for the failure and can then dismantle its own sanctions on the ground that it is useless to continue them without the United States.

Smith, and those who think like him here and in Britain, need to be reminded that sanctions against Rhodesia will remain until the social goal is achieved. In 1966, the United States and Britian voted in the Security Council for the proposition that Rhodesia constitutes a "threat to the peace" under Chapter VII of the Charter, which provides for eventual collective force if necessary. Any attempt, even by the British who originally proposed the mandatory sanctions, to undo this work is certain to lose, if needed be by Soviet veto.

For the world organization to backpedal now would reduce it to the kind of laughing stock that sanctions made of the League.

Without exaggeration, it is fair to say that the future of the United Nations as an effective mechanism is at stake in the Rhodesian question. Outside the U.N. framework, the only thing frustrated Africans could do would be to fan the smoldering Sino-Soviet competition to muster the force necessary for a shooting war.

'Strong Smell of Corruption'

By RICHARD WEST
New Statesman

The Common Market debate at this year's Conservative Party conference may draw attention away from the government's decision to reach a settlement with the Rhodesian regime.

Britain's negotiator, Lord Goodman, has recommended accepting terms which he and Smith have agreed. Based on the 'five principles' for the eventual achievement of black majority rule, the terms include a subsidy by Great Britain towards African education.

★ ★ ★

As a reciprocal gesture, Smith will release the 117 'detainees,' including Joshua Nkomo, head of ZAPU, which gets its support from the Soviet Union. The amnesty will not, however, apply to the Reverend Ndabaningo Sithole, and other Chinese-backed ZANU leaders who are in prison on criminal convictions.

Friends of Lord Goodman are saying in private that a settlement on his terms will prevent the whites getting their throats cut for the next 25 years, though it could provoke guerrilla activity.

However, it should be pointed out that Goodman was not sent to Rhodesia to bring back an estimate of the result of a settlement. His brief was simply to get a settlement on the best possible terms. His role might be compared to that of a kind family lawyer sent to get some embarrassing letters from a cousin who has turned out to be a blackmailer.

It was Winston Churchill who said of Rhodesia, 50 years ago: "It will be an ill day for the native races when their fortunes are removed from the impartial and august administration of the Crown and abandoned to the sea of self-interest of a small white population. Such an event is no doubt very remote. Yet the speculator, the planter and the settler are knocking at the door."

It was Harold Macmillan who said that dealing with the Rhodesian government was like dealing with a Sub-Committee of West Sussex County Council. The present regime might be compared to a Sub-Committee of West Sussex County Council under the influence of Cosa Nostra. There is a strong smell of corruption about the men round Smith.

A typical example is Denis Divaris, Chief Whip to the Rhodesian Front, and the architect of the Property Owners' Protection Bill, which makes it possible to evict Asian or Coloured house-owners at the wish of 15 anonymous white neighbors.

The business practices of the Divaris brothers — Liquor Self Service Ltd., Belvedere Supermarket Ltd., Kensington Bottle Store Ltd., VIX Cash 'n Carry Supermarket Ltd. etc., etc. — are so notorious that they have recently come into a Salisbury court.

★ ★ ★

Indeed Smith himself is not well known for financial probity. Once, when some barren land of his was about to be flooded as part of a hydro-electric plan, Smith planted a few fruit trees to bump up his compensation. The judge at the subsequent hearing described Smith as the most devious witness he had ever listened to. Perhaps Smith, who has accepted numerous gifts of racehorses, cattle and stud bulls, should consider the fate of Adnan Menderes, a Turkish Prime Minister who was hanged for having accepted the gift of an Afghan hound.

Any settlement that relies on the good faith of Smith is bound to be meaningless. Already he has spread the word to grassroots supporters of his Rhodesian Front that he will not be bound by the five principles.

It is claimed by some liberal and sincere men like Lord Goodman that he will not dare to renege on the terms of a settlement, for fear of standing condemned at 'the bar of world opinion'. But world opinion has not affected the white regimes in South and South West Africa. All that Smith has to fear is his own right wing, should he not be ruthless enough in imposing apartheid.

According to the Rhodesia Herald, Lord Goodman is known to the blacks as Lord Badman. Those who will be at the receiving end know the consequence of a settlement. The only question in doubt is why both sides want a settlement at this time.

The pressure on Smith is largely financial. The asbestos and tobacco industries are still suffering badly from the effect of sanctions. Although mining production has trebled since UDI, a fall in the world prices of metals has kept this revenue. There is a serious shortage of railway equipment, trucks and tractors. Indeed the shortage of money has prevented the regime from introducing a more ruthless apartheid policy.

With sanctions lifted and British investment pouring in, the Rhodesians will be able to pay for South African-style apartheid.

THE DAWNING OF A NEW WATERSHED

By JOHN NICHOL

A watershed is to a political writer what a nugget is to a sourdough. It is what he looks for, and what he hopes to find.

If there is one thing a political pundit really loves, it is a "watershed." The fact that most watersheds turn out, in the light of history, not to have been watersheds at all does nothing to reduce the thrill of the chase.

In the 1950s, the press was filled with them. In the days of the Pearson minority governments, there was one a week — sometimes two. The sky was always about to fall down and political comment was an exciting and rewarding enterprise.

But since the Trudeau majority government took over in 1968, the pace of events has been irritatingly even. True, the FLQ crises was a terrible explosion of violence in what we have always thought of as a peaceful land. And true, the lurching, backfiring performance of the economy has made us all quite car-sick. But, these are not watersheds.

Suddenly, though, in August, Mr. Nixon produced a beauty right out of thin air. We haven't really had a crisis in our relations with the United States since the War of 1812. We have one now — a genuine, 100 per cent, solid gold watershed, live and in color. In fact, we have two!

The first is the obvious one, which says "prior to Aug. 15 we got along well with the U.S.A. — now we do not." There's some truth in this — and it is most important.

But, the second watershed is more serious, and goes much deeper. Nixon forced the question. He didn't even know he asked it. But we have to answer.

It goes like this. Since the end of the depression, we have never had to manage our economy. "Tinker with" perhaps — but not "manage." We were rich, we said. We had natural resources, and we were a thrifty hard-working, commonsense people. Such a combination, we said, automatically produces wealth, which can be redistributed, through the tax laws, to even out the injustices of our society. And we were right — up to a point — and up to now.

As a nation, we have never had to make money. It was there. So, since we didn't have to make it, we have devoted 30 years to learning how to spend it. But suddenly, it isn't available just by turning on the tap.

Jobs and cash are going to be scarce this winter. The world is not rushing, as we were told it would, to buy our products.

So, here is the watershed. The governments of the last 30 years have been in the business of distributing wealth. Now, they have to start producing it — or they will have nothing to distribute. What a shock!

Spending money is much easier than making it. And at spending it, we've become slick as a whistle. Now we have to learn how to make it. That, to coin a phrase, is a watershed.

War of the Worlds Again Causes Furore

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Scores of Buffalo residents thought interplanetary warfare had broken out in their own backyard Sunday night, as a local radio station broadcast its version of H. G. Wells' classic War of the Worlds.

Station WKBW had presented its takeoff on the simulated newscast the last three Halloweens, and it had repeatedly broadcast promotional messages about the planned broadcast throughout the day. Nonetheless, the station's switchboard—and those of area police agencies—lit up with calls.

The Buffalo program employed voices of WKBW reporters in its "on the scene" reports.

The original Wells production in 1938 caused a country-wide furore. In Buffalo, police described the public reaction Sunday as "nervousness," rather than panic.

Well over 100 persons phoned the Buffalo police starting when the show began shortly before 11 p.m. as a bogus "bulletin" announcing a Martian landing at nearby Grand Island.

SWAMPED WITH CALLS

A lone disc jockey at the station, Bruce Kaplan, said he was swamped with calls.

He said two teen-agers came to the station to tell him they had been frightened despite the fact that the program was preceded by a five-minute explanation of its nature, and was interspersed with reminders that the broadcast was only fantasy.

The Associated Press in Buffalo received a telephone call shortly before midnight Sunday night from a Boston television station. The station reported it had monitored a New York City broadcast that said an "explosion" had occurred in Buffalo and the national guard had been called up.

A quick check with the police deflated the rumor, but meanwhile The Courier-Express newspaper said it had received similar messages from the Boston Globe and the Washington Post.

The Buffalo program—written and produced by program director Jefferson Kaye—followed the original H. G. Wells format closely.

It was Halloween Eve, 1938, when actor Orson Welles, then 23, flashed the news of a Martian invasion on the Mercury Theatre of the Air over the CBS network.

Opening with an advisory statement that the show was fictional, the dramatization then provided a weather report, followed by dance music that was interrupted by a bulletin that creatures from outer space had landed in New Jersey.

As in the original, the Buffalo production featured "live" reports of the invasion with news media men reporting by walkie-talkie.

'Sun' Makes Debut With 75,000 Copies

TORONTO (CP) — The Sun, this city's new daily newspaper, made its debut on schedule today at 5 a.m., with 75,000 copies hitting the street.

The 48-page tabloid, staffed by 60 former employees of The Telegram which ceased publication Saturday after a history of 95 years, is selling for 10 cents a copy.

It will publish mornings Monday through Friday, with no home delivery.

Douglas Creighton, Sun publisher, said in an interview the paper contained ample advertising. Eleven full-page ads were carried and Mr. Creighton said the paper had more advertising available than could be used.

The first edition featured short news stories, columns, heavy sports coverage, entertainment and extensive use of pictures.

"We have no sacred cows, no editorial taboos," The Sun said in its first editorial. "We define ourselves as a politically non-partisan voice of moderation."

The newspaper's offices are in an old downtown office building while the paper is printed on offset presses at Inland Publishing Co. Ltd., in nearby Bramalea.

Toronto's other morning newspaper is The Globe and Mail. The only afternoon newspaper is The Star.

The Star, in order to serve former Telegram readers, will print 622,000 papers daily compared with last week's average of 435,000. On Saturdays, the number will jump to 815,000 from the former 568,000.

The press run reached 337,000 copies.

The Sun announced its board of directors today also.

Edward Dunlop, Toronto lawyer and businessman who was Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for York-Forest Hill until he retired before the Oct. 21 Ontario election, is president of the board of directors.

Other board members include R. P. Bratty, Toronto lawyer; Mr. Creighton; John H. Daniels, executive vice-president of Cadillac Development Corp.; John S. Grant, Toronto lawyer and mining director Donald Hunt, Sun general manager; H. H. Soloway, Toronto lawyer and chairman of the Jewish board of education; and P. J. Worthington, executive editor.

Montreal Tabloid

MONTREAL (CP) — The Daily Express started publication today as Montreal's second English-language morning daily.

The tabloid is an off-shoot of The Sunday Express, started in 1969 by Montreal publisher Joseph Azzaria. The newspaper is to be published daily, except Saturday.

The first edition of the daily, on sale at Montreal newsstands only, contained 40 pages, 16 devoted to sport. The remainder contained a smattering of local and Canadian news, women's news, a variety of international news, much of it dealing with the entertainment world and crime, and more than 30 columns of local advertising.

It sold for 10 cents a copy compared with 20 cents for the Sunday edition.

YOUR TAX DEDUCTIONS BEFORE COMMITTEE

OTTAWA (CP) — MPs will pick apart pieces of the government's big tax bill this week that propose new personal deductions for Canadians when they fill out income-tax returns.

Up for discussion today are subclauses in the 707-page bill that propose tax deductions for such expenses as child-care costs for employed parents and the bills for moving to a home closer to work.

The Commons, sitting as a committee, has worked on the bill 22 sitting days since Parliament resumed after the summer recess, 10 of them in section-by-section committee study.

In that time, it has approved just five of the 257 subclauses in the first, 596-page clause.

Finance Minister E. J. Benson, the bill's sponsor, wants it passed by Commons and Senate in time to become law by Jan. 1.

WON'T DELAY

He reiterated Friday that he has no intention of delaying the legislation longer, as requested by Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed and business groups.

Mr. Benson last week presented the Commons with a second batch of about 30 amendments, some of them proposals to change parts of a previous package of 95 amendments presented Oct. 13. There are more to come.

The child-care proposals to be discussed this week would permit expense deductions of up to $500 a year for a child, a maximum $2,000 a year for a family, for care of children when both parents are working, in one-parent families or when the mother is disabled.

Moving expenses would be deductible for persons changing homes, when the move takes them at least 25 miles closer to their job.

Whale Flies West

TORONTO (CP) — A whale flew from Frankfurt, Germany, to Toronto Sunday night.

The three-year-old whale weighing two tons arrived aboard an Air Canada freighter in a specially designed sling container with a battery-operated pump that sprayed it with water.

Then it was loaded on to a truck for the trip to Marineland and Game Farm in Niagara Falls, Ont. The whale cost marineland operator John Holer about $40,000.

Accompanying the whale was Donald Goldesberry, the man who captured it. He had taken it first to Oktoberfest in Munich.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Rapeseed prices continued lower at the close on the grain exchange today following confirmation of reports that soybeans were sharply lower on the Chicago markets.

Flax posted sharp declines in the nearby futures but the rest of the market remained quiet.

Rye prices were slightly lower on local and commission house trade with some exporter buying interest.

Volume of trade Friday was 791,000 bushels of flax, 3,310,000 of rapeseed and 423,000 of rye.

Rate Cut Denied

CALGARY (CP) — The possibility of lower rail rates discouraged petroleum companies from backing a pipeline to carry sulphur from Alberta to British Columbia ports, says an economic consultant.

H. P. Simon of Calgary told the Canadian Transport Commission the pipeline offered a rate advantage of 50 cents a ton but required a long-term commitment.

Companies which made the commitment could then be at a disadvantage compared with firms which shipped by rail should railways drop rates.

But a Canadian Pacific railway spokesman told the commission lower rates are not likely.

The transport commission is hearing submissions on a application by Canadian Pacific Ltd. to purchase a 50-per-cent interest in Commercial Solids Pipe Line Co. which is researching the pipeline movement of sulphur.

Bond Prices

TORONTO (CP) — Following two weeks of rising prices, the Canadian bond market lost momentum as prices closed lower in last week's moderate-to-active trading.

The short end of the market on the week gained about 15 cents, mid-term issues lost about three-eighths of a point, and both long-term and corporate issues were higher by about one-eighth of a point.

There was a new issue from the Province of Nova Scotia in two parts totalling $25 million. The first part, a 20-year issue totalling $15 million sold at par to yield 7⅝ per cent, and the second part, totalling $10 million was a 25-year issue with a 7⅝ per cent coupon also selling at par.

CANCEL CLASSES FOR BLAST CALL

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian Student Liberals and the British Columbia University Liberal Federation Sunday called on all universities and colleges in Canada to cancel classes on the day of the Amchitka nuclear test blast as a sign of protest.

The resolution came at the close of the annual meeting of the B.C. organization and it said all students should be allowed to show their solidarity by a national day of protest against the blast scheduled for Wednesday or Thursday.

The University Liberals also approved a policy statement calling for year-around grants under the new seasonal federal opportunities for youth program.

The resolution suggested establishment of an organization to be called Youth Pro fessionals for Canada and which would pay full education costs for professional training "in exchange for community-assigned service for a fixed period of time," when training is completed.

The students also came up with an idea for Canadian-content legislation regarding school textbooks.

They want at least 90 per cent of textbooks written, printed and copyrighted in Canada within 3½ years.

Under a three-stage program, the provinces would require Canadian content for half the books used in schools after 18 months. The percentage would increase to 75 a year later and 90 per cent a year after that.

"In our schools we are conditioning our children to the culture of another nation, our neighbor to the south," said the preamble to the resolution. "This quite obviously is unsatisfactory."

NDP's Lewis Pledges Power Switch by '75

TORONTO (CP) — Stephen Lewis, leader of the Ontario New Democrats, won a solid show of confidence from key union supporters Sunday and promised in return to make the party the official opposition before the next general election expected in 1975.

The trick can be turned, Lewis said, in byelections that may be required to replace Conservative MPPs who want to try their luck in a federal election next year.

Lewis told delegates to the convention of the Ontario Federation of Labor he has already heard rumors that provincial Conservatives will run federally to maintain a link between Conservative Premier William Davis and federal leader Robert Stanfield.

The New Democrats won 19 seats in the provincial election Oct. 21, one less than the Liberal party, which remained as the official opposition.

Lewis' leadership was questioned after the election, particularly by Dr. Morton Shulman, NDP MPP for the Toronto riding of High Park, who has suggested Mr. Lewis be replaced.

Any questions about continued support from unions for the 34-year-old leader were drowned at the meeting by the standing ovation he received.

Present among the 250 delegates were most of the union activists who oversaw labor's contribution to the NDP campaign.

"We will come to power if we stay united behind young Stephen Lewis," said Clifford Pilkey, a union official who lost the riding of Oshawa.

"I don't happen to think there was anybody in the party who could give the leadership that this young guy gave."

The meeting was cued to "reflect" on the election results and the general conclusion appeared to be that the NDP would have done worse had it not been for labor support.

In his report, Lewis admitted he succumbed to "momentary despair" when he saw the results. The Conservatives won 78 seats. Since then, he said, he has been amazed at the "basic resilience" of the party.

NEW LEADER . . . NEW LIFE?

REGINA (CP) — Provincial Liberals meet in Saskatoon next month to select a leader they hope can breathe new life into the organization that was bloodied by the New Democratic Party in the June 23 election.

The Liberals, under former premier W. Ross Thatcher who died a month after the election, were left with 15 seats in the 60-seat legislature and then reduced to 14 by Mr. Thatcher's death. NDP candidates captured the other 45 ridings.

To this point, it appears the leadership will go to one of the three men who have entered the race so far — interim leader D. G. Steuart, former welfare minister Cy MacDonald and the former MLA for Elrose, George Leith.

With just over a month remaining before the convention, on Dec. 10 and 11, it seems unlikely there will be other candidates entering the race.

STEUART BEST BET

Mr. Steuart, 55, appears to have the inside track because of his long association as Mr. Thatcher's right-hand man, but it is difficult to gauge the support for the other two.

Mr. MacDonald, a 43-year-old teacher who projects a young image with his modish clothes and personable approach, is openly soliciting the youth vote.

Mr. Leith, 48, also says youth must receive more consideration but his main theme is a call for a break with old-line policies and lip-service politicians.

All three have been active in their campaigns and the results of their efforts will be known Dec. 11 when the anticipated 1,300 constituency representatives cast their ballots.

The voting delegates will be seated on the main floor of the Saskatoon Centennial Auditorium.

SUPPORTERS RETICENT

Liberal members of the legislature and other prominent party officials have been slow to announce their support of any particular candidate.

Mr. Steuart was the first to receive such public support. It came from J. C. McIsaac, Ken McLeod and Gary Lane, all members of the legislature.

Mr. Steuart is easily the most outspoken and most colorful of the three. He sees the biggest task facing the next leader as recapturing the people's confidence.

Mr. MacDonald, who says the party needs a new image and a new direction, believes the party must be revitalized by making itself attractive in leadership and in policy to the new wave of young voters.

Mr. Leith, a farmer in the Elrose district, says the provincial Liberals must co-operate with federal Liberals in attempting to get decisions that are right for the farmer and for the developing industrial sector.

He said Mr. Thatcher had the courage of his convictions but too frequently was confronted by "yes men" who offered no new ideas.

City Darkened

NEW DELHI (AP) — A civil defence blackout exercise plunged this city and all villages within a 40-mile radius into darkness Sunday for an hour.

Transport Hearing Due

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian transport commission will hold a public hearing in Saskatoon Nov. 30 to consider an application by the Canadian Pacific Railway to remove employees from stations in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

CP Rail has asked permission to remove 56 agents, nine caretakers and four caretaker-agents from the Alberta and Saskatchewan stations.

Woofy Cleric

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (UPI) — Sadie Thurber is a black Labrador retriever and she is also a newly-ordained minister in the fledgling Hilltop House Church in San Rafael.

Sadie's owner Charles Thurber, executive director of the San Francisco Better Business Bureau, simply filled out a coupon in a Marin County shopping newspaper and mailed in $15.

The advertisement said respondents could have "the credentials and authority" to perform marriages and baptisms or even "establish your own church, and form your own congregation."

"If you wish to establish your own church, you may be able to transfer your home, your cars, rental income property, so you won't have to pay property taxes or income taxes on rental property," the ad said.

"This is your right under present property laws and is now being done by many other churches."

NEEDLESS TO SAY, someone in California is going to say: "The soul business has gone to the dogs" and they won't be far from wrong with the "ordination" of Sadie, a black Labrador retriever. The dog received the "ordination" when its owner, Charles Thurber of Terre Linda, Calif., answered an ad enclosing $15. Sadie is "assigned". Hilltop House Church in San Rafael.

PORNOGRAPHY PROBLEM . . . SIMPLY IGNORE IT!

VANCOUVER (CP) — Society could solve the recurring problem of pornography by simply ignoring it, an American sociologist told the British Columbia-Washington audio-visual conference Saturday.

Dr. Otto Larsen of the University of Washington said most citizens have an interest in pornography only because it is a taboo and a novelty.

"The removal of laws prohibiting the sale of pornographic material may be followed by a sudden upsurge of interest in the previously restricted books and magazines," he said.

"After the novelty wears off, however, there is a great decline in the amount of the material purchased."

People most uptight about obscene literature are those who have never allowed themselves to be exposed to it, Larsen said.

Larsen was a member of the now-disbanded U.S. Presidential Commission on Obscenity and Pornography. The commission was set up in October 1967, by the U.S. Senate to determine what obscenity actually was.

NOT PROTECTED

Its definition had been in doubt following a ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court in 1957 that obscenity was not protected by the First Amendment which provided for freedom of expression.

After more than a year of study and research, the commission produced a 600-page report which recommended, among other things, the immediate repeal of all adult censorship laws.

The report was condemned by President Nixon who called it "morally irresponsible." The only recommendation acted upon so far provided for more stringent control of use of the mails by distributors of pornography.

LITTLE CONNECTION

Larsen said information discovered by the commission showed there was little or no connection between exposure to obscene material and the perpetration of violent and sexual crimes.

He said most prisoners jailed because of sex crimes had a very puritanical outlook on life and had rarely been exposed to pornography.

There is also no evidence to support the contention that obscene literature contributes to juvenile delinquency. He said pornography may even have a positive effect on the lives of some persons.

"An experiment involving young married couples exposed to it revealed that they were able to improve their communication on sexual matters as a result of the exposure," said Larsen.

He said couples married at least 10 years didn't have the same reaction because "it's not easy to nudge adult behavior patterns."

Larsen said he is a strong supporter of the move to rid the lawbooks of all anti-obscenity and pornography legislation.

Strugglers Change Coaches

By The Canadian Press

Three struggling National Hockey League teams came out of weekend action with new coaches, none the worse for the changes but still struggling.

Fred Glover, fired earlier in the season by California Golden Seals, was named the new Los Angeles Kings coach Saturday by general manager Larry Regan, who had previously held the dual role.

The Kings responded by losing 5-1 the same night to Chicago Black Hawks.

St. Louis Blues, the same day, brought in former player Bill McCreary to coach and moved Sid Abel into the general manager's position. That title had previously been held by vice-president Lynn Patrick.

The Blues responded by playing to a 4-4 tie Saturday with Philadelphia Flyers.

Doug Barkley made a more dramatic exit at Detroit. He told his Red Wing club before their Sunday night game with Pittsburgh Penguins it would be his last game behind the bench and would they "go out and win it for me."

He was replaced by Johnny Wilson, coach at Tidewater in the American Hockey League.

The Wings, last in the East Division, responding by blasting the Penguins 3-1.

Glover, who established all-time career marks for goals, assists and points in the American Hockey League with Cleveland Barons, was named California coach in May, 1968.

The club was going nowhere early this year until he was replaced by Vic Stasiuk about two weeks ago and is currently in a four-game unbeaten streak, including Sunday night's 2-2 tie with Buffalo Sabres.

McCreary, 35, retired as a player this year to coach St. Louis' farm team, Denver Spurs of the Western Hockey League. He was player-coach with Dallas of the Central League before joining the Blues as a player in the 1967 expansion.

Jean Guy Talbot has been named as Denver's coach.

The Spurs were 5-1 under McCreary this year.

The man he replaced, Abel, had held the job only for nine games in which St. Louis was able to win only three times, a far cry from recent seasons when they have either led the West Division or remained close to the top.

Barkley, who became coach at Detroit late in the 1970-71 season following a front-office insurrection in which Abel was fired by the Detroit organization, said in an interview Sunday night he "felt the team was not working the way it can for me."

Barkley said there were no hard feelings with the players, but he felt they weren't responding to his methods of coaching.

Wilson, who coached Springfield Kings to the AHL title last year, had been coaching the Wings' new AHL franchise at Tidewater, Va. He joined Detroit in time for tonight's game at Toronto against the Maple Leafs.

CANUCKS ROLL OVER HAWKS

Times News Services

Vancouver Canucks, held to a 4-4 tie by Buffalo Sabres on the same ice Saturday, stunned visiting Chicago Black Hawks with a 6-2 National Hockey League victory before 15,570 fans Sunday at Vancouver.

Canucks, led by a two-goal performance by Ted Taylor, dominated play in the first two periods and then exploded for three goals in the final 20 minutes.

It was the third defeat in 12 games for the Eastern Division leading Black Hawks.

SUCCESSIVE TALLIES

Taylor fired back-to-back insurance tallies mid-way through the third period after Vancouver had moved ahead 3-2.

Chicago's Jim Pappin gave the Hawks a 1-0 lead at 2:08 of the first period but Canucks bounced back to earn a 2-1 advantage on goals by Mike Corrigan and Bobby Schmautz by the end of the frame.

The fired-up Canucks held most of the play in the Hawks' end during the scoreless second period but were unable to ram the puck past Chicago goaltender Tony Esposito, who replaced Gary Smith after the first period.

Pit Martin evened the count 2-2 on a power-play goal for Chicago at 5:09 but Danny Johnson banged home what proved to be the winning goal at 8:14, hitting the open corner after collecting a pass from Rosaire Paiement.

BRUNIS WHIP STARS

In other Sunday action, Boston Bruins tumbled visiting Minnesota North Stars 5-2, California Seals took a three-game win streak home to tie Sabres 2-2, New York played to a 3-3 time with Toronto Maple Leafs, Philadelphia Flyers downed Montreal Canadiens 5-3 and Detroit Red Wings surprised Pittsburgh Penguins 3-1.

In keeping with the tone at Vancouver, ties seemed to be the order of the day in NHL action Saturday. Minnesota and Toronto finished at 1-1, New York and Pittsburgh fought to a 1-1 deadlock and Philadelphia was 4-4 against the Blues in St. Louis.

Montreal was decisive in blanking Detroit 3-0 and Chicago drubbed Los Angeles Kings 5-1 in other Saturday games.

First Place Hot Potato In the West

By The Canadian Press

Calgary Stampeders and Saskatchewan Roughriders tossed first place around like a hot potato during the weekend and wound up the Western Football Conference season being trampled by a couple of also-rans.

Calgary had an opportunity to wrap things up but were foiled 31-7 by British Columbia Lions in Vancouver Saturday night. However, they managed to back into first place when the Roughriders fell 28-12 before the Eskimos in Edmonton Sunday.

The Stampeders and the Roughriders finished the season with 19 points each, but Calgary took first place because it had a superior point spread in games against Saskatchewan.

The Roughriders will meet Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the sudden-death WFC semi-final in Regina next Saturday.

The Eskimos' fifth straight victory left head coach Ray Jauch with high hopes for next season.

"The team has a good nucleus for a winning club next year if the players can maintain their winning spirit," he said.

Saskatchewan head coach Dave Skrien said defeat may have been a good thing for his club.

"Having to play that semi-final game might be a good thing because the team won't be idle and should be able to get up for the final."

Skrien said the Roughriders weren't prepared for Calgary's loss Saturday . . . "and when it came to the crunch I guess the boys just didn't want this game badly enough."

Esks' Perfect Record as Spoilers

The win before 19,549 fans gave Edmonton a perfect record as spoilers. After dropping eight straight games earlier in the season, the Eskimos airlifted in a flock of new players and upset Montreal Alouettes, Winnipeg, B.C., Calgary and Saskatchewan and played a key role in eliminating the Alouettes and Lions from playoff action.

It was the new players who shone for Edmonton Sunday. Volley Murphy scored the first touchdown on a 97-yard pass-and-run play from quarterback Bruce Lemmerman. Gene Foster and George McGowan scored the other touchdowns for the Eskimos. Dave Cutler kicked a 38-yard field goal, three converts and four singles.

Rookie quarterback Don Moorhead and receiver Jim Young of the Lions gave the Calgary defenders fits all night, with Young pulling in touchdown passes of 37 and 20 yards.

Larry Highbaugh scored for the Lions on a 52-yard pass from Moorhead and defensive end George Anderson got the other B.C. touchdown when he ran 42 yards with a fumble recovery.

Ted Gerela kicked a field goal and three converts and Ken Phillips booted a 45-yard single.

Jim Evenson of the Lions captured the WFC rushing title, picking up 39 yards on 14 carried to finish with 1,237. Reed was held to 26 yards on eight carries in Edmonton and finished with 1,146.

Hornets Outlast Invaders In Tense Overtime Duel

Saanich Hornets and Oak Bay Invaders survived three and one-half hours of cold, mud and rain Sunday in a battle to decide the Vancouver Island Bantam Football League playoff title.

Hornets finally captured the crown, 27-26, after 20 minutes of overtime before about 250 chilled fans at Royal Athletic Park.

It was a classic struggle right to the finish.

Tied 19-19 after regulation time, the teams continued their see-saw battle until Hornets' Ed Chiu booted a single point to break a 26-26 deadlock with two minutes remaining in the second half of overtime.

Victory made it a clean sweep for the Hornets, who also captured the league title.

Christy Sinclare led Oak Bay with two touchdowns and two conversions. Gord. Mitchell replied with two majors for the Hornets, and Dave Sarsiat converted one of them.

Bohdan Hryb and Clyde Saunders rounded out the Invaders' scoring with a touchdown each, while Kerry Lacroix and Chiu replied with one major each for Saanich. Lacroix also converted one scoring play.

The game was tied, 7-7, after the first quarter, and Oak Bay led, 13-7, at half time.

Surprise: Als Ousted in East; Ticats, Riders in Semi-Final

By The Canadian Press Staff

The surprising Hamilton Tiger-Cats and rejuvenated Ottawa Rough Riders meet next Sunday in Hamilton in sudden-death Eastern Football Conference semi-final play.

The Ticats stunned Toronto Argonauts 23-15 Sunday to clinch second place in the final standings and the Riders tripped Montreal Alouettes 9-7 in action Saturday.

Ottawa and Montreal finished the season tied with 12 points apiece, two behind Hamilton, but the Riders took the third and final playoff spot by virtue of their better record against the 1970 Grey Cup champions.

The Ticat victory was a costly one. Quarterback Joe Zuger was pushed to the paved running track that surrounds CNE Stadium and suffered a separation of the right shoulder.

He was to undergo surgery on the injured shoulder today.

GABLER A PROSPECT

Hamilton coach Al Dorow was already in the process of looking for his replacement Sunday night.

Chief aspirant to the Ticat quarterbacking woes is Wally Gabler, whom the Ticats dropped earlier in the season.

Gabler, who watched the Hamilton-Toronto game from the stands, said in an interview, from his Burlington, Ont., home Sunday night he was waiting to hear from the Ticats.

John Manel, who replaced Zuger at quarterback, had played offensively only about five minutes in an early season game. After a jittery start, however, he seemed to settle away behind some crisp blocking by Hamilton's offensive line.

DOROW CALLS PLAYS

The Ticats were leading 2-0 on two missed field goal attempts by Tommy Joe Coffey when Zuger was injured. With Manel getting the plays from Dorow, and crucial roughing calls against the Argos, Hamilton drew first touchdown blood in the third quarter when Max Anderson crashed over from the one-yard line.

The ruged Hamilton defence opened a 16-1 lead in the third quarter when defensive halfback Al Brenner returned an interception 50 yards for one score. Garney Henley returned his third interception of the game 3 yards for another early in the fourth quarter to make it 23-1.

Argo quarterback Joe Theismann, victim of all four Hamilton intereceptions, finally got he EFC-winning Toronto club going with touchdown strikes to Leon McQuay, for 81 yards, and Dick Thornton.

Neither team could engineer a touchdown drive at Lansdowne Park, but Gerry Organ's toe that carried him to the EFC scoring title with 92 points, did the trick. He accounted for all the Ottawa points, kicking three of three field goal attempts.

Justine Canale, favoring an injury to his kicking leg, hit on only one of six field goal tries. Four he missed went for singles to complete the Montreal scoring.

Cougars Get Free Trade Ride But Pats, Bruins Add to Skid

Victoria Cougars are getting a free ride from a recent player trade, but it hasn't helped the team shake off a Western Canada Hockey League losing streak.

Regina Pats and New Westminster Bruins both withstood strong third-period pressure by the Cougars at the weekend to saddle Victoria with a pair of losses that carried the string to six straight losses.

New Westminster, despite the absence of starry Lorne Henning, edged the Cougars 4-3 before a Saturday night turnout of 2,185 at Memorial Arena.

STAYED CLOSE

The Pats, breaking open a tight game with three goals in the final five minutes of play, defeated the Cougars 7-2 in Regina on Sunday.

Cougars continued to use defenceman Murray Worley, centre Dave George and winger Wayne Bianchin three of the four players obtained from Calgary last week in exchange for Victoria rookie Denny McLean, Oliver Steward, the fourth Calgary player sent to Victoria in the deal, remains idle because of an injury.

The trade remains up in the air, however, because McLean has refused to report to Calgary.

Victoria coach Fred Hucul got good mileage out of his newcomers at the weekend, but it wasn't enough to end Cougars' skid. George and Bianchin were Victoria's only marksmen in the game at Regina while Worley continued to impress on defence.

Regina led 2-1 after the first period and 4-2 after the second, but Cougars showed their best form early in the third period. Cougars attackers twice bounced shots off goal posts and Regina goalie Bernie Germaine was forced to come up with brilliant stops on three other occasions to protect Pats' two-goal lead.

Dennis Sobchuk, Al Barrett and Ken Marit put Pats in the clear when they banged in goals in a span of one minute, 50 seconds late in the final period.

Rookie Mike Wanchuk scored three goals for Pats and Nellie Greene added the other as Regina fired 39 shots at Victoria's Darryl Fedorak, including a volley of 19 in the first period.

Saturday night, the Cougars stormed New Westminster's goal in the third period but a combination of poor shooting and hard luck prevented Victoria from pulling out a tie.

Cougars, who got two goals from defenceman Jim Amanenko and one from Ervie Miller, bounced at least five shots off the posts behind Bruins' goalie Doug Sauter.

Centre Vic Mercredi counted two goals for Bruins while Don Martineau and Ken Ireland scored singles.

Bruins played without Henning. Rated one of the league's top centres, Henning was hospitalized Friday to undergo a checkup.

Coach Ernie McLean said early reports indicated Henning might be stricken with infectious hepatitis, a liver inflammation that could side-line the classy forward for the balance of the season.

On Sunday, however, a New Westminster report said Henning was stricken with jaundice and will be sidelined for a period of only two weeks.

Davidson Shackles Nats; Bruins Bow to Oil Kings

(Times News Services)

Calgary Centennials appear to have found a solid replacement for Ed Dyck, the Western Canada Hockey League's leading goaltender last season.

Big John Davidson, with Lethbridge Sugar Kings in the Alberta Junior League last season, racked up his third shutout of the 1971-72 WCHL campaign Sunday as Calgary blanked the visiting Vancouver Nats 5-0.

Davidson turned aside 29 shots to earn full marks for the shutout in a game marred by a third-period brawl. Seven players from each team were banished from the ice by referee Graeme Smith.

Wayne Paulson of Vancouver and Jim MacMasters of Calgary touched off the brawl, which involved all players on the ice with the exception of Davidson.

It was Calgary's seventh win in eight starts.

The loss was Vancouver's second in as many nights. Sparked by the league's two top scorers, Medicine Hat Tigers eked out a 6-5 victory over Vancouver on Saturday.

Tiger winger Jeff Ablett boosted his point lead by scoring one goal and assisting on four others while Stan Weir, No. 2 in the point parade, collected two goals and two assists.

At New Westminster, Edmonton Oil Kings struck for five goals in the first period and then held on to defeat the Bruins 9-4. Rookie Chris Shokoples led the way for Edmonton with three goals.

At Saskatoon, the surprising Blades claimed a share of first place in the Eastern Division by defeating Rudy Pilous' Brandon Wheat Kings 4-1.

In Winnipeg, the Jets cut loose for 17 third-period shots and two unanswered goals to edge Flin Flon Bombers 4-2.

OLD GEORGE DOES IT AGAIN AS RAIDERS EKE OUT DRAW

By The Associated Press

Oakland Raiders again are letting George do it—and 44-year-old George Blanda, the oldest player in pro football, is not letting them down, but keeping them up.

Blanda, whose amazing career started in 1949 and now is in its fourth decade, became the game's all-time leading scorer Sunday as he rallied the Raiders to a 20-20 tie with Kansas City Chiefs and kept Oakland in a first-place tie with the Chiefs in American Football Conference.

Blanda, who replaced starter Daryle Lamonica the last two times Oakland had the ball, fired a 24-yard touchdown pass to Fred Biletnikoff, then kicked an eight-yard field goal with 2½ minutes left.

The tying three-pointer and a previous field goal and two conversions gave Blanda a career total of 1,609 points, one more than former Cleveland kicker Lou Groza. Following the eight-yard kick, the game was stopped and Blanda was presented with the football.

On Blanda's first play, he hit Ray Chester with a 37-yard strike.

Two plays later, Blanda connected with Biletnikoff, who had out-manoeuvred young cornerback David Handley, Handley had replaced injured starter Jim Marsalis immediately before the play.

The tie kept the Raiders and Chiefs deadlocked with 5-1-1 records.

Elsewhere in the National Football League Sunday, it was: San Francisco 49ers 27, New England Patriots 10; Miami Dolphins 20, Los Angeles Rams 14; Washington Redskins 24, New Orleans Saints 14; Minnesota Vikings 17, New York Giants 10; Atlanta Falcons 31, Cleveland Browns 14; Chicago Bears 23, Dallas Cowboys 19; Baltimore Colts 34, Pittsburgh Steelers 21; San Diego Chargers 49, New York Jets 21; St. Louis Cardinals 28, Buffalo Bills 23; Philadelphia Eagles 17, Denver Broncos 16, and Houston Oilers 10, Cincinnati Bengals 6.

T-Men Trip Mustangs

Cowichan Timbermen came up with their best defensive effort of the year Sunday as they nipped James Bay Athletic Association Mustangs 8-7 to take the sudden-death Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League semi-final at Centennial Stadium.

It was an upset of major proportions for Cowichan, which finished third in the league standings and was given little chance to survive against the second-place Mustangs.

Timbermen will meet league champion Saanich Hornets in a sudden-death final for the Island championship next Sunday at Centennial.

Only touchdown of Sunday's game came in the second quarter when Timbermen faked a field goal from the Mustangs' 21. John McCaulley raced for the major, but the convert attempt was blocked.

Frank Morris kicked 50-yard and 33-yard singles for Mustangs to make the half-time score read 6-2 in favor of Cowichan.

Timbermen conceded a two-point safety touch in the third quarter, and in the fourth JBAA pulled ahead, 7-6, when Morris booted a 34-yard field goal.

But Cowichan was not to be denied as Reg Edgeson tied the game with a 45-yard single at 10:29 and, with only two minutes remaining, kicked the winning point on a 35-yard single.

Steve Ludvigson, Ray Young and Ked Zuleschuck were outstanding on the Cowichan defence, which held Mustangs on three attempts to score from inside the five-yard line.

Birds Drop Gorge in Mire

By DAN STINSON

UBC Thunderbirds and Gorge Molsons threw mudpies at each other while North Shore Labatts made a clean break into first place in Pacific Coast Soccer League action at the weekend.

Thunderbirds, guests of Molsons at Royal Athletic Park Saturday, splashed their way to a 2-1 victory, and North Shore slipped one point ahead of idle Victoria West-United Sunday at Vancouver on a 1-0 win over Vancouver Inter-Italia.

UBC and Gorge likely have some of the fastest, best-conditioned players in the league. Pity they didn't get a chance to prove themselves Saturday.

But how do you play soccer on a cow pasture?

The field at Athletic Park was a disgrace. Consequently, the calibre of the game suffered — badly. But the players put up a valiant effort, and 250 fans who braved the wet, cold weather witnessed a fairly respectable contest.

The only thing clear was that UBC is the superior side, perhaps because they adapted better to the mire, but more likely because they have the talent.

Thunderbirds were no ball of fire, mind. But they did take advantage of scoring opportunities while Molsons repeatedly muffed theirs.

Gorge actually controlled play for about half the game, and penetrated UBC's zone dangerously on occasion.

But, once there, Molsons beat themselves. Errant passing and poor positioning results in sloppy play, and it was obviously frustrating to the hard-working Molsons who found the field difficult to cope with.

UBC took a 1-0 lead after 38 minutes on a classic effort. Right winger Tony Mayor beat two defenders deep in the Gorge zone and fed inside-right Doug Wilson a perfect pass on the 18-yard line.

Unmarked, Wilson had time to pick a target and boomed a low drive past Gorge goalkeeper Graham Lee.

Linesman Peter Bishop signalled the play offside, but referee Jack Adams of Victoria overruled, and the visitors took a one-goal lead into the dressing room at half time.

It stood up until 15 minutes into the second half when Gorge linkman Mark Robb hustled down the left side and placed a well-aimed ball directly in front of the UBC goal.

Eagerly waiting was George Hyne who leaped in the air and headed the ball past Thunderbirds' goalkeeper Greg Weber.

Hyne's picture effort seemed to give his teammates some spark. Danny Henry, Joe Poulton and Rick Lamoureux barely missed the net from close in.

But the play gradually went ever to UBC again after coach Joe Johnson substituted two reserves and moved the ever-dangerous Mayor to centre forward, 12 minutes before time.

The switch paid off. Jim Sator, one of the reserves, saw Mayor standing alone in front of the Gorge goal and fed him a short, chip-shot pass.

Mayor neatly headed the ball past Lee, who was caught going the wrong way, and it was 2-1.

North Shore Moves to Top In Coast Soccer

Royals Upset Vikings; Boxers Blank Runners

Cosmopolitan Royals pulled off one of the biggest surprises of the Victoria and District Soccer League season Sunday as they hung on to defeat University of Victoria Vikings 4-3 in Division I competition.

Victory kept Royals in a first-place tie with London Boxing Club and dropped Uvic into a deadlock for second place with Oak Bay.

It was the second loss of the young season for the flashy Vikings, who had appeared likely to be the class of their division.

HAMILTON SHINES

Meanwhile, Bill Hamilton pumped in three goals to lead the Boxers to a 4-0 triumph over Roadrunners, and Ken Pierce scored twice as Duncan Village Green edged Vic West, 2-1.

In Division II action, Prospect Lake got two goals each from Ted King and Mike McDonald to down Labattas, 4-2, and grab a share of first place with Lake Hill, who nipped Gorge, 3-2. Carl Olson booted three goals and his brother Chris notched two more as Saanich Braves crushed Century Inn, 6-0.

A pair of three-goal efforts highlighted action in Division III. Yan-Zriesen fired three tallies to help Oak Bay trounce Saanich, 7-1, and Mike Costello found the target three times to lead Prospect Lake to a 4-1 victory over the Falcons.

RAMS RALLY TO CAPTURE GRID TITLE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Exploding for three touchdowns in the second half, Regina Rams overpowered the lighter Vancouver Meralomas in the rain at Empire Stadium Sunday for an easy 34-12 victory and the Western Canadian Junior Football championship.

For the Rams, it was a repeat of last season when they whipped the Meralomas 49-21 for the western crown. They went on to defeat Burlington, Ont., for the Canadian title.

Aided by Regina turnovers, the Vancouver squad jumped into a 6-0 lead in the first quarter and trailed by only a single point, 13-12, at the half. But they couldn't hold the Rams in check in the second half and Regina won going away.

Lake Cowichan Bows to Vikings

LAKE COWICHAN — Greg Gow scored two goals here Saturday to give University of Victoria Vikings a 5-1 exhibition hockey victory over Lake Cowichan Lakers.

Dave Cousins, George Walton and Jack Richardson were other Uvic scorers.

PORT ANGELES TOPS OAK BAY

Oak Bay High School had two first-place finishers but was beaten handily, 147-26, by a powerful Port Angeles team Saturday in a dual swim meet at the Gordon Head pool.

Oak Bay's Diane Forbes won the girls' 100-metre backstroke event on a time of 1:26.8, and Greg Dowell took the boys' 400-metre freestyle with a winning time of 4:56.0.

Clarke's Kicking Humbles JBAA

Fullback Dave Clarke helped boot James Bay Athletic Association out of a share of the lead in the Victoria Rugby Union's first-division Saturday as Castaways chalked up a 15-0 triumph at Macdonald Park.

Clarke kicked three penalty goals to give Castaways a 9-0 lead at half time and then converted a try by winger Craig Dalziel in the second half to wind up an 11-point performance.

WANDERERS WIN

Oak Bay Wanderers retained a shareof first place by thumping University of Victoria Norsemen 27-3 at Windsor Park.

Mike Penn raced across the line for two trys to pace Oak Bay, which held a 13-0 advantage at the break.

In second-division encounters, Castaways nipped Uvic Saxons 15-12 and Saanich Velox upset CFB Esquimalt 8-4 to create a six-way tie for second spot.

Elsewhere the same day, Velox downed Oak Bay 7-0 in a fourth division match while Royal Roads defeated the B.C. Institute of Technology 15-3 in a junior college league tussle at Royal Roads.

Shutout-Minded Pair Shares Hockey Title

Try as they did Saturday, Mt. Douglas and defending champion Queen Margaret of Duncan couldn't decide who would take the Vancouver Island girls high school field hockey title this year.

In the end, they both won it.

Both teams breezed through preliminary round-robin play with three shutout victories, blanked all opposition again in the semi-finals, and struggled through 40 minutes of regulation time and three overtime periods Saturday before settling for a scoreless tie at Lansdowne Junior High School to share the Island crown.

Now it's on to the 16-team B.C. tournament Friday and Saturday at the University of Victoria, where the two finalists will be joined by Norfolk House, Cowichan and defending provincial champion Oak Bay.

Esquimalt and Oak Bay finished in a tie for fifth place and the last qualifying invitation to the B.C. meet, but the Bays got the call on the strength of their superior goals-for-and-against record.

Lee Tops Money List

Moe Norman, Nicklaus Also Ring Up Victories

Times News Services

Lee Trevino, with his sixth title of the year and an all-time money-winning record set out for Mexico today in search of a fourth national open golf championship.

"That's what I really want to do, win a fourth national open championship for a grand slam," Trevino said Sunday after winning the Sahara Invitational in Las Vegas and establishing a single season money winning record of $227,243.

Trevino, four strokes off the pace starting the final round Sunday, fired a six-under par 66 and vaulted past third-round leader Bob Dickson with a 72-hole total of 280.

It was his first victory since his unprecedented sweep of the American, Canadian and British Open titles was completed in Southport, England, July 11. He is entered in the Mexican Open, a $30,000 event, at the Club de Golf in Mexico City starting Thursday.

Trevino picked up $27,000 from the total purse to become the game's top single-season money winner. Jack Nicklaus had set the record of $211,566 in 1967.

Nicklaus passed up the Las Vegas tournament but added to his account by winning the $22,400 Australian Open. Finishing with a two-under-par 70 Sunday, Nicklaus finished with a four-round total of 269 and a whopping eight-stroke margin over Bruce Crampton of Australia.

The weekend's other big winner in golf was Moe Norman of Gilford, Ont. Although plagued by mediocre putting, Norman drove superbly to win the $7,500 Cypress Garden Open in Florida with 36-hole total of 132, 12 under par. Norman put together two rounds of 66 to finish two strokes ahead of John Calabria of Rochester, N.Y.

Maplettes Pressed Into Opening Loss

VANCOUVER — Victoria Maplettes got away on the right foot Saturday, then stumbled against a pesky press Sunday to emerge with a split in the opening rounds of the Inter-City Senior Women's Basketball League.

Defending Canadian champions, Maplettes carved out a spine-tingling 45-43 overtime victory over Vancouver Eldorados on Saturday but bowed 49-31 to University of British Columbia Thunderettes on Sunday.

Holdovers Laurie Sawden, Angie Radanovich and Diana Brozuk combined talents to get the Moe Turner-coached Victoria team off on the right foot.

Miss Brozuk forced overtime when she made good a free throw with Maplettes trailing 36-35 with five seconds remaining in regulation time. Miss Radanovich counted 17 points and picked off 14 rebounds while Miss Sawden scored all four of her points in overtime, including the winning basket with 50 seconds remaining in the game.

Maplettes seemed headed for a second victory Sunday before running out of steam. Victoria led for the first 12 minutes, trailed only 22-19 at the half, then were doomed to a defeat when UBC opened the second half by counting 10 straight points.

UBC's strong press tactics disrupted Victoria's attack and Maplettes couldn't keep pace with the well-drilled Thunderettes.

Shuvee, the all-time money winning mare, wound up her illustrious racing career Saturday with an impressive seven-length victory in the $111,500 two-mile Jockey Club Gold Cup at Aqueduct.

It was the second consecutive victory for the five-year-old mare, owned by Mrs. Whitney Stone, in the long-distance weight-forage test.

A crowd of 42,041 watched Shuvee, draw out in the stretch under jockey Jorge Velasquez. The winning purse of $66,900 boosted Shuvee's career earnings to $890,445.

Paraje finished second two lengths ahead of Loud.

Shuvee, the favorite at 6-to-5 over the entry of Loud and Practicante, ran the distance under 121 pounds in 3:20 2-5.

It was Shuvee's third victory of the year in nine starts and made her 1971 earnings $166,303. Altogether she has won 16 of 44 career starts with 10 seconds and six

Racing Roundup

Cougar II boosted his earnings for the year to $416,022 surpassing Ack Ack as the leading U.S. thoroughbred money winner of 1971. He travelled the 1½ miles on the firm turf course in two minutes, 24 3-5 seconds.

Cougar II, owned by Mary F. Jones, went off the prohibitive 2-to-5 favorite in the field of 10 and won by five lenghts in his bid for grass course, horse-of-the-year honors.

Vegas Vic finished second and the mare Manta was third.

Shoemaker, winning on all five mounts he had, boosted his world-record career total to 6,362 and his 43rd stakes victory of the year equalled the one-year record set by Bill Hartack in 1957. The victory was the 545th stakes win of the 40-year-old Shoemaker's career, only nine short of Eddie Arcaro's career record of 554.

If the Baboon Talks Simply Nod and Smile

Squirrel-like, I have been saving these bizarre notes on the experiments conducted by the Electrical Engineering Department of Imperial College, London, for just the right moment and, by George the moment has arrived.

On my desk is a cordial invitation to attend a wine and cheese party tomorrow night to mark the opening of the new Fraser Book Bin in the Hillside Mall and an equally cordial invitation, four days later, to attend an Empress Hotel breakfast marking the publication of Pierre Berton's "The Last Spike" at which a cocktail called The Last Spike will doubtless disarm the literary critics.

This, of course, is just the beginning. We are on the very edge of the pit known as the Cocktail Party Season that is a predictable, unavoidable prelude to Christmas, those congealed globs of babbling humanity notorious for reducing the niceties of social intercourse to a level of intolerable chaos.

What has this to do with experiments at the Imperial College? I was afraid that you might never ask. In brief, the aim of the Engineering Department was to shed new light on how the human mind makes use of the sense of hearing, a study vitally important in the field of electronic communication. To this end, the students set up conditions exactly simulating a typical, noisome cocktail party. All that was missing was the booze, those little crackers festooned with bits of linoleum and plasticine and researchers wearing lamp-shades.

How does the ear seize a particular thread of sound and follow it through a morass of extraneous chatter? That was the question and, indeed, one that we have all plaintively asked ourselves many times between the hours of five and seven as a roomful of rotten people wchi slowly around the bend.

The answers are still in the making, it seems, but certain preliminary findings are enough to substantiate the worse suspicions of anyone who has been trapped at such a gathering and vowed that it would never happen again.

Perhaps the most vital of these is the conclusion that the cocktail party listener does not hear actual, informative or even declamatory sentences, but only "characteristic noises" and that the ear, in this case, relies entirely on past experiences.

In other words one need only to field a phrase or two, and to size up the speaker, to be able to give the appearance of listening intelligently to an interminable discourse that, in fact, may be no more intelligible than the mutterings of baboons in tree tops.

It seems evident, indeed, that if you could teach a baboon two or three key words or phrases — let's say "Amchitka," "President Nixon" and "jerk" — he could carry on a non-stop cocktail party dialogue without ever being identified as man or beast.

What transpires, then, is very similar to what happens when a large group of seagulls congregate at dusk by the Esquimalt Lagoon. At least half the gulls are screaming, mewing and cackling simultaneously and actually communicating in a specific and often graphic gull language which ornithologists have spelled out phonetically, yet saying nothing whatever.

It is enough for the gull who is the good listener, just as it is for the human listener at the cocktail party, to recognize a familiar sound and vocabulary. It is only when this rapport is lost — if, for example, the baboon, to go back to him, were to step out of character and suddenly start talking about the relative merits of Courtney Haddock and Peter Pollen — that the listener loses contact and the panic sets in.

★ ★ ★

The Imperial College researchers have carried this a step further and concluded that a human being may attend a cocktail party composed entirely of native tribesmen speaking Kikuyu and still give the appearance of hanging on every word.

The trick, it appears, is the ability to locate one specific sound in a cacophony of other distracting sounds. This led to one of the more spectacular conclusions, namely that a one-eared guest at a cocktail party could easily lose his mind!

With two ears, you see, the head may be aimed directly at a speaker so that the sounds he is making flow in evenly from both sides and gather in the middle of the brain, rather like a large ball of heavy wool. This has the effect of excluding other sounds and so the listener, as the researchers put it, becomes "discriminating." He may not know what in the world the speaker is talking about but he does hear him and is wool-gathering all the time.

In the case of the one-eared cocktail party-goer, on the other hand, sounds tend to register on the left side of his brain (if his right ear is gone, you fool) and this destroys his concentration, allows all sorts of sounds to pile up in a lop-sided jumble and produces what the researchers call a "shushing" noise that might unhinge him.

Ideally, it seems, the listener should have an ear located frontally, perhaps mid-way on the forehead, and if the good Lord had meant us to go to cocktail parties that's where it would be.

The party for Mr. Berton will doubtless provide more clinical evidence since The Last Spike Cocktail, to be served at 8:30 in the morning, consists of four ounces of champagne, one-third ounce of curacao, two-thirds ounce of cognac, a dash of orange bitters and a slice of fresh orange. If you are there and find yourself in a conversation with a baboon or a seagull just smile and nod and repeatedly murmur "How true!"

Wildlife director Howard English meets minister Jack Davis (right).

Davis Denies His Ministry Favors Hydro on Pollution

A charge that the federal fisheries department is discriminatory in its application of justice was dismissed as unjustified by Environment Minister Jack Davis in Victoria Saturday.

He was referring to a statement made by Dick Kosick, divisional forester for Tahsis Co., who told a recent meeting of the Canadian Institute of Forestry that the fisheries department prosecuted logging companies, but too often did not press charges against provincial government departments, towns or cities and above all B.C. Hydro.

'LITTLE DAMAGE'

Davis, who is also fisheries minister, said B.C. Hydro has done little damage compared to the "mess" logging companies have done to fisheries streams in the province.

He said B.C. Hydro is co-operating with his department and has released water for spawning salmon when requested.

"It may be true in the past that charges have not been pressed against B.C. Hydro and other Crown corporations," he said. "But this has changed."

He noted a year ago the Fisheries Act was amended to permit his department to prosecute all Crown corporations — federal and provincial — if they damaged salmon streams and rivers.

NEW SITUATION

This is a new situation in law, he pointed out.

The minister visited Goldstream with Howard English, a director of B.C. Wildlife Federation, and Brian Englis, president of the Amalgamated Conservation Society, to watch the salmon moving upstream and to discuss the problem of providing sufficient water in the river for the fish.

Water was released from the Sooke Watershed Saturday — eight days earlier than last year — by water commissioner Ron Upward to ease the movement of the spawning salmon.

About 1,500 people were at Goldstream Sunday to watch the natural phenomenon.

English told the minister the water board co-operated in maintaining a minimum flow of water in Goldstream this summer to protect the salmon fry but dragged its feet in releasing water earlier in October.

SPAWNING

He said conservationists wanted the water released by Oct. 24 to permit early-spawning coho and spring to swim upstream to their spawning beds.

He said he disagreed with Upward that the help-the-salmon operation had cost $136,000 — based on the price the board charges municipalities.

"The water board gets the water free from winter, fall and spring rains and admits that it has ample water for at least 20 years," he said. "Upward is putting a price tag on water regardless of the fact that he gets the water free and has an ample supply."

English said the water board is trying to charge the fish for the water, or to put it another way, make the federal government pay for water for the salmon.

"If we accept Upward's principle of costs, then he should charge Sooke residents for using Sooke River water for swimming," he pointed out. "What he is saying is 'I've got control of the water and you are going to pay for it.'"

English told Davis that conservationists contend that it is the responsibility of the board to protect fish, to preserve the quality of the stream for recreation and esthetic reasons.

"The water belongs to the people and it is the duty of the board to maintain the quality of environment for the citizens of the capital region," he said.

'NO REASON'

English noted that the fisheries department has forced industry as well as B.C. Hydro to preserve the quality of streams.

"There is no reason why it shouldn't press the water board to do the same," he said.

Davis said he saw no reason why the board should not release water earlier in October as it had admitted there was an ample supply of water in the watershed.

He said he would take the matter up with fisheries officials in Vancouver.

Dumping By Navy To End

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

Dumping of raw sewage into Esquimalt waters will end before long.

Two Victoria companies have been given contracts to install sewage collection systems at CFB Esquimalt.

AWARDED CONTRACT

Chew Excavating Ltd. were awarded a contract of more than $325,882 to install the system at the former Naden base.

A spokesman said they began working "a week or so ago" and are scheduled to complete their part of the project by late April or May.

Webb and Trace Ltd. will begin work Nov. 15 on a $570,000 contract for the dockyard installation. Depending on the amount of rock they encounter, a spokesman said they hope to complete their assignment by late March.

PUMP STATION

When the new installations are finished, the Naden one being hooked up to Esquimalt's new pump station at Lang Cove (between the dockyard and the base), they will tie into the municipality's sewer system, and the sewage being disposed of via the Macaulay Point outfall.

The third phase of the base's sewage program will be the installation of another system for the Signal Hill area.

Plans are now being drawn up for this project by the Victoria consultant company of Kor, Priestman and Keenan Associates Ltd.

MAYOR DELIGHTED

Esquimalt Mayor Art Young said today he is "delighted" that the department of national defence had taken steps to eliminate future pollution of the harbor.

More than 6,000 civilian and military personnel use the store facilities.

Steps will also be taken to ensure that there is no dumping of raw sewage in the harbor when naval vessels are at dockside.

A service spokesman said the ships will be connected to the new systems when they are alongside and planning for this is well under way.

Saanich Booms In Building

Construction activity in Saanich more than doubled in October.

Permits worth $1.2 million were issued last month compared with $512,020 in the same month last year. Residential construction jumped to $575,670 from $292,523.

Biggest permits issued in October were $260,000 for a retail store and warehouse at 3400 Douglas Street and $350,000 for a 31-unit townhouse development at 4051-4061 Shelbourne Street.

Permits worth $15.9 million have been issued this year compared with $11.6 million for the first 10 months of 1970.

SECOND UVIC VOTE SLATED FOR TODAY

Students at the University of Victoria go to the polls again today to elect Representative Assembly members and representatives to the Uvic senate.

Elections held Oct. 12 were invalidated by the students' council after irregularities were charged. A recount of some of the races produced large discrepancies in vote totals.

Also to be voted on are several referendums, including one which would cut students' contribution to athletics from $6 to $4.

Welfare Patient 'Stuffing' Charged by B.C. Hospitals Head

Welfare recipients who normally would be put into private hospitals are being placed in acute care beds or are being "stuffed" into rest homes, Russell Shepherd, of Vancouver, president of the B.C. Association of Private Hospitals, said today.

Shepherd said municipalities are putting welfare cases into acute care hospitals because of recent court actions against them by private hospitals seeking reimbursement for the welfare patient care.

On the other hand, Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi is stuffing them into boarding houses where they don't get proper care and which costs the government much less than for private hospitals.

Shepherd was commenting on the refusal by Simon Fraser Private Hospital in Prince George to admit welfare patients.

WARNING

Anne Dusseault, Simon Fraser administrator, said she has been carrying out this policy, along with Glengarry and Glenwarren hospitals in Victoria, for the past three weeks, despite an availability of beds.

George Hoyte, administrator of Glengarry and Glenwarren, said today the hospitals haven't taken in a welfare patient in two years because they already have 48 of them in now.

Shepherd said, however, it is the policy of private hospitals to take in welfare cases from municipalities with the warning that the fee is pending on court action.

Private hospitals now get $9.25 a day for welfare cases, 85 per cent of which is paid by the provincial government, and 15 per cent by the municipality. About 30 private hospitals are now suing municipalities for the difference between the $9.25 and the $12 a day they say a welfare patient costs them.

The city of Victoria is being sued for a total of $268,000 by Glengarry, Glenwarren and Aberdeen private hospitals.

City welfare director Alex Davidson declined today to say where Shepherd's charges were true locally.

"I'm afraid I can't give you an answer. It's too complicated a question."

John Hanrahan, vice-president of the B.C. Rest Homes Association, said rest homes haven't been getting any increased welfare business lately although they are now being given a better financial deal from Gaglardi. Where they used to get just $150 a month for custodial care, they can now charge up to $225 for patients needing special care, he said. But he added that they were not taking in persons who need proper hospital care.

Saanich welfare administrator John Gibson said he has had no change of policy in placement of welfare patients. "It always has been difficult to get anyone into a private hospital," he said.

Shepherd said the private hospital association would be presenting Gaglardi with a brief within two weeks spelling out the inequities of the welfare patient situation.

He said putting welfare patients into acute care not only ties up beds for persons who really need acute care but costs the taxpayer up to $60 a day.

"There are welfare patients in Vancouver General Hospital who need as much acute care as you or me."

He said whenever extended-care beds become available "the guy who can pay" is taken from private hospitals and put into them.

"The poor old pensioner who has to give up all of his pension to the provincial government for private hospital care is left where he is."

He said if the pensioner went into an extended care hospital he would only have to give up $30 a month.

Age Limits Change For B.C. 4-H Clubs

The official age limits for 4-H club members in British Columbia have been changed from 10 to 21 years to nine to 19 years, bringing in line the upper age limit with the legal age of majority.

In making the announcement, Minister of Agriculture Cyril Shelford said the new age range would make the 4-H program available to a greater cross-section of rural young people.

The program has also been expanded recently to include leathercraft, outdoor living, range management, crafts, entomology and horse projects.

Fire Damage Totals $20,000

Two fires Sunday, one in the city and the other in Saanich, caused about $20,000 damage.

Victoria Deputy Fire Chief Carl Coates said today investigators are looking for the cause, believed to be electrical, of a blaze at 2848 Doncaster about 3 a.m. Sunday.

$12,000 DAMAGE

He said about $12,000 damage was done to the home of Mel Ercel and family.

The family went to Vancouver Friday, the deputy said, and a tenant, Danny Talbert, left the house Saturday morning.

The fire started in the basement, burned through the outside wall, and worked its way to the roof by going up inside walls.

Coates said a rear section of the roof burnt away and there was smoke damage to rooms on the main floor.

OIL VAPORS

He said the fittings of the 250-gallon oil tank in the basement had melted and oil vapors were burning when firemen arrived.

Saanich officials estimate damage at $8,000 in a fire that destroyed a building at 1376 Blueridge Road about 1 a.m. Sunday. The cause is not determined.

The building was owned by Mrs. Margaret Mackintosh of Mackintosh Greenhouses, 4023 Holland.

Ask the Times

Q. Can you give me the average or mean rainfall in Victoria for the past five years for the period from September to May? E.A.K.

A. The average rainfall at Gonzales Hill for these five years is 28.58 inches and at the Victoria International Airport, 40.62 inches. However, this period in 1967 was particularly wet, raising the total average abnormally. Over a 30-year period the Gonzales Hill averages would be 26 inches of rain and 12 inches of snow while at the airport it would be 32 inches of rain and 17 inches of snow.

Commissioners Named

Three regional commissioners for the Victoria area have been appointed to serve on the Commission on the Public's Role in Education, a fact-finding project set up by the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation.

They are David Dunsmuir, representative of the Graduate Student Society on the University of Victoria Senate, former Saanich school board chairman Mrs. Rubymay Parrott, and Miss Marie Cooper, teacher of the native Indian program at Camosun.

The three are among 41 commissioners who will provide community liaison for the commission as it visits 20 B.C. centres between Nov. 15 and Dec. 11.

A statement today from the commission said its task will be "to uncover attitudes and concerns of all citizens towards public education, and to assess the kinds of involvement in education that people desire today."

The Victoria hearings have been set for Dec. 10 and 11. Citizens and groups are invited to make written and verbal submissions.

Pay Hikes Decrease

Collectively-bargained wage settlements in the third quarter of this year showed a lower rate of increase than those in the same period last year, the federal labor department reports.

Average wage settlements for the third quarter were 8.1 per cent compared with 8.8 per cent in the third quarter of 1970.

The figures are based on an analysis of agreements covering 500 or more workers, except those in construction.

Halloween Rain More a Trick Than a Treat

As Halloweens go, Sunday night's effort in Greater Victoria has to be considered pretty tame.

The little hobgoblins and spooks usually found in abundance after dusk on Halloween night did not appear in nearly as great numbers as in previous years.

Weather conditions had a lot to do with it, as the 0.45 inches of rain which fell Sunday afternoon and evening were enough to dampen the spirits of even the most ardent trick-or-treaters.

LITTLE TO REPORT

Police and fire authorities had little to report about Halloween-related injuries or property damage.

The only significant incident was the reporting of a razor blade stuck in an apple and offered as a Halloween treat in Victoria West.

Victoria fire department got a call at 11:19 p.m. Sunday reporting a house on fire at 695 Moss. It turned out that a skyrocket was let off on the front lawn of the premises and the woman inside mistook the reflection for flames.

In the vandalism category, only a few incidents were reported. Two bottles filled with gas were ignited on the grounds of Sir James Douglas Elementary at about 6:30 p.m. The bottles were still burning when firemen arrived.

Langford volunteer fire department reported five fire-hydrants turned on.

Firecrackers thrown by children into a window of a garage in front of a residence at 1321 Point resulted in $500 worth of damage to the building's interior and wiring.

FAVORITE PRANK

Probably one of the all-time favorite pranks resulted in workmen today cleaning soap bubbles out of the fountain in Centennial Square. Three youths were reportedly detained by police after the incident Sunday night.

Sunday's rain also interfered with traditional fireworks displays. Langford firemen postponed their display to Tuesday night at 6:45 p.m. at Centennial Park, Carlow Road, Langford.

Royal Jubilee Hospital reported only one person treated for injuries, a minor hand burn connected with firecrackers.

Sugar Bowl Cut for short hair

Curl-free route for medium-length hair

Sophisticated version of pigtails

Fall Hairstyles Go Straight

By REBA and BONNIE CHURCHILL

1. It's time to go straight! That's the opinion of trend-pacing hair stylists who feel the straight-and-narrow is the best silhouette for fall coiffures.

For the girl with short strands, they suggest "The Sugar Bowl Cut." Hair looks as if a round bowl has been set on top of the head, and locks scissored in a circle. Hair is combed pin-wheel fashion, with the axis the crown, so bangs go forward, with sides and back brushed down.

2. Medium-length strands can follow the curl-free route, too. One way to minimize any natural wave is to roll hair on 4 or 5 super-jumbo rollers. When dry, unspool them so hair falls smooth and semi-straight. Coif can feature a side part, drape bangs, and page boy turn-under.

If softness is needed, stylists suggest taper-cutting front sides so ends fall naturally in a loose wave that cups under the chin.

3. Long hair usually goes straight easily. For those who like to show-off the length, but still keep tresses under control, try a sophisticated version of pigtails. Part hair in centre — from forehead to nape of neck. Divide pigtail fashion, but do not braid. Instead, use a covered elastic on each side to bind hair high above each ear, and another elastic half-way down the length. As actress Jorue Coe illustrates, multi-colored ribbons conceal bands and brighten style.

Foster Film To Be Shown

Dolly's No Witch

DEAR ABBY: You probably will think I am putting you on, but I swear this is true. My wife can predict the weather better than any weather forecaster you ever heard of. No matter what the weatherman says, Dolly will say, "Well, we are going to have rain tomorrow," and sure enough we have rain!

Dolly not only predicts rain, but she can tell you if there is going to be a change in the weather 24 hours in advance. She says when her collarbone aches (it was broken once) it means we are going to have a change of weather, and when her corns start to hurt it means we will have rain or snow.

The guys who forecast the weather on the television are wrong every once in a while, but my Dolly's predictions are never wrong. Tell me, Abby, is she just a good guesser, or am I married to some kind of witch? — Dolly's Man

DEAR MAN: Neither. Dolly's no witch. Lots of people can predict the weather accurately by their aches and pains.

DEAR ABBY: We sent our children to a Christian camp about 70 miles from home. They were there for one week, but here is the problem: While they were there, their uncle went to the camp and took them out for an evening without asking us first. Well, I told him that I thought he had a lot of nerve to take our children out of camp without our permission and now his whole family (except my husband) are up in arms because I rebuffed this uncle.

Was I wrong or was this uncle? — Mad In Maine

DEAR MAD: Unless you disapprove of this uncle, or have good reasons to believe that your children would have been better off in camp, I think you are needlessly over exercised.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ROZZIE: Your boy friend seems to have "bone" trouble. (Too much in the head, and not enough in the spine.) If you love him enough to want to support him, go ahead and marry him.

Line Between Male, Female Is Blurring

Jim Woodruff and Art Sutherland prepare fresh fruit pies

Although there are some who believe "girls belong in the kitchen," Victoria educators make no attempt to confine students to traditional male or female roles.

Girls in Victoria's junior and senior secondary schools are taking woodwork and metalwork.

Boys are enrolling in cooking classes.

Stewart Gibson, supervisor of industrial and vocational education for the Greater Victoria School Board, said an increasing number of girls are taking traditionally male-orienfed classes like drafting.

"About 30 girls are registered in a mincourse in auto mechanics at Victoria Senior Secondary," Gibson said.

"This course gives girls some idea of how a car functions and teaches basic maintenance like greasing and oil changing," he said.

Oak Bay Junior Secondary has four classes in cooking and food services for boys this year and only two in power mechanics.

Principal Peter Boldt thinks the boys make enthusiastic cooks. "One boy had his notebook entitled Cooking and Eating," Boldt said.

Oak Bay Junior also has a course in power mechanics for girls. Boldt said a new non-accredited course in refereeing and games control is proving popular with both boys and girls.

Boldt said that although the department of education does not give credit for this course students who complete the program "should be able to earn a little money refereeing volleyball and soccer games."

At Belmont Senior Secondary boys in cooking and food services classes made fruit pies for the school bazaar. The girls made wrought-iron tables and rings in metalwork classes as their contribution.

Dr. John Wiens, director of instruction for the school board, thinks this tendency amounts to more than "just a blurring of traditional sex roles. He thinks the general interests of students are widening as well.

Wiens suspects that people today are not nearly as "role conscious as they used to be."

"Boys are more aware of the interesting aspects of a girl's life," he said. "Students are showing much more interest in subjects like art and drama than in the past," Wiens said.

Day of Free Ride

When B.C. Hydro's public relations officer Dorothy Tupper entrusted me with a thick manuscript recording the history of the B.C. Electric Company and the story of the street railways, she drew my attention to that day when David Spencer Ltd. "bought" the street railway and the Saanich interurban to celebrate it's golden jebilee.

T. R. Myers, one-time editor of The Buzzer and public relations man for the company, was author of the history. And he wrote that it was on October 1, 1923, "all Victoria residents and everyone on the Saanich Peninsula, rode free for the entire day as guests of the old-established firm."

Large Crowds

Myers recorded that traffic inspectors and conductors reported they carried the largest crowds they ever remembered throughout the entire day and had found it difficult to maintain schedules.

Traffic was particularly heavy on the interurban line. It was literally stormed with people when the first train left for Deep Cove. Hundreds carried picnic baskets for noon and evening meals.

Most consistent early morning passengers in the city area were school children. Many would get on and ride only a couple of blocks. Others seemed to settle down for a day's riding and made a systematic tour of all routes.

Afternoon brought even bigger crowds. When school close about 3 p.m., children simply mobbed the street cars.

Some grown-ups forgot the occasion and from force of habit tendered their fares as they boarded the cats. They soon caught on as they noticed the absence of fare boxes.

Business people and others who had to make routine use of the street cars entered cheerfully into the almost carnival spirit that was abroad.

"Consoling themselves," Myers wrote, "with the thought that such a thing only happened once in 50 years."

It was a great day for David Spencer Ltd. (now the T. Eaton Company) and it was a great day for everyone.

The following year (1924) working passes were inaugurated on the interurban run in try and compete with motor buses and jitneys.

Those passes were transferable to any member of the purchaser's family who could, according to an advertisement "ride as often as you like for business, social or pleasure purposes" between Victoria and any station to Deep Cove."

Price was 50 cents a week between Harriet Road and the city terminus and $4.50 a week covering the full route.

The idea didn't attract sufficient business and in three months the passes were abandoned. In another three months decision was made to close the line. Tracks were lifted and the over-head trolley dismantled.

It took a further 24 years to silence the clang and clatter of the streetcars.

They came through the Second World War mainly because thousands of shipyard and defence workers had to be transported back and forth. Skip stops were started in those years and all the cars sported big "V" for victory signs.

Buses Came

By 1944 buses were being proposed as a new means of transportation. The question should they be run by trolley or gasoline.

Two years later, the city accepted a bid from the B.C. Electric Company to inaugurate, within 18 months, an all-bus service with a seven-cent cash fare, weekly passes at $1 and four tickets for 25.

On July 6, 1948, the last street car made a run from the Beacon Hill terminus, along Government Street to car barns on Pembroke at Store Street.

The car was suitably decorated for the occasion. It was jammed with civic leaders and B.C. Electric Company officials.

Once it reached the terminus the "mourners" numbering about 100, stripped the car of almost everything detachable, including the operator's stool, to take home as souvenirs.

Health Computerized

CALGARY (CP) — A computer comparison of patient illnesses and treatments is being undertaken at the University of Calgary in an effort to make mental health care more precise.

Dr. Keith Pearce, professor of psychiatry at the university and head of the Foothills Hospital department of psychiatry, said the project is designed to improve treatment, reduce staff work and may also shed new light on long-accepted theories of mental illness.

A psychologist, psychiatrist and a computer systems expert are involved in the $30,000 project which has been supported by the Federal Department of Health and Welfare.

Every patient who receives treatment at the Foothills psychiatric unit is given a battery of standardized tests to check mental and physical factors.

The information is then compared with other histories by the computer.

Dr. Pearce has compiled 3,000 to 4,000 computer-readable patient histories at Foothills since the mid-1960s and the project adds to the list at a rate of 100 a month.

Laugh in Classroom

SASKATOON (CP) — A good hearty laugh is "one of the best ways to eliminate problems in the classroom," Dr. Richard Hawes told a group of counsellors and teachers.

"The things we're doing are so serious we can't take them seriously," he said. "If the students can relate to the teacher and the teacher to the students they can get together in the classroom."

Dr. Hawes, an educational and psychological consultant in California, told teachers not to muffle their laughter in classroom situations.

"If something humourous happens in the classroom, laugh at it, its good therapy," he said.

"Medical records show that no one has ever died in the heat of laughter," Dr. Hawes said.

A registration fee of $3.50 will be charged participants in a seminar Friday and Saturday, Nov. 12-13, at the University of Victoria, on the recommednations of the Royal Commission on the Status of Women. The fee was wrongly reported in Saturday's paper as $3.00.

MDs Say That Surgeon Matter of Life, Death

FORT NELSON, B.C. (CP) — Dr. Damien Metten, one of two doctors practising in this northern British Columbia community, said Sunday he will leave at the end of the month unless the provincial government finds a surgeon for the community.

Metten and Dr. Terry Bromley said it is only a matter of time before someone dies for lack of a surgeon.

The community, which has a winter population of about 8,000, has been without a surgeon since Dr. Anthony Kenyon left five months ago.

Metten said he is planning to return to university next July, but would stay as long as possible if the government is prepared to move in.

Neither of the doctors has had a holiday for 18 months.

They say the heavy work load, combined with a cost of living about 25 per cent higher than that in Vancouver, poor pay and the lack of city amenities make it difficult to attract doctors.

They said all their efforts to find a surgeon have failed, and the provincial government has not answered their appeals for help.

Bromley said: "It's not a situation where one can pick and choose . . . A fellow can come into town on Friday with a couple of hundred dollars and blow it all and then come to us needing treatment on Sunday and say 'I haven't got any money but I'll pay when I do.'

$24,000 A YEAR

"We have to treat him anyway, but often we send out bills and get them back stamped: 'No longer at this address.'"

Bromley said another problem arose from people dropping out of the B.C. Medical Plan and giving the number of the card they have allowed to expire.

The doctors said they each make about $24,000 a year before personal income taxes and after overhead expenses. Bromley said the average in B.C. is about $30,000.

Bromley said the nearest surgeon is now in Fort St. John, 247 miles away, "and in winter if the weather closes the airport and the roads, there is nothing you can do.

"With this kind of situation, it's just a matter of time before somebody dies if we don't get a surgeon."

BOOSTER ROOSTER, 6-year-old Danny Baker of Duncan, Saturday won prize for having the best costume — for second year — at the Duncan Kinsmen Club's Halloween bonfire. Danny, son of Mr. and Mrs. Skip Baker, 161 Campbell St., later wore a ribbon with his costume stating: "Don't be a chicken, support United Appeal." Cowichan Valley United Appeal has raised $15,000 of its target of $39,000 with half canvassing completed.

Ambulance Drivers Quit But Service to Continue

LADYSMITH — Despite the Ladysmith Volunteer Ambulance Drivers' Association decision to terminate all services in the area today, residents will still have ambulance service.

Mayor Kay Grouhel said today that four Ladysmith residents, with industrial first-aid certificates, have agreed to take over the serivces. "I am quite confident that more men will volunteer.

"I still regret that the 10 members of the association never saw fit to come around," she emphasized.

The volunteer ambulance drivers had given notice to Ladysmith council Sept. 1 that unless new facilities were completed by the end of October they would terminate all services Nov. 1.

Mrs. Grouhel and council members had advised the drivers that the situation was "regrettable but it is virtually impossible to have the new quarters ready by the deadline set."

At that time plans for a combined $90,000 fire department and ambulance building were being drawn up.

"The working drawings for the ambulance section are being done now and construction will be started before the end of the year," explained Mrs. Grouhel.

"If any of the members of the Volunteer Ambulance Drivers' Association choose to come back they will be welcome at any time," stressed the mayor.

Mill Repairs Nearly Done

CROFTON — The pulp and paper mill here is expected to be back in full operation by Nov. 10 after an eight-week shutdown for major repairs.

One quarter of the mill was shut down in mid-September in order to carry out major repairs on the number one recovery boiler in the pulp section.

Hospital Operating After Fire

CHEMAINUS — The Chemainus General Hospital, which was heavily damaged by fire late Saturday evening, is expected to be back in partial operation sometime today.

No one was injured when the fire, which is believed to have originated in the hospital basement, caused extensive damage to the women's and children's wards and the laundry facility.

All patients that could be discharged were sent home, seriously ill patients were transferred to Ladysmith District Hospital, eight others were being cared for in the basement of the Baptist Church next door to the hospital and one patient was taken to the local nursing home.

Ship Near Help, Doomed Anyway

BAMFIELD, B.C. (CP) — The Tidal Wave II, a 40-foot dragger based in Vancouver, was only one-quarter of a mile away from help when it sank last week off the Cape Beale Lighthouse, five miles west of this community on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

Al Thompson, one of the lighthouse keepers, said Sunday, however, that there was nothing that could have been done to save the two persons on board, even if the vessel had been sighted while in distress.

He described the conditions when the boat is thought to have gone down as "mountainous seas and howling winds."

Debris first spotted in the water by Thompsons's wife on Tuesday was positively identified by the Pacific Rescue Centre Saturday as that of the missing vessel.

Tidal Wave II was carrying two Vancouver residents, Gabriel Major, 36, and Linda Brown, 21, to Tofino where they had planned to fish for crabs.

Port Alberni RCMP said Sunday no trace of their bodies has been found and "it doesn't look too promising."

When the weather cleared late last week, a rescue helicopter reported a structure with floats tied to it and a white mast visible in the 20 feet of water. Navy divers later found the boat's bow, engine and keel on the ocean floor.

Thompson said the boat could not have contacted the lighthouse because the light is on a closed frequency with other Ministry of Transportation installations along the coast.

MAGIC BREW gets a final stir from one-year-old witch Tara Knickerbocker of Lafayette, La., as Jack O'Lantern smiles in anticipation of the ghostly goblin feast. Of course, the Halloween banquet was secret so nobody knows how many of the spirits turned up.

Hard to Bear

EDMONTON (CP) — A man who insisted on bare facts while he was being searched in a downtown hotel has met a judge interested in the naked troth.

Provincial Judge George Forbes was told by police that the man had been asked to remove his coat and shirt while being searched for a cheque that was reported stolen.

The man insisted on a thorough search, dropping his pants and shorts as well before turning to face hotel patrons.

Edward McGovern Ross, 30, of no fixed address, pleaded guilty to charges of causing a disturbance and committing an indecent act.

He was fined $30 and remanded to Nov. 2 on charges of theft.

Ban-Bomb Plea

EDMONTON (CP) — Thelma Rolingher, president of the National Council of Jewish Women of Canada, has added the voice of the 5,000-member organization to the protests over the planned test nuclear explosion on Amchitka Island.

Mrs. Rolingher said in a telegram Sunday to President Richard Nixon that "cancellation of the unnecessary underground test" would demonstrate leadership in the outlawing of the use of such weapons.

Tower Renamed

CALGARY (CP) — The 626-foot-high Husky Tower, built in 1967 at a cost of $3.5 million, has been renamed the Calgary Tower.

"It's a logical change," says Donald Cutler, the tower's general manager. "Since its completion some three years ago, the tower has been accepted internationally as a symbol of the city."

China Flights

BELGRADE (AP) — Air Yugoslavia, the Yugoslav charter airline, said Monday that it is the first foreign company to obtain Chinese permission to organize charter flights to Peking. Yugoslav tourists and businessmen will be passengers on the company's Boeing 707 jet which will make three trips to Peking in December.

Last-Gasp Settlement Brings Teachers Back

RED DEER (CP) — A teachers' strike scheduled for today has been averted by a last-minute decision by school boards to accept a new contract affecting teachers in 64 schools.

The decision was reached at 1 a.m. MST today after a meeting lasting several hours and board representatives are expected to sign the new contract tonight.

The emergency meeting was held after trustees and representatives of the 980 teachers agreed Saturday on contract terms but the teachers had balked when the trustees said they would not sign the two-year contract immediately.

Trustees said the contract could not be signed right away because it would be impossible to get all the representatives together. The teachers said they would go on strike, leaving 19,000 students without classes.

A strike would have affected schools in the counties of Red Deer, Lacombe, Wetaskiwin and Stettler as well as the school divisions of Camrose and Rocky Mountain House.

Details of the contract have not been released although a spokesman for the teachers said last week wages were not among the main issue.

The dispute centred on such fringe benefits as administrative allowances and sabbatical leave. Also involved was appointment of a vice-principal in schools of eight or more teachers and terms of the work week.

About 850 teachers in rural areas north and west of Edmonton returned to school last week after a strike over a contract dispute involving the issue of consultation with the teachers regarding policy changes. The teachers and their boards agreed on a form of consultation and submitted the remaining issues to binding arbitration.

Bombs, Fires, Tricks Mar East Halloween

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Halloween vandalism seemed generally on the decline this year as police reported a few incidents in western Canada, a fairly quiet weekend in central Canada and a livelier time on the east coast.

An explosion early Sunday in Saint John, N.B. ripped a hole in the wall of a Royal Canadian Legion building about an hour after it had been vacated following a dance. The blast, caused by a planted explosive, broke windows in nearby buildings.

Police raids in Newcastle, N.B. turned up 82 sticks of dynamite, 150 gallons of gasoline and 150 rubber tires.

In St. John's, Nfld., police reported a number of razor blades in treats handed out to youngsters.

In Nova Scotia, police said there was the usual array of soaped and broken windows and overturned signs.

GET 30 FIRE CALLS

Wolfville, N.S., was the hot spot as Fire Chief Gesald Wood and his department were called out to 30 fires including five attempts to burn a highway bridge. At one stage firemen were pelted with rocks and apples.

In central and eastern Prince Edward Island there were more than 25 fires, 15 in the Charlottetown area. Two barns containing produce were destroyed.

In Ilderton, Ont., 10 miles northwest of London, fire destroyed two vacant houses, and a school.

At London, Ont., fires were extinguished in burning leaves, tires, garbage, brush, a hydro pole, a mattress and abandoned cars.

In Mount Brydges, 10 miles west of London, a fire early Sunday morning destroyed a recently remodelled, one-room school, temporarily ending an adult education program for Chippewa Indians living on a nearby reserve. Fire Chief Bill Reason said the fire followed a break-in and was set intentionally. Chief Harry Muskokomon estimated damage at $35,000.

PUMPKINS PILE UP

In Toronto Karen Boylan, 16, went collecting used pumpkins with friends for an annual prank and woke up Sunday morning to find 50 of them blocking all doors to her house.

"Each Halloween the pumpkins are dumped on someone's doorstep but I wasn't expecting to be that someone this year," she said.

Toronto police and hospital officials reported the quietest night in years.

Manitoba RCMP reported a quiet weekend as snow and bad weather dampened spirits. There were no incidents of rowdyism.

It was quiet in Alberta and Saskatchewan except for Saskatoon where five young people were charged with possession of a molotov cocktail.

Pranksters set a fire in an abandoned house in New Westminster, but was otherwise free of incidents.

Quit Association

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Manitoba Government Employees Association members have voted to withdraw from the Canadian Federation of Government Employees Organizations.

Delegates to the association's 28th annual convention voted in favor of the withdrawal during the weekend meetings and amended their constitution "to encourage participation in a duly accredited organization of provincial government employees," John Howden, newly-elected president said.

Mr. Howden said the decision reflected the membership's dissatisfaction with the weakness of the national federation and their desire to join a more effective union that would embrace all 180,000 provincial government employees in Canada.

YOUR HEALTH: Dr. Walter Alvarez

Crabby People Hurt Themselves

A while ago I saw a woman who obviously had a very touchy temper. She was so dissatisfied that almost every time she went into a store or a restaurant she demanded to see the manager to complain. She often brought embarrassment to her husband and her guests when in a restaurant; she would find fault with numerous small details, such as a water spot on a knife, or she would make a habit of sending back food that was not exactly to her liking. Her husband once said to me, "Wherever she goes she is always asking for the manager."

What was unfortunate for the woman was that she made her own life utterly miserable. Often, after "making a scene", the woman herself would be all to pieces nervously. Her husband and guests would be uncomfortable, the waiters would be surly, and an otherwise enjoyable evening would be ruined.

I learned very early in life how distressing and wasteful of psychic and emotional energy it is to agrue with people. When I was 19, a man did me a dirty trick. Because I had been trained as a wrestler in college, for a minute my impulse was to jump at the fellow and strangle him. Later, I was so glad that I had not hurt him; how awful if I had killed him. I decided then that I would never allow myself to get angry like that again. It was a good lesson to learn, because I could not do all the work that I do if I spent time being angry. My life is so busy that I have to save my time and energy for work. I cannot waste it on anger.

All of us should try to avoid the habit of getting angry when we read or hear certain things with which we do not agree. We should avoid becoming too rapidly partisan about anything. This can produce tensions which can leave a feeling of illness in some sensitive persons. Or it can produce tensions and sickness in the people who must associate with such a person every day. Many a time a sensitive woman has come to me with her health destroyed because of the tension and distress of living with a crabby, explosive, ill-tempered man.

I remember a very unusual man, a character, always suffering from terrible nervous tensions. As he admitted, too many things made him "hopping mad". He said: "You know, that is the curse of my whole family. We are, most of us, too violently partisan for our own good. We are rabid Democrats, rabid Baptists, rabid anti-alcoholics, rabid vegetarians, rabid homeopaths and rabid anti-vivisectionists. You just try to reason with one of us, and soon you're in an awful fight." These people doubtless had a lot of fun, but they also had a lot of severe nervous tension.

I remember my amusenfent once when I read a letter to the editor from a young woman who, evidently, was one of these painfully opinionated persons. She wrote, "I read the Daily Bulletin before dinner and get so darned mad I can't digest my food and my evening is spoiled. I spend my nights composing caustic letters to the editors, which I never send, but I don't get any sleep."

Obviously, this woman — and there are many like her — should have started training herself early in life to read about a variety of topics without emotion, and certainly without so much annoyance and anger and tension over the statements with which she didn't agree. She would have done well to keep saying to herself, "Perhaps I am wrong and the other fellow is right," or "What difference does it really make?"

Often I say to myself, as many people do, "What difference will it make 10 years from now?" I used to admire a merry woman who had to live with a very argumentative and cantankerous mother. Whenever, as often happened, the mother picked up some remark of her daughter and started a fight about it, the young woman would say, "Oh, skip it," and would leave the room.

HOW TO WRITE
A GOOD
CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room, etc, for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public every day.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—WANT ADS THAT FAIL TO bring the desired results do so usually, not through a lack of readership, but because they are poorly worded or contain inadequate information.

8—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient ad-visor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open daily, Monday through Saturday 8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. for you call.

Records Tumble In Running Meet

VANCOUVER — Two meet records were shattered Saturday as 205 runners competed for honors in the British Columbia cross-country championships at Stanley Park.

Jerry Tighe led Vancouver Olympic Club to victory in the team competition and set one of the new marks by covering the 12,000-metre (7.5 miles) senior men's course in a sizzling time of 37 minutes, 43 seconds. The old record of 39:19.2 was set by Ken French of the University of British Columbia last year.

Bill Smart and Dick Woods, both of UBC, also surpassed the old mark while finishing second and third. Smart clocked in at 37:53 and Woods crossed the finish line in 37:55.4.

Best Vancouver Island harrier in the race was Charlie Thorne of the University of Victoria, who placed seventh.

CLOSE FINISH

The second record was set by Claire Morgan of the South Fraser Club in a photo-finish over clubmate Vicki Weed in the 3,000-metre juvenile women's race. Miss Morgan's 10:49.6 clocking eclipsed the old record of 11:14.8.

Bev Cox, Debbie Reid and Cathy Sapsford, all of Victoria Evergreens, placed third, fourth and fifth, but SFTC captured the team title.

Thelma Fynn of UBC won the senior women's 4,000-metre race in 14:28.4 and was followed across the line by Maureen Crowley of Simon Fraser University (14:57) and Janice Evans of UBC (14:58.4).

RUNNERS OFF COURSE

The team title went to VOC; Wendy Thompson of Uvic was entered in the race but was warming up in another area and was unable to make the starting line in time.

Chris White led Vancouver Optimist Striders to the team title and captured first place in the juvenile men's 5,500-metre race with a time of 17:50.4, well ahead of runner-up Bob Ross of Uvic, who covered the course in 18:12.4.

The 8,000-metre junior men's race was declared void after more than half the field went off course and followed arrows set out for the open race. Uvic had four runners among the first seven at the time of cancellation. The race is expected to be rerun on Nov. 13 at Stanley Park.

Dark Tracks To Support Race Protest

TORONTO (CP) — Four Ontario racetracks may be shut down during the week beginning Nov. 15 as a protest to the continuation of off-track messenger betting shops.

Leslie Ehrlick, Ontario Harness Horsemen's Association president, said he is asking for a meeting of directors to discuss specifically the closing of the tracks.

Ehrlick said a decrease in betting at the tracks is having an adverse effect on the racing industry and he blamed the reduction in business on the messenger shops.

If the membership agrees, Mohawk Raceway at Campbellville, Ont., Western Fair Raceway at London, Ont., Frontenac Downs at Kingston, Ont., and a track at Orangeville, Ont., will be shut down.

ILIE NASTASE BEATS LAVER

WEMBLEY, England (Reuter) — Ilie Nastase, 25-year-old Romanian champion, scored an epic victory over Australian Rod Laver to take the men's singles title in the $50,000 Embassy open tennis championships Saturday night.

In one of the best matches seen at Wembley's Empire Pool in recent years, Nastase paced himself to perfection throughout five sets to clinch a 3-6, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4 triumph and take the $5,000 first prize.

Earlier, former Wimbledon champion Billie Jean King of the United States survived a match point to take the women's singles title with a 6-1, 5-7, 7-5 win over Francoise Durr of France and earn $2,500.

Foster in Good Form

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — Bob Foster peppered Tommy Hicks with left jabs and hard right hands Saturday night and stopped the blond schoolteacher in the eighth round of their scheduled 15-rounder to retain his share of the world light heavyweight championship on a technical knockout.

New Boxing Champ

TOKYO (AP) — Koichi Wajima of Japan dethroned World Boxing Association junior middleweight champion Carmelo Bossi of Italy Sunday by capturing a 15-round split decision. There were no knockdowns.

ISLANDS FERRY BACK WEDNESDAY

Now in Vancouver for repairs after developing engine trouble Friday evening, the B.C. Ferries' Mayne Queen is expected to be back in service Wednesday.

She is used as a standby ferry when others of a similar size are undergoing annual checkups.

The Mayne Queen was taken under tow to Vancouver and B.C. officials were waiting today to hear the cause of her breakdown.

Michener Presents Gallantry Awards

OTTAWA (CP) — Thirty-one awards for gallantry or exceptional service—one of them posthumous—were presented to members of the Boy Scouts of Canada today by Governor-General Rolland Michener, Canada's chief scout.

In an investiture ceremony at Government House, Mr. Michener presented posthumously the Gold Cross for "gallantry, with special heroism and extraordinary risk" to Scout Paul Mraz, 14, of London, Ont. Paul died in May last year attempting to rescue a boy who had fallen from a raft in the Thames River.

The award was accepted by his father, Peter Mraz of London.

Venturer John J. Davis, 17, of Thornhill, Ont., also was awarded a Gold Cross. He is credited with saving the life of a friend after the canoe in which they were crossing a rapids overturned.

FOUR MEN HONORED

The Silver Wolf, for "service of the most exceptional character," was presented to four men.

Lawrence L. Dampier of Vancouver received the award for service to scouting at both provincial and national levels.

M. J. Charles D'Amour, of Trois-Rivieres, Que., and Jean Pelletier and Jean-Marie Poitras, both of Quebec City, received the award for developing closer relations between the Boy Scouts of Canada and l'Association des Scouts du Canada.

In all, 27 cubs, scouts, Venturers and Scouters received awards for gallantry.

Most awards resulted from action which prevented drownings. Others were for rescues and prompt first aid treatment to injured persons.

Those receiving the Silver Cross, awarded for "gallantry with considerable risk," included:

Sixer Kelly A. Woolsey, 11, Slave Lake, Alta.; Scout Marc Ouellette, 12, Cedar, B.C.; Assistant Patrol Leader Thomas J. Saxinger, 12, Cudworth, Sask.; Patrol Second William Wesley, 13, Regina; and Venturer Brent Gordon Gough, 16, West Vancouver.

The Bronze Cross, for "gallantry with moderate risk," was awarded to the following:

Six Neil Andrew Mort, 10, Vancouver; Scout Rhett C. Belimond, 14, Salmo, B.C. A. P. L. Robert A. Konkin, 14, also of Salmo; George W. Tickell, Vancouver, for saving a boy at a cub camp.

SILVER CROSS FOR ISLAND BOY

Marc Ouellette, 12, of Cedar, was among the 35 recipients today of special awards for gallantry or exceptional service, presented to members of the Boy Scouts of Canada by Gov.-Gen. Roland Michener, chief scout of Canada.

Marc received the Silver Cross for "gallantry with considerable risk" in helping to save another boy from drowning in a Cedar gravel pit about 18 months ago.

His father, Robert Ouellette, said today although there were many bathers in the area at the time, Marc was the only one to notice the boy in difficulties.

"He went after him and brought him most of the way to shore before he himself became too exhausted, when another older boy went to help both of them," Ouellette said.

Marc is a student at Woodbank school and a member of the Chase River scout troop.

Money Shortage Shuts Schools

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (UPI) — The city's 25 public schools closed today and 17,000 students were sent home because residents have voted down tax increases necessary to keep schools open.

The school board in Independence — the home town of former U.S. president Harry Truman — set a 95-cent levy increase election for Nov. 9 to get the needed money. School officials promised to reopen classes the next day if the increase is approved.

Three groups fighting the tax increase claim school officials have mismanaged money and that led to the district's financial problems.

If the levy increase fails — which it has twice — schools will not reopen until next months, officials said.

Superintendent Guy Carter said the previous tax defeats made it impossible for the district to meet the November teacher payroll of $715,297.

"All teachers have been placed on leave according to the teacher tenure law," Carter said. "The only staff still on the payroll are a few clerks in this office and maintenance help in the buildings."

Carter said he also is on leave, as is his staff. The district is operating this year on a $10 million budget, he said.

He said he could have kept the schools open if the district had borrowed money on future tax anticipation notes or by asking the governor for an advance payment of state money. But he said both alternatives "would not have solved our problem."

Tories Discuss Tactics Today

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Newfoundland Conservative Leader Frank Moores is scheduled to meet here today with the 20 other PCs elected in last week's provincial general election to discuss the current political situation in this province of 500,000 people.

High on the agenda is the possible changeover of government from the Liberals, who at present have 20 seats in the 42-seat house to the Conservatives' 21.

Premier Joseph Smallwood's Liberals were expected to ask for recounts in close ridings and the 70-year-old premier of 22 years has expressed confidence his party will remain in power.

H. W. Strong, chief electoral officer, said today the Newfoundland Election Act requires that the official count be completed within 12 days.

Candidates have 10 days after the official count in which to apply for recounts.

H. W. Strong, chief electoral officer, said Sunday that the recounts would be completed within 12 days.

Another topic of discussion at today's Conservative caucus will probably be the demands made by Tom Burgess, New Labrador Party leader, who holds the outstanding seat in the house and, in effect, the balance of power in any legislative vote.

Mr. Burgess described himself Sunday as being in "an auctioning position" and has demanded that "certain conditions" be met before he gives his support to either party.

The major conditions include an exemption for Labrador residents from gasoline taxes "because we have no roads" and provision of more doctors and other medical services.

Technique, Artistry In Perfect Balance

By AUDREY JOHNSON
Times Staff

The Czechoslovakian folk company that performs under the abbreviated title of Broln illustrates the ideal relationship between technical excellence and artistry.

On Sunday at the Royal Theatre the group stirred a large audience to cheers in a display of dance and music that had plenty going for it in both areas.

On its first tour of North America, the top-rated European ensemble was brought to this city by Victoria Symphony Society.

The Broln program was a long one but for most of the audience it could have been even longer.

There just seemed to be no end to the variety in musical selections, dance and costume.

And all without — from beginning to end — the slightest flagging of exuberant vitality of precision, of ability to develop splendid climaxes.

Bohumil Smejkal, artist director, first violin and conductor, is a tall slender man who leads his excellent orchestra with lithe, rhythmically precise movements of his entire body — a stamp of the foot, a twist of the torso, a nod, a wave of his bow.

And all the time he is playing with unbelieveable brio or with a tender poetic warmth.

Clearly each member of the ensemble can stand alone as a soloist. There were the two who played exquisitely on the traditional shepherd's pipes, for example, and the two brillaint cimbalon soloists.

But most thrilling was Bretisab Winkler who played the clarinet as one has almost never heard it played before.

Seven girls and seven boys composed the dance ensemble, a fresh animated, superbly graceful group whose constant costume changes brought luscious color to the stage.

Inevitably one was reminded of previous folk groups, particularly those from Russia.

CITY MAN IN CHINA

Charles Burchill, 240 Douglas, a retired professor of history and economics at Royal Roads Military College, and Earl Willmott of Vancouver are heading a 15-member delegation that arrived Friday in Peking.

The group, jointly formed by the Canada-China Friendship Associations in Victoria and Vancouver, includes three other Victorians. They are Dr. Harvey Richardson, Lorne De Girolamo and Dick Quon.

Willmott is an ex-missionary to China. He is accompanied by his wife and one of their three sons, Dr. W. E. Willmott, who is a member of the anthropology department at the University of British Columbia and an authority on Asian peoples.

In making an announcement of the Canadians' arrival, the New China news agency said the group was invited by the Chinese People's Association for Friendship with Foreign Countries.

WOMEN ELECTED

BERN (AP) — The Swiss elected at least six women to parliament Sunday in the first national election in which women could vote and run for office.

Incomplete returns also indicated Switzerland's coalition government will maintain its moderate political balance.

More than half of the 3.6 million Swiss eligible to vote are women, but election officials said their turnout at the polls was far less than the men's. Women won the right to vote in a national referendum last February.

Unofficial results showed only minor changes in the 200-member lower house. The Socialists won 24 of 56 seats already decided, a gain of one, while the Christian Democrats held on to three and the Agrarian, Tradesmen's and Citizen's party kept four

Saanich Summer Village

The 1972 Canadian International Summer Village will be held at St. Margaret's School in Saanich.

Announcement of the school as next year's site was made when the Vancouver Island Chapter of the Children's International Summer Village held its annual meeting Saturday.

Adult counsellor Shirley Bell reported on a camp she attended with four Greater Victoria children this summer. The village was held in a boys' orphanage in the Austrian city of Graz. Attending with her were Stephen Nairn, Christine Horne, Caroline Vanderhoor and Laurie Bunch, all 11.

The exchange visit to Graz was part of the Children's International Summer Villages Inc., founded as a non-profit corporation in 1950. Established in more than 40 countries on five continents, its objective is to bring together children from all over the world to promote world understanding and peace.

A talk and slide show were also presented at the meeting by four children chosen by the Nanaimo chapter of the CISV to attend an International Village in Waterloo, Ont., this summer. They were Marty Tinga, Terry-Lynne Philip, Chris Huber and Gerry Kellman.

Mrs. Donald McKimmie was elected chairman of the Vancouver Island chapter.

Other new officers are: first vice-president, Joanne Borserio; second vice-president, Hugh Ferguson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. L. Thorne; treasurer, Larry Krueger; selection committee, Mick Auger; membership, Mrs. Roger Sweeny; legal adviser, Anna Wootton; auditors, Mr. and Mrs. Clare Yarwood.

3 Victoria Youths In New Cabinet

Three Victoria youths will serve as cabinet ministers when the Older Boys' Parliament meets at the Legislative Buildings Dec. 27-31 for its 41st session.

David North, 176 Sims, will be premier.

Michael Hare of Lansdowne College at the University of Victoria is minister of archives and public relations, and Michael Crowe of 2437 Sooke Road is minister of extra-sessional affairs, which include the annual summer camp the parliament holds for underprivileged children.

Other cabinet members are Rob Weston, Vancouver, attorney-general; Tom Noort, Port Coquitlam, finance; Alan Wing, Vancouver, social welfare; Neil McDermid, Kamloops, interior and interprovincial affairs; George Cadman, Vancouver, provincial secretary, publications and devotions.

Dave MacLeod of Vancouver was elected deputy speaker and Mark Minchel of Surrey leader of the opposition at the last sitting.

The Older Boys' Parliament involves boys from age 15 to 21 who meet annually to deliberate on matters that concern them.

The group also does work in the social service field, including a half-way house for first-time juvenile offenders.

3rd Battalion To Get Colors

Governor-General Roland Michener will present colors to the 3rd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry at a special parade Saturday, Nov. 20, at Work Point Barracks.

Immediately following the presentation the Colonel-of-the-Regiment, Maj.-Gen. Cameron B. Ware, will add a wreath of laurel in silver gilt to the colors.

The 3rd Battalion, PPCLI, was formerly the 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, and was redesignated when the QOR of C was removed from the forces' regular order of battle, April 26, 1970.

HEROIC ACTIONS

A silver gilt wreath of laurel was placed on the original PPCLI regimental color by the colonel-in-chief, then Princess Patricia of Connaught. The presentation took place at her farewell parade in Bramshott Camp, Liphook, England, Feb. 21, 1919, in recognition of the PPCLI's heroic actions during the First World War.

Replicas of the original wreath were presented to the 1st and 2nd Battalions in 1964 to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the regiment's founding.

Only one other regiment in the history of British Commonwealth armies has been awarded a wreath to the color. In 1880, Queen Victoria placed a wreath of immortelles on the staff of the color of the South Wales Borderers.

FIRST OVERSEAS

The PPCLIs were the first Canadian unit to arrive overseas in the First World War and the first Canadians to see action against the Germans. They also hold the distinction of being the only unit in the Commonwealth armies to carry its color into every First World War engagement.

The 2nd Battalion was the first Canadian unit to take part in the Korean campaign and the only Canadian unit to ever win a United States Presidential Citation.

Seek New Crop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin left Monday for Turkey to discuss with government officials there possible crop alternatives for Turkish farmers ordered to quit growing opium poppies. Turkey earlier banned further poppy production, and the U.S. has pledged help in finding alternative crops for producers.

November 9 is D-Day For Israeli B-Day

TEL AVIV — Israeli anti-clericalists are preparing to "celebrate" National Bastard Day Nov. 9. The name of the day was chosen in honor of Jews born out of wedlock who are unable to marry in Israel because of the rabbinate's monopoly on marriage. The Bible says bastards cannot be regarded as Jews. Therefore the rabbinate refuses to allow them to marry in Israel. If they wed outside the country, the marriage is still not recognized.

OTTAWA — The courts should be open 24 hours a day to avoid undue hardship for the poor, Chief Justice Emmett Hall of the Supreme Court of Canada said at the weekend. Such a system would allow poor people to go to court after working hours and keep them from losing wages, he said.

ANNE . . . glimpse of China

PUERTO VALLARTA — forty-eight-year-old actor Peter Lawford and 21-year-old Mary Rowan, daughter of television Dan Rowan, were married here at the weekend. Lawford was divorced four years ago by his first wife, Patricia, sister of John Kennedy.

HONG KONG — Princess Anne had her first glimpse of China Sunday. She and a party of army officers went horse riding to the top of a hill overlooking the Chinese border from where they could see 15 miles into the country. The princess ends her week-long visit to Hong Kong today.

LONDON — "I feel that I am sitting on the top of a volcano and I honestly don't know if it is going to erupt," Prime Minister Indira Gandhi says of India's dispute with Pakistan. Mrs. Gandhi, on a world tour seeking support for India in the dispute, says a swift, negotiated settlement between the government of President Yahya Khan and the Bengali rebels in East Pakistan is imperative, and the millions of refugees must be allowed to return to East Pakistan.

KINGSTON, Mass — The little lonely parrot who plucked himself naked is dead. Leland-made headlines when his nakedness became known and suggestions poured in from across the continent. One was to give him a girl friend and soon Leland started to grow feathers again. Last weekend the girl-friend took up with another parrot and this weekend Leland died. Official cause of death was a cold.

NEW YORK — A routine search at Kennedy airport of Howard Samuels, 19-year-old son of the millionaire president of the New York Off-Track Betting Corp., turned up 10 bags of heroin in one jacket pocket, two ounces of cocaine and barbiturate pills in the other. It was the second arrest in two years for Samuels.

JULIE ANDREWS AUTHOR? Yes, it's true. The actress, with daughter Jenny, 14, at her side tells of a wager she took with her children the result of which was "Mandy", a tale of a lonely country girl. Scholastic magazine has given the children's book a rave review.

Scholarship Plan Honors Designer

A scholarship is being set up at the University of Victoria in memory of costume designer Alan Granstrom, who died in Chicago last Thursday.

The scholarship will be awarded to students who distinguish themelves in the field of costume design.

Granstrom joined the theatre division of Uvic's fine arts department more than two years ago, after establishing a reputation for innovative costume creations with the Seattle Repertory Theatre.

His designs here made an important contribution to the early Victoria Fair productions in 1969, and he also acted in a number of productions.

Granstrom left Victoria a year ago to join the faculty of Northwestern University near Chicago as a professor of costume and design in the theatre department.

He is survived by his mother, who lives in Seattle.

The Uvic scholarship fund will be administered by Prof. Carl Hare.

Six-Year-Old Boy Chose Coptic Pope

CAIRO (WP) — A six-year-old boy, Aymen Munir Kamel, Sunday chose the 117th pope of the Christian Coptic Church in a ceremony at the Cathedral of St. Mark here. The new pope, Bishop Anba Shinuda, becomes the religious leader of 4 million Copts in Egypt, 14 million in Ethiopia and small communities in Sudan, Kuwait, the United States (where there are said to be some 10,000) and Europe.

At the end of a mass chanted in Arabic and Coptic, the ancient Hamitic language now used only in church ceremonies, Aymen, with a red scarf bandaged around his eyes, drew from a silver casket a slip of paper bearing Bishop Shinuda's name. The casket contained the names of the three candidates who had topped the poll in an election among the Coptic clergy.

Aymen was selected from a group of nine boys presented to the acting pope, Bishop Antonius.

None of the three candidates was present in the 100-year-old cathedral. Bishop Shinuda was at the Coptic monastery at Wahdi el Natroun, some 100 miles north of Cairo.

A 48-year-old theologian Shinuda, as a young officer, fought for Egypt in the 1948 war with Israel. As the patriarch of the Copts, who claim to be the original inhabitants of Egypt, Shinuda is the successor to St. Mark, who founded the Coptic church in Alexandria in 61 AD.

His predecessor, Kirollos, died last March after a reign of 12 years.

The Copts remain an influential minority in Muslim Egypt. One member of the government, the minister for tourism, Ibhragim Naguib, is a Copt.

BRIGHT STARS ABOVE AND THE STAGE BELOW

By IAIN MacLEOD

LONDON (CP) — John Morris is an enterprising young theatrical promoter who reckons that it's about time British audiences got their money's worth.

Morris, who made his name in Canada when he staged a free pop festival on the steps of Toronto's city hall, has taken over the lease on a bizarre north London cinema, done some restoration work and installed advanced lighting and sound equipment at a cost of £50,000.

Soon, he says, "I'll be able to present any type of show, whether its a rock music performance or a Shakespeare production, better than anywhere else in Britain."

Opening night is Nov. 4 with a concert by The Who, a British pop group.

The cinema was built in 1930 and despite its drab exterior, is spectacular inside. A silver fountain stands in the foyer sprinkling water into a goldfish pool below—"I've put my 18 pet goldfish in there," long-haired Morris, a New Yorker, said.

The 4,000-capacity auditorium has given many cinema goers in the past the feeling of sitting out in the open. Its ceiling of blue acoustic plaster is speckled with 5,000 simulated stars complete with mock cloud effects.

The stage stands amid the scenery of a Spanish village through which it is possible to roam, while the efficient tiering system allows spectators in the back rows a clear view of the stage.

This, the first cinema converted to a concert hall in Britain, is the brain child of Morris, who sees it as "a much needed addition to the British entertainment scene."

At 32, Morris has already made more than $500,000 as a theatrical promoter.

"But I've plowed most of it back into other productions. I mean, I could go broke tomorrow," he said in an interview. "My whole life is a gamble."

That First Winter Frost Needn't Nip Too Keenly

How true it is that every garden has its own little climate, or micro-climate as you will find it called in up-to-date garden literature.

The first sharp frost of last week was of varying intensity in each section of the Saanich Peninsula, and then we find too that almost every garden varied in its amount of tender plant damage.

We can have no real regrets when summer annuals, like the different kinds of marigolds, suddenly succumb to frost. This is the way when we grow plants from tropical countries.

Occasionally, however, we see the same sort of annuals blackened in one garden but still mainly untouched in an adjacent garden.

If we feel like analysing the situation, significant clues begin to mount up.

The plants which proved more frost-free may have had the drainage of air flow broken by shrubs or an open weave fence to filter the cold air and prevent it from settling as a cold mass around the plants.

The garden soil may have had more sand in its structure and less humus, therefore retained less moisture to be evaporated from the surface to settle as frost on the leaves of the plants.

The presence of rock at or near the surface of a garden will often determine the amount of frost dwelling around plants. Rock is slow to lose its warmth, and particularly in the case of fall frosts rocks are the means of lengthening the life of summer annuals.

It was a common sight around the rocky ground on which the British Columbia Law Courts now stand (Blanshard and Quadra Streets) to find that orange colored California poppy (Eschscholtzia) in scattered bloom all winter. Similarly, it could be seen in the rock outcroppings just over the Johnson Street Bridge.

The soil was poor, and porous; the rocks held warmth sufficiently to keep the plants in sporadic bloom regardless of weather and season.

Now that November is with us, dahlia tubers should be lifted for storage in a cool, not too dry place. If the foliage has not been frosted, begin to reduce the height of the plants by one-third. Do this in three stages, to aid maturity of the tubers.

Tuberous begonias, if still blooming, can be left until frost finds them when the leaves, stems and old flowers will fall naturally. Then lift the plants, pack into shallow boxes until all top growth has fallen, removing the pieces daily since their succulence may start a rot that may spread to the tubers.

When the soil has dried and all top growth has gone, rub the tuber carefully with the fingers to clean; then store in dry sand where the temperatures will not be lower than 45 deg. F. for winter.

MARK TRAIL

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KABPIN

(c) 1971, Chicago Tribune-New York News Syndicate, Inc.

The ancient story of the wooden horse that the Greeks built, and which the Trojans took into their city of Troy, is well known. Afterwards that night, Greek soldiers emerged from the horse and opened the city gates to the Greek army, who then proceeded to sack the city.

At the bridge table, during the daily skirmishes that take place between declarer and the defenders, this wooden horse has its counterpart time and time again. And there are those who have not learned the lesson that history has taught. A case in point would be our East defender in today's deal. The hand came up in a rubber-bridge game.

Both sides vulnerable. South deals.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Four of ◇.

West's opening diamond lead was taken by South's king, after which the jack of spades was led. East properly declined to take this trick. Next came the ten of spades, the eight-spot being played from dummy. Once again East refused to win his ace.

From East's position, with West having followed suit to both spade leads, he knew that South had no more spades. And hence, by declining to win his spade ace, he would effectively prevent both the establishment and the cashing of the board's spades.

With the ten of spades winning, South now led a heart to dummy's ace, and then returned dummy's remaining heart. When play had ended, South had made two spade tricks, four hearts, two diamonds, and a club, thus fulfilling his game contract.

East should have won South's second spade lead of the ten-spot. Surely East should have figured out that if declarer wanted to establish dummy's spade suit, he would have overtaken the ten with the queen, in order to keep on playing that suit. Hence declarer's failure to overtake should have indicated to East that South was hoping is ten-spot would win the trick.

Had East taken the spade ten and returned a diamond, South would have gone down. He undoubtedly would have next led the heart queen and finessed against West's hoped-for king. The defenders would then have made three diamond tricks, plus the spade ace and heart king.

LIGHT FOOD FOR THOUGHT

LONDON (UPI) — The British Army announced it has come up with a new form of emergency rations — candies.

The army said the candies will primarily be used for their usual function — lighting — but added they could also be taken as a light meal if soldiers got stranded.

It did not specify what they tasted like.

(Mr. Hunter welcomes suggestions for puzzles. Write him at the Victoria Times, 2631 Douglas St).

"How many did you say?" asked Linda. "I didn't write it down."

"You should have. This is the third time I've told you," replied Mike. "It's got three digits, and you double it if you add three to the first and take away three from the last digit. Figure that out and you'll remember."

How many then?

(Answer tomorrow)

Friday's answer: Square had 36 numbers, from 311 to 346.

India Hits Back

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Indian troops struck back and silenced Pakistani guns that had been shelling the town of Kamalpur on India's border with East Pakistani for 11 days, an Indian defence ministry official said today. He called the frontier incident "serious."

The official, joint defence secretary P. Krishnamurthi, also said that Indian anti-aircraft batteries fired on Pakistani aircraft that crossed the western frontier today and flew over the airport at Srinagar, capital of Kashmir.

The official radio Pakistan said that Indian troops had made two attacks in company strength during the day across the border into East Pakistan in an area north of the Kamalpur sector.

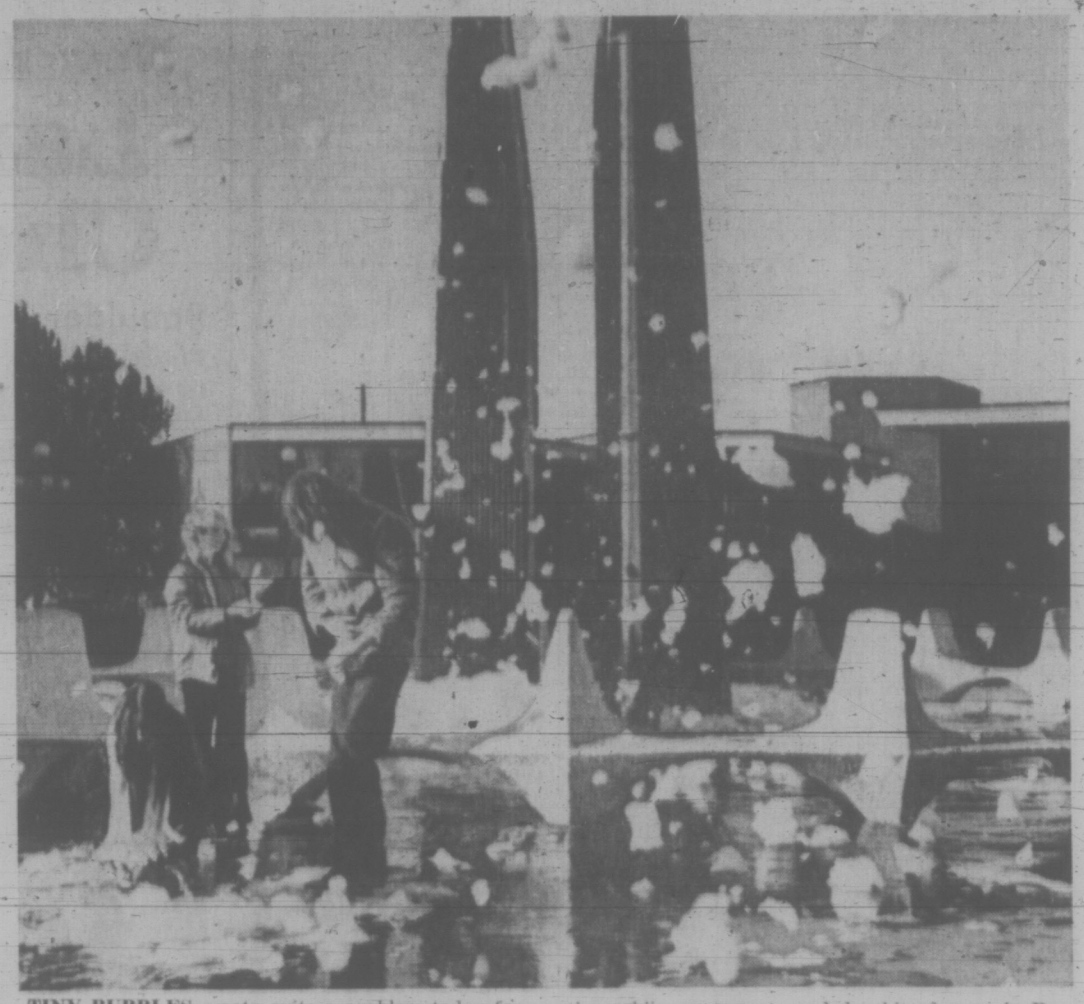
The Press Trust of India quoted official sources in Calcutta as saying today the government is placing all areas bordering East Pakistan off limits to foreigners without special permission. The news agency said no reason was given for the action but that there had been allegations of "espionage" by foreigners in the areas.

Krishnamurthi said in reply to a question that it was the first time retaliatory measures of the type had been taken. He said he did not know how many troops were involved.

He described as "a serious incident" the latest clash reported between Indian and Pakistani forces in the build-up of troops along their borders as a result of tensions arising from the East Pakistan civil war.

Radio Pakistan said the two Indian attacks were beaten off with a total of 32 Indians killed and 21 wounded. It said the attacks were launched after an artillery barrage.

The radio also said that Indian forces made another attack on a Pakistani post along the border with India's West Bengal state today. Three Indians were killed in the fighting, it said.



TINY BUBBLES create quite a problem today for city workmen after Halloween pranksters Sunday pulled the old bubble-bath-in-the-fountain trick at Centennial Square. Someone apparently thought the public monument needed a bit of a wash. Police didn't laugh too hard, however. They apprehended three youths Sunday shortly after the stunt.

Job Picture All Gloomy

Times News Services

OTTAWA — Gloomy forecasts for the winter's employment outlook prevailed as finance ministers and officials from the 10 provinces met Finance Minister E. J. Benson today.

Mr. Benson told the conference all signs point up for strong economic growth, but unemployment remains the primary problem.

Premier Allan Blakeney of Saskatchewan and Finance Minister Saul Cherniack of Manitoba criticized the federal government for acting too slowly and timidly in fighting unemployment.

Provincial Treasurer Darcy McKeough of Ontario caught the attention of conference delegates by releasing his main policy paper to reporters Sunday night. It called for credits on personal income tax to offset part of the burden of sales and property taxes on lower-income families.

WANT MORE DIALOGUE

Ontario also called for a revitalization of the process of federal-provincial tax and fiscal policy consultations.

Manitoba's analysis of unemployment prospects, tabled by Mr. Cherniack, showed unemployment declining only slightly next summer and then growing ominously again in the winter of 1972-73 almost to its current levels.

"These figures paint a bleak picture," the Manitoba brief said. "The unemployment rate falls only slightly as the effects of the recent federal measures work their way through the economy.

"The effect of the measures diminishes rapidly at the end of next year and unemployment for the following winter rises to exceed the levels predicted for this winter."

NOTES FORWARD THRUST

Ottawa has not made public its own forecasts for unemployment for the coming year.

Mr. Benson said there is a forward thrust in demand, production and employment, sparked by healthy consumer spending and government outlays. But he added that unemployment still looms large.

He said also that the cost of living rise appears to have

Quebec Again Says No

OTTAWA (CP) — The Quebec government says it won't participate in some federal measures to combat winter unemployment unless they are placed under greater provincial control.

In a statement today to a meeting of federal and provincial finance ministers, Quebec Finance Minister Raymond Garneau rejected a $50-million federal program of grants to community organizations undertaking winter works projects.

"Our government shall not participate in the administration of such a program and we wish to make it very clear that we will not undertake any share of the financing of such new projects unless they can be approved and assisted by virtue of already-existing provincial programs or budgets."

Britain on Full Alert After London Blasts

LONDON (CP-AP) — British authorities went on a full alert in Britain today following two bomb blasts in London while in Belfast terrorists killed two policemen in a machine-gun ambush.

Earlier in Belfast, another bomb was detonated in a downtown department store blowing debris and shattered glass into the street.

There were no deaths in either the London or Belfast bombings.

One bomb in London at 1:45 a.m. blasted the headquarters of the Royal Tank Regiment a quarter of a mile from Parliament. Earlier, the other ripped a gaping hole in the 31st floor of the Post Office Tower, the highest building in Britain.

First reports indicated the tower was blasted by the outlawed Irish Republican Army. But the IRA in Dublin, usually quick to claim the credit for anti-British bomb attacks, denied planting the tower bomb.

A Belfast police spokesman said the two detectives were gunned down in a suburban avenue when they went to investigate a reported burglary at a newspaper shop.

The killings took the two-year death toll in the fighting between Protestants and Roman Catholics in troubled Northern Ireland to 146, 12 of them police officers.

In the Belfast bombings, attributed to the IRA guerrillas, the blast injured six shoppers and pedestrians in the morning rush-hour crowd outside.

LIGHT BOMB FUSE

The bomb, wrapped in a duffel bag, blew out the ground floor of the Automobile Association, and a radio centre on Great Victoria Street. Ambulances rushed the injured, most of them cut by flying glass, to hospital.

The bomb was planted in broad daylight as shops and offices opened. An office clerk said two men armed with pistols walked into the building, lit the bomb fuse and yelled "you've got four minutes to get out."

Terrified office workers fled before the blast blew debris and shattered glass into the street.

Gunmen wearing masks invaded three more border customs posts Sunday night and today, forced the occupants to leave and planted bombs which destroyed the structures, an army spokesman said.

There were no injuries.

The attacks on the posts at Kinawley, Stabane and Belleek came 24 hours after similar bombing raids destroyed eight other customs posts along the Northern Ireland-Irish republic border. The weekend attacks left only six posts still operative.

The death toll from violence increased by four over the weekend, bringing to at least 108 the number killed since August, 1969, when the army was called in to put down rioting.

In London, a mystery telephone call claimed both explosions there were set off by The Angry Brigade, a secret anarchist movement dedicated to wrecking British society by violence.

GROUP BLAMED BEFORE

An anonymous telephone call to the British Press Association claimed the Post Office Tower bombing was to protest Britain's entry into the Common Market and the blast at the army barracks was to demonstrate against the British government's handling of the crisis in Northern Ireland.

The Angry Brigade has been blamed for half a dozen previous explosions in London, including blasts at the home of a government minister and the head of the Scotland Yard police force.

NEWS BRIEFS

Littering Costly

REGINA (CP) — Beginning today police start issuing $2 tickets to anyone caught throwing refuse on streets. The action is aimed at anyone who discards or deposits any "type of refuse or like material in any public place which includes streets, lanes, boulevards, bridges, watercourses, parks or school yards."

Prank Death

BLACKFALDS, Alta. (CP) — Alfred Ralph Appema, 17, of Blackfalds was killed Sunday when his car struck a barricade of straw bales which police said were placed by Halloween pranksters. Police said charges would be laid if the pranksters are found.

Tito Expected

OTTAWA (CP) — President Josip Broz Tito of Yugoslavia arrives here Tuesday night to begin a five-day Canadian visit for talks with Prime Minister Trudeau, a news conference and an honorary degree.

Airport Tussle

LONDON (CP) — Thousands of demonstrators struggled with police today in an angry protest by Heathrow Airport workers against operations of the Canadian-owned company General Aviation Services. Workers fear the use of the company will cost jobs at Heathrow.

Bishops Defiant

ROME (UPI) — Ukrainian Catholic bishops announced flatly today they are holding a synod in defiance of a Vatican ban on such a self-governing assembly.

Last Protest Before Blast

Plans are being made in Victoria today for a last-ditch protest Wednesday of the proposed nuclear test blast on Amchitka Island.

A meeting is scheduled for tonight at St. John's Anglican Church at 7:30 p.m. to organize the local protest, which will include high school and university students and supporters of the Amchitka Two protest group.

There is still some confusion of the time the protest Wednesday will take place, but organizers are trying to arrange an afternoon of speeches at Centennial Square, starting at 1:15 p.m.

SHUTDOWN CALL

Latest report indicates the test blast is scheduled for Thursday. In Washington, a federal judge turned down requests by American environmentalists to halt the explosion. U.S. District Judge George Hart's ruling frees lawyers for groups protesting the blast to file an immediate appeal to a higher court.

Meanwhile, the B.C. Federation of Labor has called for a half-hour "shutdown for survival" between 11 and 11:30 a.m. Wednesday to protest the explosion.

The 150,000-members of affiliated unions in the labor group were asked to cease work Wednesday to "emphasize our horror" at the test, said federation secretary Ray Haynes.

F. G. Peskett, president of the Employers Council of B.C., said his organization does not plan to take any position in face of the move by the labor federation.

WALK OUT

However, he hoped employees who stop work Wednesday will not expect to be paid for it.

Some students have indicated they plan to walk out of Victoria schools at 11 a.m. Wednesday but nothing definite will be scheduled until tonight's meeting.

Greater Victoria school board chairman Allan McKinnon said today he would have preferred the protest to take place on a Saturday or Sun-

CONSULATE BOMB TARGET

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg police have placed the United States consulate building as well as the home of consul-general William B. Kelly under 24-hour observation following an attempted fire-bombing of the consulate early today.

Police said a young man, believed between 20 and 25 years of age, attempted to throw a Molotov cocktail firebomb into the furnace room of the building about 1:15 a.m.

Police said the can of gasoline was thrown through a window, but hit the furnace which rests against the window and bounced back out. The burning fuse extinguished itself in the snow.

No arrests have been made.

Kelly said the consulate and his home will be under constant watch by police until Friday, the day the proposed U.S. nuclear test on Amchitka Island is scheduled to take place.

Kelly said he feels sure the attempted bombing was to protest the five-megaton test in the Aleutian Islands.

Oil Kills Birds

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Between 100 and 150 birds have been injured or killed in a navy fuel oil spill in San Diego Bay, state wildlife officials say. Commander C. C. Edwards of the naval station confirmed Sunday that a ship lost 1,000 to 1,500 gallons of distillate fuel oil.

Toll 15,000 In Tidal Wave

NEW DELHI (AP) — A 16-foot tidal wave swept through villages along the Bay of Bengal last Friday and local political leaders estimated, after a tour of the area, that 15,000 persons, perhaps as many as 20,000, had died.

The Indian government radio reported that at least a million homes had been destroyed or damaged so severely as to leave four million persons homeless in the newest disaster to afflict the Indian subcontinent.

The Cuttack and Balasore districts of eastern Orissa State, 150 miles southeast of Calcutta, appeared to be the areas hardest hit by the tidal wave and accompanying cyclonic winds of up to 100 miles an hour.

The Times of India, in a dispatch from Cuttack, said air drops of food were urgently required in some areas where all roads, rail lines and air strips had been flooded or destroyed.

300,000 DIED IN 1970

A similar tidal wave last November killed at least 300,000 persons in the Gange River basin in East Pakistan, 300 miles northeast of this weekend's disaster area.

The latest storm passed Sunday from Orissa to neighboring West Bengal state, destroying homes and rice crops in coastal villages that only two months ago were ravaged by the annual monsoon floods.

The area in West Bengal is filled with East Pakistani refugee camps, although initial reports said most of the camps had escaped the brunt of the storm.

Quebec Evacuation

SHIPSHAW, Que. (AP)—An earth movement a mile from the scene of an earlier slide that killed 31 persons brought the evacuation Sunday of 385 residents of this town 115 miles north of Quebec City.

Forty-nine families in the east end of Shipshaw were evacuated on orders of government geologists.

The earth movement covered an area 125 feet.

It was about a mile from the slide at St. Jean Vianney May 4 which swept more than 40 homes into a huge crater and forced abandonment of the town.

Those evacuated spent the night, in a junior college in nearby Jonquiere. However, it was not known how long the 49 families would remain there.

Desperate Mother Smashes Window in Food Depot

MONTREAL (CP) — A desperate mother of three smashed the windows of an emergency food depot in the southwest district of Point St. Charles Sunday night when she was told there was no food for her children.

"I did it because my babies were starving an no one would listen," said the unidentified woman. "What else would I do?"

The depot was expecting supplies gathered at an emergency food drive held this weekend in this poverty ridden area. The drive was organized to help welfare recipients last through October, an especially difficult month this year.

Recipients are mailed welfare cheques once a month, but the cheques are geared to cover a normal four-week month. This October welfare recipients have to hold out a fifth week before receiving November's allotment.

The owners of the food depot refused to press charges, and the woman, who suffered a cut right foot from the flying glass, was released by police.

The woman's children, aged three months to five years, were temporarily abandoned during the incident. They were later fed milk and potato chips.

Stopgap Aid Bill Likely As Nixon Draws New Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate foreign relations committee confers today amid the ruins of the U.S. foreign aid program to start deciding whether, when and how to put it together.

Senator J. W. Fulbright, the committee chairman, predicted Senate approval of a stopgap aid program, although he said the committe may do no more than discuss the alternatives today.

President Nixon let it be known he wants temporary extension of a co-ordinated aid bill while he drafts a new assistance program.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott also urged passage of an interim program and called on Congress to develop a new bill "to keep the peace." He said he supports temporary extension of aid at existing levels.

METHOD IN DOUBT

The prospect was that major portions of the program would indeed be salvaged despite the Senate vote that killed a bill authorizing $2.9 billion to keep overseas assistance flowing.

Exactly how was another question. The resolution under which the aid program and the agency that runs it are financed will expire in 15 days.

The White House said Sunday Nixon rejects the idea of piecemeal appropriations for one or another of the aid programs included in the defeated bill.

If the temporary extension is approved, officials said, Nixon then plans to prepare and push for enactment of an entirely new aid program.

Fulbright said Sunday he foresees continuation of the more popular aid programs, although attempts to include military assistance could endanger any revival efforts.

Interviewed on the CBS news program Face the Nation, Fulbright did not rule out continuation of military aid to South Vietnam although he said such programs are "sticking points" threatening passage.

One program likely to be continued, he said, is money for Pakistani refugees.

PEKING FLAG FLIES AT UN

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The red flag of Communist China was hoisted for the first time today outside the United Nations, and diplomatic sources said Peking would move rapidly to assume its position as the fifth world power at the U.N.

The red flag, bearing five gold stars, was listed as that of "China, the People's Republic of." A number of police cars were dispatched to the area but no protesters showed up as expected to denounce the Communists.

Although Peking is expected to move quickly to establish itself in the United Nations, UN sources said Peking still had not said exactly what day its representatives would arrive, or supplied a name list.

U.S. ambassador George Bush, who lost his fight to retain Nationalist China's seat in the body, predicted Sunday that admission of Peking would bring about a triangulation of power in the U.N.

Birds Drop Gorge in Mire

By DAN STINSON

UBC Thunderbirds and Gorge Molsons threw mudpies at each other while North Shore Labatts made a clean break into first place in Pacific Coast Soccer League action at the weekend.

Thunderbirds, guests of Molsons at Royal Athletic Park Saturday, splashed their way to a 2-1 victory, and North Shore slipped one point ahead of idle Victoria West-United Sunday at Vancouver on a 1-0 win over Vancouver Inter-Italia.

UBC and Gorge likely have some of the fastest, best-conditioned players in the league. Pity they didn't get a chance to prove themselves Saturday.

But how do you play soccer on a cow pasture?

The field at Athletic Park was a disgrace. Consequently, the calibre of the game suffered — badly. But the players put up a valiant effort, and 250 fans who braved the wet, cold weather witnessed a fairly respectable contest.

The only thing clear was that UBC is the superior side, perhaps because they adapted better to the mire, but more likely because they have the talent.

Thunderbirds were no ball of fire, mind. But they did take advantage of scoring opportunities while Molsons repeatedly muffed theirs.

Gorge actually controlled play for about half the game, and penetrated UBC's zone dangerously on occasion.

But, once there, Molsons beat themselves. Errant passing and poor positioning results in sloppy play, and it was obviously frustrating to the hard-working Molsons who found the field difficult to cope with.

UBC took a 1-0 lead after 38 minutes on a classic effort. Right winger Tony Mayor beat two defenders deep in the Gorge zone and fed inside right Doug Wilson a perfect pass on the 18-yard line.

Unmarked, Wilson had time to pick a target and boomed a low drive past Gorge goalkeeper Graham Lee.

Linesman Peter Bishop signalled the play offside, but referee Jack Adams of Victoria overruled, and the visitors took a one-goal lead into the dressing room at half time.

It stood up until 15 minutes into the second half when Gorge linkman Mark Robb hustled down the left side and placed a well-aimed ball directly in front of the UBC goal.

Eagerly waiting was George Hyne who leaped in the air and headed the ball past Thunderbirds' goalkeeper Greg Weber.

Hyne's picture effort seemed to give his teammates some spark. Danny Henry, Joe Poulton and Rick Lamoureux barely missed the net from close in.

But the play gradually went over to UBC again after coach Joe Johnson substituted two reserves and moved the ever-dangerous Mayor to centre forward, 12 minutes before time.

The switch paid off. Jim Sator, one of the reserves, saw Mayor standing alone in front of the Gorge goal and fed him a short, chip-shot pass.

Mayor neatly headed the ball past Lee, who was caught going the wrong way, and it was 2-1.

North Shore Moves to Top In Coast Soccer

Cosmopolitan Royals pulled off one of the biggest surprises of the Victoria and District Soccer League season Sunday as they hung on to defeat University of Victoria Vikings 4-3 in Division I competition.

Victory kept Royals in a first-place tie with London Boxing Club and dropped Uvic into a deadlock for second place with Oak Bay.

It was the second loss of the young season for the flashy Vikings, who had appeared likely to be the class of their division.

HAMILTON SHINES

Meanwhile, Bill Hamilton pumped in three goals to lead the Boxers to a 4-0 triumph over Roadrunners, and Ken Pierce scored twice as Duncan Village Green edged Vic West, 2-1.

In Division II action, Prospect Lake got two goals each from Ted King and Mike McDonald to down Labattas, 4-2, and grab a share of first place with Lake Hill, who nipped Gorge, 3-2. Carl Olson booted three goals and his brother Chris notched two more as Saanich Braves crushed Century Inn, 6-0.

A pair of three-goal efforts highlighted action in Division III. Yan Zriesen fired three tallies to help Oak Bay trounce Saanich, 7-1, and Mike Costello found the target three times to lead Prospect Lake to a 4-1 victory over the Falcons.

RAMS RALLY TO CAPTURE GRID TITLE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Exploding for three touchdowns in the second half, Regina Rams overpowered the lighter Vancouver Meralomas in the rain at Empire Stadium Sunday for an easy 34-12 victory and the Western Canadian Junior Football championship.

For the Rams, it was a repeat of last season when they whipped the Meralomas 49-21 for the western crown. They went on to defeat Burlington, Ont., for the Canadian title.

Aided by Regina turnovers, the Vancouver squad jumped into a 6-0 lead in the first quarter and trailed by only a single point, 13-12, at the half. But they couldn't hold the Rams in check in the second half and Regina won going away.

Shutout-Minded Pair Shares Hockey Title

Try as they did Saturday, Mt. Douglas and defending champion Queen Margaret of Duncan couldn't decide who would take the Vancouver Island girls high school field hockey title this year.

In the end, they both won it.

Both teams breezed through preliminary round-robin play with three shutout victories, blanked all opposition again in the semi-finals, and struggled through 40 minutes of regulation time and three overtime periods Saturday before settling for a scoreless tie at Lansdowne Junior High School to share the Island crown.

Now it's on to the 16-team B.C. tournament Friday and Saturday at the University of Victoria, where the two finalists will be joined by Norfolk House, Cowichan and defending provincial-champion Oak Bay.

Esquimalt and Oak Bay finished in a tie for fifth place and the last qualifying invitation to the B.C. meet, but the Bays got the call on the strength of their superior goals-for-and-against record.

Judge 'Bombed'

Times News Services

STRAWBERRY PLAINS, Tenn. — A navy fighter-bomber accidentally dropped an air-to-surface missile on the home of a judge during a training flight Sunday morning, causing serious damage but no injuries, military spokesmen said.

A spokesman for the defence department said the plane, an AP4 Skyhawk, apparently returned without further trouble to the naval air station in Atlanta, Ga., after the mishap.

The spokesman said it was not known immediately what may have caused the accident.

The 900-pound missile fell through the roof of the home of Judge James Parrott of the Tennessee Court of Criminal Appeals.

The Pentagon said the missile was inert during what was described as "a routine reserve flight."

The 900-pound dummy bomb fell with a whistling roar.

Al Parrott, 15, said "I've never heard anything that loud before.

"I jumped up and tried to run out of the house, but I couldn't because there was a big hole in the floor of the hall," he said.

"The missile went right through the middle of the house and crashed through two floors and finally stopped when it hit a car in the driveway near the swimming pool," said the judge.

KOSYGIN ENDS CUBAN TOUR

By DUSKO DODER

HAVANA (WP) — Premier Alexei Kosygin flew back to Moscow Saturday, ending a four-day visit here designed to show ever closer ties between the Soviet Union and Cuba.

Both Soviet and Cuban officials stressed privately that the visit was "very successful." A joint communique on talks between Kosygin and Premier Fidel Castro was to be made public later today. During Kosygin's visit here in 1967, Soviet-Cuban relations were at a low point and no communique was issued.

Kosygin's presence capped a two-year period of growing contacts between Havana and Moscow that resulted in increased Soviet aid to Cuba amounting to roughly 1.5 million daily as well as Castro's growing acceptance of the Soviet foreign policy line.

Emphasizing the friendly and relaxed atmosphere of the visit, Castro Saturday took an unusual step by flying Kosygin to the foothills of Sierra Maestra in Oriente Province, where the Cuban revolutionary movement was born in 1953.

"We were not Communist at that time," Castro told Kosygin as they visited a farmhouse in which Castro and some 120 rebels plotted an attack on government military barracks in Santiago de Cuba, some eight miles to the south.

Castro, 46, dressed in fatigue uniform and Kosygin, 67, wearing a short-sleeved shirt and a Cuban army cap, spent about one hour inside the farmhouse where Castro described in detail the tortuous path that led him from Sierra Maestra to power in Havana and eventually converted him to Communism.

Saturday, the Cubans gave the Soviet premier a warm sendoff, with the entire Cuban leadership present at the airport. Kosygin responded by embracing and kissing Castro and his brother, Defence Minister Raoul Castro.

Throughout his stay here, Kosygin appeared to be in high spirits and more relaxed than during his immediately preceding Canadian tour.

Speedy Brezhnev

PARIS (WP) — French President Georges pompidou gave last week's state visitor to France a metallic green "SM Citroen-Maserati," a fast and expensive French sports car. When Leonid Brezhnev of the Soviet Union saw his gift, he was so excited that he played with it for more than 20 minutes, disrupting his official schedule.

During his six days in France Brezhnev did most of the talking. He told a great many jokes, one French official relates, "some of them funny." Much of his humor was directed at his own foreign secretary, Andrei Gromyko.

In Marseilles visiting a French firm that specializes in undersea exploration, Brezhnev announced that he would not get into one of the capsules which the firm sends to the bottom of the ocean. But Gromyko, Brezhnev said, could live in one of those capsules on the floor of the Mediterranean for three months — he had the boss's permission.

'Pollution . . . Not Cyanide'

"Industrial pollution" — not cyanide — likely killed hundreds of birds in Prince Rupert on Sept. 28, Rory Finegan, B.C. Fish and Wildlife Department biologist, said today.

He was commenting on a federal government agricultural department press release which said the deaths may have been caused by a high content of cyanide in berries.

Three out of seven birds teasted by Ottawa scientists had 15 to 200 parts per million of cyanide in them. A minute natural content of cyanide draws birds to berries, but this content increases from herbicide spray or from wilting due to frost.

Finegan said, however, if cyanide was the cause it would have caused a "catastrophic mortality" throughout the province.

Some of the seven or eight species of birds which were affected that day were strictly local, and therefore the cause must have been local, Finegan said.

On that day, according to residents, there was a bad smog hanging over Prince Rupert.

A smog that could make people choke and their eyes smart could be enough to kill birds, he said.

Earlier tests revealed that emission of sulphur dioxide from Columbia Cellulose pulp mill could have caused the deaths.

'Subversive' Anglican Dean Gets 5 Years in Prison

PRETORIA (AP) — The Anglican dean of Johannesburg, South Africa, was convicted Monday of subversion and sentenced to five years in prison.

Very Rev. Gonville A. ffrench-Beytagh was permitted to remain free on bail pending an appeal.

As Justice Petrus M. Cillie read the judgment, a spectator leaped to his feet and shouted: "This is a show trial." A policeman covered the man's mouth and hustled him out of the court.

Cillie said Dean ffrench-Beytagh was guilty of inciting or encouraging members of the Black Sash, a civil rights organization of women, to contravene the law. The clergyman had pleaded not guilty to charges in an indictment under the Terrorism Act.

Cillie told him: "I believe you acted out of conviction. In view of the position you have in the country and in the church, I think this is a case where I can impose a minimum sentence. I therefore sentence you to five years..."

If convicted on the most serious charge, Dean ffrench-Beytagh could have faced the death penalty.

Women wept in the crowded court as judgment was passed.

The authorities will continue to hold the dean's British passport during the appeal process and he must report in person once a week to police.

After Cillie finished reading the judgment, but before sentence was passed, defence counsel Sidney Kentridge told the court that his client "did what he did out of a sense of duty to God and man."

"He takes full responsibility for what he has done and for what has been done in his name."

India Hits Back

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Indian troops struck back and silenced Pakistani guns that had been shelling the town of Kamalpur on India's border with East Pakistan for 11 days, an Indian defence ministry official said today. He called the frontier incident "serious."

The official, joint defence secretary P. Krishnamurthi, also said that Indian anti-aircraft batteries fired on Pakistani aircraft that crossed the western frontier today and flew over the airport at Srinagar, capital of Kashmir.

The official radio Pakistan said that Indian troops had made two attacks in company strength during the day across the border into East Pakistan in an area north of the Kamalpur sector.

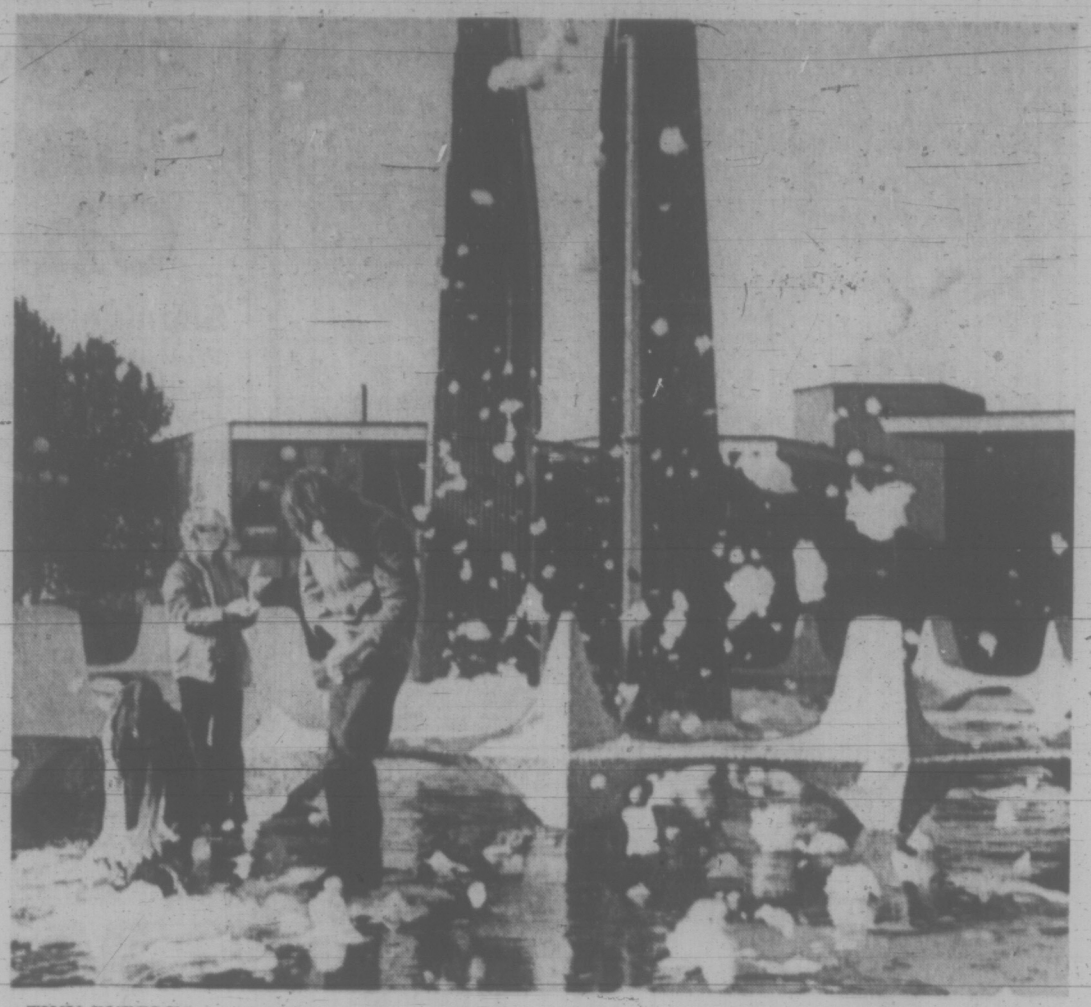
The Press Trust of India quoted official sources in Calcutta as saying today the government is placing all areas bordering East Pakistan off limits to foreigners without special permission. The news agency said no reason was given for the action but that there had been allegations of "espionage" by foreigners in the areas.

Krishnamurthi said in reply to a question that it was the first time retaliatory measures of the type had been taken. He said he did not know how many troops were involved.

He described as "a serious incident" the latest clash reported between Indian and Pakistani forces in the build-up of troops along their borders as a result of tensions arising from the East Pakistan civil war.

Radio Pakistan said the two Indian attacks were beaten off with a total of 32 Indians killed and 21 wounded. It said the attacks were launched after an artillery barrage.

The radio also said that Indian forces made another attack on a Pakistani post along the border with India's West Bengal state today. Three Indians were killed in the fighting, it said.



TINY BUBBLES create quite a problem today for city workmen after Halloween pranksters Sunday pulled the old bubble-bath-in-the-fountain trick at Centennial Square. Someone apparently thought the public monument needed a bit of a wash. Police didn't laugh too hard, however. They apprehended three youths Sunday shortly after the stunt.

Job Picture All Gloomy

Times News Services

OTTAWA — Gloomy forecasts for the winter's employment outlook prevailed as finance ministers and officials from the 10 provinces met Finance Minister E. J. Benson today.

Mr. Benson told the conference all signs point up for strong economic growth, but unemployment remains the primary problem.

Premier Allan Blakeney of Saskatchewan and Finance Minister Saul Cherniack of Manitoba criticized the federal government for acting too slowly and timidly in fighting unemployment.

Provincial Treasurer Darcy McKeough of Ontario caught the attention of conference delegates by releasing his main policy paper to reporters Sunday night. It called for credits on personal income tax to offset part of the burden of sales and property taxes on lower-income families.

WANT MORE DIALOGUE

Ontario also called for a revitalization of the process of federal-provincial tax and fiscal policy consultations.

Manitoba's analysis of unemployment prospects, tabled by Mr. Cherniack, showed unemployment declining only slightly next summer and then growing ominously again in the winter of 1972-73 almost to its current levels.

"These figures paint a bleak picture," the Manitoba brief said. "The unemployment rate falls only slightly as the effects of the recent federal measures work their way through the economy.

"The effect of the measures diminishes rapidly at the end of next year and unemployment for the following winter rises to exceed the levels predicted for this winter."

NOTES FORWARD THRUST

Ottawa has not made public its own forecasts for unemployment for the coming year.

Mr. Benson said there is a forward thrust in demand, production and employment, sparked by healthy consumer spending and government outlays. But he added that unemployment still looms large.

He said also that the cost of living rise appears to have

Quebec Again Says No

OTTAWA (CP) — The Quebec government says it won't participate in some federal measures to combat winter unemployment unless they are placed under greater provincial control.

In a statement today to a meeting of federal and provincial finance ministers, Quebec Finance Minister Raymond Garneau rejected a $50-million federal program of grants to community organizations undertaking winter works projects.

"Our government shall not participate in the administration of such a program and we wish to make it very clear that we will not undertake any share of the financing of such new projects unless they can be approved and assisted by virtue of already-existing provincial programs or budgets."

Britain on Full Alert After London Blasts

LONDON (CP-AP) — British authorities went on a full alert in Britain today following two bomb blasts in London while in Belfast terrorists killed two policemen in a machine-gun ambush.

Earlier in Belfast, another bomb was detonated in a downtown department store blowing debris and shattered glass into the street.

There were no deaths in either the London or Belfast bombings.

One bomb in London at 1:45 a.m. blasted the headquarters of the Royal Tank Regiment a quarter of a mile from Parliament. Earlier, the other ripped a gaping hole in the 31st floor of the Post Office Tower, the highest building in Britain.

First reports indicated the tower was blasted by the outlawed Irish Republican Army. But the IRA in Dublin, usually quick to claim the credit for anti-British bomb attacks, denied planting the tower bomb.

A Belfast police spokesman said the two detectives were gunned down in a suburban avenue when they went to investigate a reported burglary at a newspaper shop.

The killings took the two-year death toll in the fighting between Protestants and Roman Catholics in troubled Northern Ireland to 146, 12 of them police officers.

In the Belfast bombings, attributed to the IRA guerrillas, the blast injured six shoppers and pedestrians in the morning rush-hour crowd outside.

LIGHT BOMB FUSE

The bomb, wrapped in a duffel bag, blew out the ground floor of the Automobile Association, and a radio centre on Great Victoria Street. Ambulances rushed the injured, most of them cut by flying glass, to hospital.

The bomb was planted in broad daylight as shops and offices opened. An office clerk said two men armed with pistols walked into the building, lit the bomb fuse and yelled "you've got four minutes to get out."

Terrified office workers fled before the blast blew debris and shattered glass into the street.

Gunmen wearing masks invaded three more border customs posts Sunday night and today, forced the occupants to leave and planted bombs which destroyed the structures, an army spokesman said.

There were no injuries.

The attacks on the posts at Kinawley, Stabane and Belleek came 24 hours after similar bombing raids destroyed eight other customs posts along the Northern Ireland-Irish republic border. The weekend attacks left only six posts still operative.

The death toll from violence increased by four over the weekend, bringing to at least 109 the number killed since August, 1969, when the army was called in to put down rioting.

In London, a mystery telephone call claimed both explosions there were set off by The Angry Brigade, a secret anarchist movement dedicated to wrecking British society by violence.

GROUP BLAMED BEFORE

An anonymous telephone call to the British Press Association claimed the Post Office Tower bombing was to protest Britain's entry into the Common Market and the blast at the army barracks was to demonstrate against the British government's handling of the crisis in Northern Ireland.

The Angry Brigade has been blamed for half a dozen previous explosions in London, including blasts at the home of a government minister and the head of the Scotland Yard police force.

BLACKFALDS, Alta. (CP) — Alfred Ralph Appema, 17, of Blackfalds was killed Sunday when his car struck a barricade of straw bales which police said were placed by Halloween pranksters. Police said charges would be laid if the pranksters are found.

Airport Tussle

LONDON (CP) — Thousands of demonstrators struggled with police today in an angry protest by Heathrow Airport workers against operations of the Canadian-owned company General Aviation Services. Workers fear the use of the company will cost jobs at Heathrow.

Bishops Defiant

ROME (UPI) — Ukrainian Catholic bishops announced flatly today they are holding a synod in defiance of a Vatican ban on such a self-governing assembly.

Last Protest Before Blast

Plans are being made in Victoria today for a last-ditch protest Wednesday of the proposed nuclear test blast on Amchitka Island.

A meeting is scheduled for tonight at St. John's Anglican Church at 7:30 p.m. to organize the local protest, which will include high school and university students and supporters of the Amchitka Two protest group.

There is still some confusion of the time the protest Wednesday will take place, but organizers are trying to arrange an afternoon of speeches at Centennial Square, starting at 1:15 p.m.

SHUTDOWN CALL

Latest report indicates the test blast is scheduled for Thursday. In Washington, a federal judge turned down requests by American environmentalists to halt the explosion. U.S. District Judge George Hart's ruling frees lawyers for groups protesting the blast to file an immediate appeal to a higher court.

Meanwhile, the B.C. Federation of Labor has called for a half-hour "shutdown for survival" between 11 and 11:30 a.m. Wednesday to protest the explosion.

The 150,000 members of affiliated unions in the labor group were asked to cease work Wednesday to "emphasize our horror" at the test, said federation secretary Ray Haynes.

F. G. Peskett, president of the Employers Council of B.C., said his organization does not plan to take any position in face of the move by the labor federation.

WALK OUT

However, he hoped employees who stop work Wednesday will not expect to be paid for it.

Some students have indicated they plan to walk out of Victoria schools at 11 a.m. Wednesday but nothing definite will be scheduled until tonight's meeting.

Greater Victoria school board chairman Allan McKinnon said today he would have preferred the protest to take place on a Saturday or Sun-

CONSULATE BOMB TARGET

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg police have placed the United States consulate building as well as the home of consul-general William B. Kelly under 24-hour observation following an attempted fire-bombing of the consulate early today.

Police said a young man, believed between 20 and 25 years of age, attempted to throw a Molotov cocktail fire bomb into the furnace room of the building about 1:15 a.m.

Police said the can of gasoline was thrown through a window, but hit the furnace which rests against the window and bounced back out. The burning fuse extinguished itself in the snow.

No arrests have been made.

Kelly said the consulate and his home will be under constant watch by police until Friday, the deadline for the U.S. nuclear test on Amchitka Island.

Kelly said he feels sure the attempted bombing was to protest the five-megaton test in the Aleutian Islands.

Oil Kills Birds

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Between 100 and 150 birds have been injured or killed in a navy fuel oil spill in San Diego Bay, state wildlife officials say. Commander C. C. Edwards of the naval station confirmed Sunday that a ship lost 1,000 to 1,500 gallons of distillate fuel oil.

Toll 15,000 In Tidal Wave

NEW DELHI (AP) — A 16-foot tidal wave swept through villages along the Bay of Bengal last Friday and local political leaders estimated, after a tour of the area, that 15,000 persons, perhaps as many as 20,000, had died.

The Indian government radio reported that at least a million homes had been destroyed or damaged so severely as to leave four million persons homeless in the newest disaster to afflict the Indian subcontinent.

The Cuttack and Balasore districts of eastern Orissa State, 150 miles southeast of Calcutta, appeared to be the areas hardest hit by the tidal wave and accompanying cyclonic winds of up to 100 miles an hour.

The Times of India, in a dispatch from Cuttack, said air drops of food were urgently required in some areas where all roads, rail lines and air strips had been flooded or destroyed.

300,000 DIED IN 1970

A similar tidal wave last November killed at least 300,000 persons in the Gange River basin in East Pakistan, 300 miles northeast of this weekend's disaster area.

The latest storm passed Sunday from Orissa to neighboring West Bengal state, destroying homes and rice crops in coastal villages that only two months ago were ravaged by the annual monsoon floods.

The area in West Bengal is filled with East Pakistani refugee camps, although initial reports said most of the camps had escaped the brunt of the storm.

Quebec Evacuation

SHIPSHAW, Que. (CP) — An earth movement a mile from the scene of an earlier slide that killed 31 persons brought the evacuation Sunday of 285 residents of the town 115 miles north of Quebec City.

Forty-nine families in the east end of Shipshaw were evacuated on orders of government geologists.

The earth movement covered an area 125 feet wide.

It was about a mile from the slide at St. Jean Vianney May 4 which swept more than 40 homes into a huge crater and forced abandonment of the town.

Those evacuated spent the night in a junior college in nearby Jonquiere. However, it was not known how long the 49 families would remain there.

Desperate Mother Smashes Window in Food Depot

MONTREAL (CP) — A desperate mother of three smashed the windows of an emergency food depot in the southwest district of Point St. Charles Sunday night when she was told there was no food for her children.

"I did it because my babies were starving and no one would listen, said the unidentified woman. "What else could I do?"

The depot was expecting supplies gathered at an emergency food drive held this weekend in this poverty-ridden area. The drive was organized to help welfare recipients last through October, an especially difficult month this year.

Recipients are mailed welfare cheques once a month, but the cheques are geared to cover a normal four-week month. This October welfare recipients have to hold out a fifth week before receiving November's allotment.

The owners of the food depot refused to press charges, and the woman, who suffered a cut right foot from the flying glass, was released by police.

The woman's children, aged three months to five years, were temporarily abandoned during the incident. They were later fed milk and potato chips.

Stopgap Aid Bill Likely As Nixon Draws New Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate foreign relations committee confers today amid the ruins of the U.S. foreign aid program to start deciding whether, when and how to put it together.

Senator J. W. Fulbright, the committee chairman, predicted Senate approval of a stopgap aid program, although he said the committe may do no more than discuss the alternatives today.

President Nixon let it be known he wants temporary extension of a co-ordinated aid bill while he drafts a new assistance program.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott also urged passage of an interim program and called on Congress to develop a new bill "to keep the peace." He said he supports temporary extension of aid at existing levels.

METHOD IS DOUBT

The prospect was that major portions of the program would indeed be salvaged despite the Senate vote that killed a bill authorizing $2.9 billion to keep overseas assistance flowing.

Exactly how was another question. The resolution under which the aid program and the agency that runs it are financed will expire in 15 days.

The White House said Sunday Nixon rejects the idea of piecemeal appropriations for one or another of the aid programs included in the defeated bill.

If the temporary extension is approved, officials said, Nixon then plans to prepare and push for enactment of an entirely new aid program.

Fulbright said Sunday he foresees continuation of the more popular aid programs, although attempts to include military assistance could endanger any revival efforts.

Interviewed on the CBS news program Face the Nation, Fulbright did not rule out continuation of military aid to South Vietnam although he said such programs are "sticking points" threatening passage.

One program likely to be continued, he said, is money for Pakistani refugees.

PEKING FLAG FLIES AT UN

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The red flag of Communist China was hoisted for the first time today outside the United Nations, and diplomatic sources said Peking would move rapidly to assume its position as the fifth world power at the UN.

The red flag, bearing five gold stars, was listed as that of "China, the People's Republic of." A number of police cars were dispatched to the area but no protesters showed up as expected to denounce the Communists.

Although Peking is expected to move quickly to establish itself in the United Nations, UN sources said Peking still had not said exactly what day its representatives would arrive, or supplied a name list.

U.S. Ambassador George Bush, who lost his fight to retain Nationalist China's seat in the body, predicted Sunday that admission of Peking would bring about a triangulation of power in the UN.

If the Baboon Talks Simply Nod and Smile

Squirrel-like, I have been saving these bizarre notes on the experiments conducted by the Electrical Engineering Department of Imperial College, London, for just the right moment and, by George the moment has arrived.

On my desk is a cordial invitation to attend a wine and cheese party tomorrow night to mark the opening of the new Fraser Book Bin in the Hillside Mall and an equally cordial invitation, four days later, to attend an Empress Hotel breakfast marking the publication of Pierre Berton's "The Last Spike" at which a cocktail called The Last Spike will doubtless disarm the literary critics.

This, of course, is just the beginning. We are on the very edge of the pit known as the Cocktail Party Season that is a predictable, unavoidable prelude to Christmas, those congealed globs of babbling humanity notorious for reducing the niceties of social intercourse to a level of intolerable chaos.

What has this to do with experiments at the Imperial College? I was afraid that you might never ask. In brief, the aim of the Engineering Department was to shed new light on how the human mind makes use of the sense of hearing, a study vitally important in the field of electronic communication. To this end, the students set up conditions exactly simulating a typical, noisome cocktail party. All that was missing was the booze, those little crackers festooned with bits of linoleum and plasticine and researchers wearing lamp-shades.

How does the ear seize a particular thread of sound and follow it through a morass of extraneous chatter? That was the question and, indeed, one that we have all plaintively asked ourselves many times between the hours of five and seven as a roomful of rotten people went slowly around the bend.

★ ★ ★

The answers are still in the making, it seems, but certain preliminary findings are enough to substantiate the worse suspicions of anyone who has been trapped at such a gathering and vowed that it would never happen again.

Perhaps the most vital of these is the conclusion that the cocktail party listener does not hear actual, informative or even declamatory sentences, but only "characteristic noises" and that the ear, in this case, relies entirely on past experiences.

In other words one need only to field a phrase or two, and to size up the speaker, to be able to give the appearance of listening intelligently to an interminable discourse that, in fact, may be no more intelligible than the mutterings of baboons in tree tops.

It seems evident, indeed, that if you could teach a baboon two or three key words or phrases — let's say "Amchitka," "President Nixon" and "Jerk" — he could carry on a non-stop cocktail party dialogue without ever being identified as man or beast.

What transpires, then, is very similar to what happens when a large group of seagulls congregate at dusk by the Esquimalt Lagoon. At least half the gulls are screaming, mewing and cackling simultaneously and actually communicating in a specific and often graphic gull language which ornithologists have spelled out phonetically, yet saying nothing whatever.

It is enough for the gull who is the good listener, just as it is for the human listener at the cocktail party, to recognize a familiar sound and vocabulary. It is only when this rapport is lost — if, for example, the baboon, to go back to him, were to step out of character and suddenly start talking about the relative merits of Courtney Haddock and Peter Pollen — that the listener loses contact and the panic sets in.

★ ★ ★

The Imperial College researchers have carried this a step further and concluded that a human being may attend a cocktail party composed entirely of native tribesmen speaking Kikuyu and still give the appearance of hanging on every word.

The trick, it appears, is the ability to locate one specific sound in a cacophony of other distracting sounds. This led to one of the more spectacular conclusions, namely that a one-eared guest at a cocktail party could easily lose his mind!

With two ears, you see, the head may be aimed directly at a speaker so that the sounds he is making flow in evenly from both sides and gather in the middle of the brain, rather like a large ball of heavy wool. This has the effect of excluding other sounds and so the listener, as the researchers put it, becomes "discriminating." He may not know what in the world the speaker is talking about but he does hear him and is wool-gathering all the time.

In the case of the one-eared cocktail party-goer, on the other hand, sounds tend to register on the left side of his brain (if his right ear is gone, you fool) and this destroys his concentration, allows all sorts of sounds to pile up in a hopeless jumble and produces what the researchers call a "shushing" noise that might unhinge him.

Ideally, it seems, the listener should have an ear located frontally, perhaps mid-way on the forehead, and if the good Lord had meant us to go to cocktail parties that's where it would be.

The party for Mr. Berton will doubtless provide more clinical evidence since The Last Spike Cocktail, to be served at 8:30 in the morning, consists of four ounces of champagne, one-third ounce of curacao, two-thirds ounce of cognac, a dash of orange bitters and a slice of fresh orange. If you are there and find yourself in a conversation with a baboon or a seagull just smile and nod and repeatedly murmur "How true!"

Dumping By Navy To End

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

Dumping of raw sewage into Esquimalt waters will soon be long.

Two Victoria companies have been given contracts to install sewage collection systems at CFB Esquimalt.

AWARDED CONTRACT

Chew Excavating Ltd. were awarded a contract of more than $325,882 to install the system at the former Naden base.

A spokesman said they began working "a week or so ago" and are scheduled to complete their part of the project by late-April or May.

Webb and Trace Ltd. will begin work Nov. 15 on a $576,000 contract for the dockyard installation. Depending on the amount of rock they encounter, a spokesman said they hope to complete their assignment by late March.

PUMP STATION

When the new installations are finished, the Naden one being hooked up to Esquimalt's new pump station at Lang Cove (between the dockyard and the base), they will tie into the municipality's sewer system, and the sewage being disposed of via the Macaulay Point outfall.

The third phase of the base's sewage program will be the installation of another system for the Signal Hill area.

Plans are now being drawn up for this project by the Victoria consultant company of Ker, Priestman and Keenan Associates Ltd.

MAYOR DELIGHTED

Esquimalt Mayor Art Young said today he is "delighted" that the department of national defence had taken steps to eliminate future pollution of the harbor.

More than 6,000 civilian and military personnel use the naval facilities.

Steps will also be taken to ensure that there is no dumping of raw sewage in the harbor when naval vessels are at dockside.

A service spokesman said the ships will be connected to the new systems when they are alongside and planning for this is well under way.

Davis Denies His Ministry Favors Hydro on Pollution

A charge that the federal fisheries department is discriminatory in its application of justice was dismissed as unjustified by Environment Minister Jack Davis in Victoria Saturday.

He was referring to a statement made by Dick Kosick, divisional forester for Tahsis Co., who told a recent meeting of the Canadian Institute of Forestry that the fisheries department prosecuted logging companies, but too often did not press charges against provincial government departments, towns or cities and above all B.C. Hydro.

'LITTLE DAMAGE'

Davis, who is also fisheries minister, said B.C. Hydro has done little damage compared to the "mess" logging companies have done to fisheries streams in the province.

He said B.C. Hydro is co-operating with his department and has released water for spawning salmon when requested.

"It may be true in the past that charges have not been pressed against B.C. Hydro and other Crown corporations," he said, "But this has changed."

He noted a year ago the Fisheries Act was amended to permit his department to prosecute all Crown corporations — federal and provincial — if they damaged salmon streams and rivers.

NEW SITUATION

This is a new situation in law, he pointed out.

The minister visited Goldstream with Howard English, a director of B.C. Wildlife Federation, and Brian Englis, president of the Amalgamated Conservation Society, to watch the salmon moving upstream and to discuss the problem of providing sufficient water in the river for the fish.

Water was released from the Sooke Watershed Saturday — eight days earlier than last year — by water commissioner Ron Upward to ease the movement of the spawning salmon.

About 1,500 people were at Goldstream Sunday to watch the natural phenomenon.

English told the minister the water board co-operated in maintaining a minimum flow of water in Goldstream this summer to protect the salmon fry but dragged its feet in releasing water earlier in October.

SPAWNING

He said conservationists wanted the water released by Oct. 24 to permit early-spawning coho and spring to swim upstream to their spawning beds.

He said he disagreed with Upward that the help-the-salmon operation had cost $136,000 — based on the price the board charges municipalities.

"The water board gets the water free from winter, fall and spring rains and admits that it has ample water for at least 20 years," he said. "Upward is putting a price tag on water regardless of the fact that he gets the water free and has an ample supply."

English said the water board is trying to charge the fish for the water, or to put it another way, make the federal government pay for water for the salmon.

"If we accept Upward's principle of costs, then he should charge Sooke residents for using Sooke River water for swimming," he pointed out. "What he is saying is 'I've got control of the water and you are going to pay for it'."

English told Davis that conservationists contend that it is the responsibility of the board to protect fish, to preserve the quality of the stream for recreation and esthetic reasons.

"The water belongs to the people and it is the duty of the board to maintain the quality of environment for the citizens of the capital region," he said.

'NO REASON'

English noted that the fisheries department has forced industry as well as B.C. Hydro to preserve the quality of streams.

"There is no reason why it shouldn't press the water board to do the same," he said.

Davis said he saw no reason why the board should not release water earlier in October as it had admitted there was an ample supply of water in the watershed.

He said he would take the matter up with fisheries officials in Vancouver.

Saanich Booms In Building

Construction activity in Saanich more than doubled in October.

Permits worth $1.2 million were issued last month compared with $512,030 in the same month last year. Residential construction jumped to $575,670 from $292,523.

Biggest permits issued in October were $200,000 for a retail store and warehouse at 3400 Douglas Street and $350,000 for a 31-unit townhouse development at 4051-4061 Shelbourne Street.

Permits worth $15.9 million have been issued this year compared with $11.6 million for the first 10 months of 1970.

Welfare Patient 'Stuffing' Charged by B.C. Hospitals Head

Welfare recipients who normally would be put into private hospitals are being placed in acute care beds or are being "stuffed" into rest homes, Russell Shepherd of Vancouver, president of the B.C. Association of Private Hospitals, said today.

Shepherd said municipalities are putting welfare cases into acute care hospitals because of recent court actions against them by private hospitals seeking reimbursement for the welfare patient care.

On the other hand, Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi "is stuffing them into boarding houses where they don't get proper care" and which costs the government much less than for private hospitals.

Shepherd was commenting on the refusal by Simon Fraser Private Hospital in Prince George to admit welfare patients.

WARNING

Gene Dusseault, Simon Fraser administrator, said she has been carrying out this policy, along with Glengarry and Glenwarren hospitals in Victoria, for the past three weeks, despite an availability of beds.

George Hoyte, administrator of Glengarry and Glenwarren, said today the hospitals haven't taken in a welfare patient in two years because they already have 48 of them in now.

Shepherd said, however, it is the policy of private hospitals to take in welfare cases from municipalities with the warning that the fee is pending on court action.

Private hospitals now get $9.25 a day for welfare cases, 85 per cent of which is paid by the provincial government; and 15 per cent by the municipality. About 30 private hospitals are now suing municipalities for the difference between the $9.25 and the $12 a day they say a welfare patient costs them.

The city of Victoria is being sued for a total of $268,000 by Glengarry, Glenwarren and Aberdeen private hospitals.

City welfare director Alex Davidson declined today to say where Shepherd's charges were true locally.

"I'm afraid I can't give you an answer. It's too complicated a question."

John Hanrahan, vice-president of the B.C. Rest Homes Association, said rest homes haven't been getting any increased welfare business lately although they are now being given a better financial deal from Gaglardi. Where they used to get just $150 a month for custodial care, they can now charge up to $225 for patients needing special care, he said. But he added that they were not taking in persons who need proper hospital care.

Saanich welfare administrator John Gibson said he has had no change of policy in placement of welfare patients. "It always has been difficult to get anyone into a private hospital," he said.

Shepherd said the private hospital association would be presenting Gaglardi with a brief within two weeks spelling out the inequities of the welfare patient situation.

He said putting welfare patients into acute care not only ties up beds for persons who really need acute care but costs the taxpayer up to $60 a day.

"There are welfare patients in Vancouver General Hospital who need as much acute care as you or me."

He said whenever extended-care beds become available "the guy who can pay" is taken from private hospitals and put into them.

"The poor old pensioner who has to give up all of his pension to the provincial government for private hospital care is left where he is."

He said if the pensioner went into an extended-care hospital he would only have to give up $30 a month.

SECOND UVIC VOTE SLATED FOR TODAY

Students at the University of Victoria go to the polls again today to elect Representative Assembly members and representatives to the Uvic senate.

Elections held Oct. 12 were invalidated by the students' council after irregularities were charged. A recount of some of the races produced large discrepancies in vote totals.

Also to be voted on are several referendums including one which would cut students' contribution to athletics from $6 to $4.

Fire Damage Totals $20,000

Two fires Sunday, one in the city and the other in Saanich, caused about $20,000 damage.

Victoria Deputy Fire Chief Carl Coates said today investigators are looking for the cause, believed to be electrical, of a blaze at 2848 Doncaster about 3 a.m. Sunday.

$12,000 DAMAGE

He said about $12,000 damage was done to the home of Mel Ervel and family.

The family went to Vancouver Friday, the deputy said, and a tenant, Danny Talbert, left the house Saturday morning.

The fire started in the basement, burned through the outside wall, and worked its way to the roof by going up inside walls.

Coates said a rear section of the roof burnt away and there was smoke damage to rooms on the main floor.

OIL VAPORS

He said the fittings of the 250-gallon oil tank in the basement had melted and oil vapors were burning when firemen arrived.

Saanich officials estimate damage at $8,000 in a fire that destroyed a building at 1376 Blueridge Road about 1 a.m. Sunday. The cause is not determined.

The building was owned by Mrs. Margaret Mackintosh of Mackintosh Greenhouses, 4023 Holland.

Ask the Times

Q. Can you give me the average or mean rainfall in Victoria for the past five years for the period from September to May? — E.A.K.

A. The average rainfall at Gonzales Hill for these five years is 28.58 inches and at the Victoria International Airport, 40.62 inches. However, this period in 1967 was particularly wet, raising the total average abnormally. Over a 30-year period the Gonzales Hill averages would be 26 inches of rain and 12 inches of snow while at the airport it would be 32 inches of rain and 17 inches of snow.

Age Limits Change For B.C. 4-H Clubs

The official age limits for 4-H club members in British Columbia have been changed from 10 to 21 years to nine to 19 years, bringing in line the upper age limit with the legal age of majority.

In making the announcement, Minister of Agriculture Cyril Shelford said the new age range would make the 4-H program available to a greater cross-section of rural young people.

The program has also been expanded recently to include leathercraft, outdoor living, range management, crafts, entomology and horse projects.

Commissioners Named

Three regional commissioners for the Victoria area have been appointed to serve on the Commission on the Public's Role in Education, a fact-finding project set up by the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation.

They are David Dunsmuir, representative of the Graduate Student Society on the University of Victoria Senate, former Saanich school board chairman Mrs. Rubymay Parrott and Miss Marie Cooper.

The three are among 41 commissioners who will provide community liaison for the commission as it visits 20 B.C. centres between Nov. 15 and Dec. 11.

A statement today from the commission said its task will be "to uncover attitudes and concerns of all citizens towards public education, and to assess the kinds of involvement in education that people desire today."

The Victoria hearings have been set for Dec. 10 and 11. Citizens and groups are invited to make written and verbal submissions to the commission.

Pay Hikes Decrease

Collectively-bargained wage settlements in the third quarter of this year showed a lower rate of increase than those in the same period last year, the federal labor department reports.

Average wage settlements for the third quarter were 8.1 per cent compared with 8.8 per cent in the third quarter of 1970.

The figures are based on an analysis of agreements covering 500 or more workers, except those in construction.

Halloween Rain More a Trick Than a Treat

As Halloweens go, Sunday night's effort in Greater Victoria has to be considered pretty tame.

The little hobgoblins and spooks usually found in abundance after dusk on Halloween night did not appear in nearly as great numbers as in previous years.

Weather conditions had a lot to do with it, as the 0.45 inches of rain which fell Sunday afternoon and evening were enough to dampen the spirits of even the most ardent trick-or-treaters.

LITTLE TO REPORT

Police and fire authorities had little to report about Halloween-related injuries or property damage.

The only significant incident was the reporting of a razor blade stuck in an apple and offered as a Halloween treat in Victoria West.

Victoria fire department got a call at 11:19 p.m. Sunday reporting a house on fire at 605 Moss. It turned out that a skyrocket was let off on the front lawn of the premises and the woman inside mistook the reflection for flames.

In the vandalism category, only a few incidents were reported. Two bottles filled with gas were ignited on the grounds of Sir James Douglas Elementary at about 6:30 p.m. The bottles were still burning when firemen arrived.

Langford volunteer fire department reported five fire hydrants turned on.

FAVORITE PRANK

Probably one of the all-time favorite pranks resulted in workmen today cleaning soap bubbles out of the fountain in Centennial Square. Three youths were reportedly detained by police after the incident Sunday night.

Sunday's rain also interfered with traditional fireworks displays. Langford firemen postponed their display to Tuesday night at 6:45 p.m. at Centennial Park, Carlew Road, Langford.

Royal Jubilee Hospital reported only one person treated for injuries, a minor hand burn connected with firecrackers.
